

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

VERY single record which tends to throw light upon the Monastic History of England, illustrates, at the same time, in almost every instance, the civil history of the kingdom. A collection of such records, the carefully-preserved Charters and Account Rolls, and other Documents, of a Religious Establishment from its Foundation to its Dissolution, is here presented to the public, abounding with the most interesting details in illustration of the Benedictine Institute, of the history, philology, statistics, manners, and customs of the kingdom at large, and the biography of individuals, and claims, with a concentrated force, the attention of those to whom the civil and religious history of England is a subject of interest or inquiry. These records are, with one or two exceptions, preserved in the Treasury of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, and are printed by their kind permission.* The place of custody of the exceptions is given in the pages where they occur. Those printed from Mr. Surtees's transcripts have been collated with the originals in the Treasury.

In the latter half of the 12th century, certainly after the year 1180,* Henry de Puteacho,† or Pudsey, having become possessed of the vills of Windegate and Essewell (Wingate and Haswell), near Durham, founded a monastery at the latter place, and conferred the two upon persons of a religious order, which, however, is not named; but that they were a branch from the Church of Gisburne or Gisborough, in Yorkshire, may not be doubted. In the charter of a subsequent benefactor, the newly-founded monastery is called the Church of St. Mary of Hessa-well. The Charters and other particulars relative to these transactions, with the previous history of the estates, is contained in the first seven pages of that part of this volume devoted to CHARTERS, &c. A doubt, however, may arise, whether the building of any ecclesiastical edifice was ever actually commenced at Haswell,‡ as we almost immediately afterwards find the same, and other more extensive possessions, conferred by

* See CHARTER, p. 4.

† Henry de Puteacho, Pusato, &c. for his name is written in various ways, was one of the three sons of Hugh Pudsey, who was Bishop of Durham from 1153 to 1196. His filiation is proved by CHARTER LI. p. 46. His brothers are said to have been Burchard, Treasurer of the Cathedral of York, and Archdeacon of Durham, and Hugh, Chancellor to Lewis VII. King of France, who died in 1189, and was buried in the Galilee of Durham Cathedral. The mother of Henry, and probably of the other two also, was Adelis de Percl. (V. Dugl. Mon. Angl. New Ed. under SALLAY ABBEY.) This fact, which has hitherto not been noticed, seems to account for the origin of Henry Pudsey's right in the parish and advowson of Giggleswic, the latter of which he conferred upon his church of Finchale. Giggleswick was a member of the Percy Fee in the district of Craven. Henry Pudsey married a wife of the name of Dionisia, whom he frequently mentions in his charters, and from them are probably descended the Pudseys of Bolton and Barforth. He is said to have been buried at Finchale.

‡ The ruins, near Haswell, are apparently those of a chapel of small dimensions, and of a much later date.

Pudsey and other donors upon a newly-founded monastery, situated in a warm glen upon the Brownie streamlet, at a place called Baxtanford,* (hord. Baxterwood,) about a mile from Durham. Haswell could boast of no such natural beauties of wood and water, and this was probably the reason why it was deserted. This second monastery was also dedicated to the Virgin; it was to be called the NEW PLACE UPON THE BRUN; and we find the Canons of Gisburne specifically recognized as the Ecclesiastics by whom it was to be peopled. A detachment from that Monastery, under the superintendence of Stephen, one of its dignitaries, was deputed by the mother church for the purpose.† The infant establishment met with other benefactors in addition to Pudsey, their chief patron;‡ but, as might naturally have been expected from their vicinity to the rich and firmly-seated Church of Durham, from their being of a different order from that establishment, and from the intermixture of their possessions, harmony did not long prevail between the two. Galfrid of Coldingham§ informs us of the various modes by which the Monks of Durham harrassed the settlers, till at last, as he says, Pudsey, sorry for what he had done, begged pardon for his presumption, and an agreement was entered into that he should abandon the Canons of Gisburne, should take possession of the Church of Finchale, should confer upon it the possessions previously conceded to Our Lady of the New Place upon the Brun, should stock it with Monks from Durham, and should subject it and them and their rights to the jurisdiction of their mother church. The church of Gisburne was conciliated by concessions elsewhere in the county,* and for a while at first, Stephen, the Superior of the New Place, seemed to favour the arrangement.† He eventually, however, became restive, and the means which were adopted to compel him to keep his promise of resigning the foundation charters of the establishment, over which he had for so short a time presided, abound with interest.‡ He, of course, failed in his opposition, and our attention must now be turned to Finchale, to which the revenues of the New Place were transferred.

* The ford of bakestones—where the sandstone rock is thin and shelvy, and upon the laminae of which the people in the neighbourhood baked their cakes. Iron girdles now used for the same purpose, are still in the north occasionally called bake-stones.

† No progress seems to have been made in the building of the NEW PLACE on the Brownie, as the most accurate search has not been able to detect even the lines of a wall or a foundation. The intended site, however, may easily be pitched upon, with the Charter, p. 8. as our guide. The situation is extremely beautiful, and upon a small scale greatly resembles that of Finchale. But if the Canons of the New Place had no church, they at least had a common seal, and, for the period, not devoid of elegance. See p. 15.

Mr. Surtees shall describe the situation of Finchale.§

* See p. 13, 14.

† P. 14, No. XVI.

‡ P. 16–19. The Pope and the Monks of Durham, and a promise into the bargain, were not easily resisted. The proceedings in the Chapter House, at Durham, throw great light upon the legal proceedings of the times, and in other respects are singularly curious.

§ Mr. Surtees's published volumes do not contain any account of the Priory of Finchale. But he had begun to think upon the subject, and had upon his table, not long before his death, the outlines of the History of St. Godric, and a minute account of the architecture and monastic arrangements of the Priory, communicated to him by the Editor of this Volume. In the possession of the latter is a scrap of paper, in Mr. Surtees's hand-writing, from which the brief but characteristic description of the site of Finchale in the next page is taken, and which thus proceeds:—"I will not dispute whether this were the same Pincanhale where a synod of the Saxon Church was held in 792, and another in 810. In the twelfth century, the Hermit Godric attained the honour of Sanctity, by a life of severe mortification led in this sequestered spot, which he tenanted for half a century, accompanied first by a poor sister, and, after her death, in perfect solitude. He died in 1170; but Bishop Flambard had previously granted Finchale, with its woods and waters, and fishings, to the Monastery of Durham, on condition that, after the death of its eremite tenant, some brethren of their house should occupy the Cell; and accordingly, on the death of the Anchoret, it was held by two Monks of Durham, Reginald and Henry. It has been already stated under BACSTANEFORD, that Henry Pudsey, son of Bishop Hugh, had founded a monastery of Augustinians at Bacstaneford on the Brune, that the Monks of Durham resisted the introduction of a foreign order in the midst of their possessions, that Henry was induced to translate his foundation

“ The ruins of Finchale Abbey stand in deep retirement three miles from Durham, on the southern* brink of the Wear, where the river sweeps over a rocky channel round a little level plot almost covered with the buildings. The woods of Cocken cover the wild opposite bank.”

We, with Mr. Surtees, leave the point to be settled whether this, our Finchale, was the Finchale rendered famous by the two Synods, and we proceed to later dates and matters of greater certainty.

The original Finchale† stood a mile above the present Finchale, on the same side of the river, and became, by the gift of Bishop Flambard, the residence of St. Godric, about the year 1110. Here Godric resided for a while, and stubbed and cultivated the plot of ground assigned to him; but by and by he discovered a more favourable situation, “planities non modica, situ et visu ad inhabitandum accommoda, ad quam se transferens mansiunculam veterem deseruit, et oratorium et domunculas sibi necessarias construere cœpit.”‡ Here we have the germ of the present Finchale. Godric soon afterwards built a chapel, which he dedicated to St. John the Baptist, and when this had been done, Bishop Flambard granted the reversion of the hermitage, its fishery, and its possessions to to Finchale, which was also occupied, since the death of the Anchorite Godric, by Reginald and Henry, two Monks of Durham. Bishop Hugh, in 1180, granted a charter. — gave — gave —

* Mr. Surtees is here under a mistake. Considering the river as running from west to east, Finchale is on the north side of the stream. The windings of the Wear, from Croxdale to the sea, are singularly puzzling.

† Finchale is, in ancient times, occasionally written Finkalugh or Finkhaluch—that is, Finkhalvgh, or Finkhaugh. The northern word haugh, as applicable to a portion of land beneath higher ground by the side of a river, is strictly descriptive of either Finchale. But what is Fink? The author of the Life of Godric, in the ACTA SANCTORUM, xri Maii, tells us that Finchale is derived from a British King called Finch, who resided there cum suis!

‡ ACTA SANCTORUM. Ibid. Of the “mansiuncula vetus,” the first Finchale, there are distinct traces. There are remains of old walls clothed with ivy, lines of masonry covered with earth and turf, and a smooth green sward, marking the Prior and Convent of Durham.* Godric died in the year 1170, and soon afterwards Bishop Pudsey had confirmed to the Monks of Durham, the gift of his predecessor,† and had conferred upon Reginald‡ and Henry, the two Durham Monks in possession, and their successors, the tract of land contiguous to the hermitage, which now chiefly constitutes the Finchale farm.§ Such was the state of Finchale when Henry Pudsey, in 1196,|| “pœnitentia ductus” was compelled to transfer to it the possessions of the New Place at Baxterwood. There was a small church or oratory, a salmon fishery in the Wear, a place of residence sufficient for two Monks and their attendants, and nearly the whole of the present Finchale farm, three acres of land at Bradley,¶ and two bovates at Sadberg, for their maintenance. Pudsey reserved to himself and his heirs the right of appointing the Prior, and in the above year conferred the dignity upon Thomas, the Sacrist of Durham, who was the first to hold an office, which afterwards was in such high repute,†† but before his death the founder conceded his privilege of appointing the Prior to the Prior and Convent of Durham.‡‡ Bishop Kellawe conferred upon Finchale an additional portion of land upon Finchale Moor. §§ antient care and cultivation. The little plot of ground, about a quarter of an acre, is of a triangular shape, with the river on one side, a brook on another, and a ditch on the third. It is still called Godrick's Garth. A modern cottage, itself a ruin, stands in the midst of it, amid more ancient rudera, and if more had remained of the primitive structure, it would have been expedient to have given an engraving of the whole from a drawing with which Mr. Bouet has kindly furnished us.

YOKEFLEET, in the East Riding of the county of York.* Land. The documents in the possession of the Monks relative to this estate, which came into their possession by the gift of Pudsey, their founder, go back to an early period. The preamble of the first in the series departs from the usual routine of donatory charters. Adam de Warum, the son of William, must have been a penitentiary. In one of his seals he is bestowing absolution upon a penitent prostrate at his feet; in the other he is brandishing the rod of correction.

CONFIRMATIONS OF CHARTERS. Page 166–168.

Of the above endowments the greater part were conferred within the first fifty years after Henry Pudsey had established his Monks at Finchale. The Monks were at first content with the Oratory of Godric and his successors, but as their revenues had rapidly increased, they, in 1241, forty-five years after their settlement at Finchale, came to the resolution of rebuilding their church; and upon this subject the Indulgences which they have preserved are peculiarly valuable, as affording dates and other accurate information. In 1241, the building of a new church was only contemplated.†† In 1242, the Monks are stated to have commenced their operations;‡‡ and the last Indulgence which speaks of the work as unfinished, bears the date of 1264.§§ In 1266, the Monks were busy with the Chapel of St. Godric (in the south transept,) and the pious are excited to contribute to the window which was to light it from the east.||| The other Indulgences give more or less of information on these and other matters; but there is one which discloses a curious fact, that Monastics, in erecting their edifices, had other aid than that of their own resources, or the casual contributions of visitors. The Archdeacon of Dūrhām, as it appears,* commanded his clergy to admonish and persuade their flocks on three separate Sundays to contribute their aid to the fabric of Finchale; and as an inducement he tells them of the Indulgences of which we are speaking; and, moreover, that every contributor to the building of Finchale had, and would for ever have, a share of the advantages to be derived from the religious services of the mother church of Durham and all her Cells. The money collected was to be paid to him at his Visitation.

It must be understood that the Monks entirely rebuilt their church. The only trace of their former edifice, which was suffered to remain, was the tomb of Godric their patron saint, which, if an opinion may be formed from the portions of it which were discovered during the late proceedings in the church, was of the altar shape, with Norman pilaster mouldings at its corners. These are the only stones in the edifice which bear the stamp of Norman architecture.

The church, such portions of it we mean as have not been meddled with in later periods, is precisely of that style of architecture which prevailed during the period of the Indulgences referring to it. There is, however, a total absence of ornament, save that the western door-way has some good mouldings, and that the capitals of the internal pilasters connected with the three lancet-headed windows in the end of the chancel, the lavatory near the high altar, and the capital of a pillar between the chancel and its northern side aisle, have been tastefully decorated. The latter has a profusion of ornament.

The annexed ground plan,† with a few brief explanations, will afford a correct idea of the extent of the church, as it was finished in 126..., of the alterations which were afterwards made in it, and of its adjacent buildings. A B D D F G H H the church. A, the chancel. B, the nave. F G, the transept.

* See No. cxc, p. 177.

† Made with great care by Mr. George Jackson, Durham.

D D, the side aisles of the chancel. H H, the side aisles of the nave. C and E were subsequent additions, the former perhaps a vestry, and the latter a chantry. The central tower was, we suspect, no part of the original church, but an insertion, if we use the term, during the Decorated Period. There are indications in the joinings which seem to warrant this supposition. It was surmounted by a low and heavy spire of stone, which was standing in 1655. The key-stone of the groining of the tower, ornamented with an oak branch and acorns, was found during the late operations, and is preserved in the adjoining farm house. The church, however, at the Dissolution, consisted merely of A, the chancel, B the nave, and F G the transept. Long before this period, the Monks had totally removed the aisles D D, H H, and the buildings C and E; converting the southern aisle H into the northern alley of their cloister N. The arches of the chancel and nave which communicated with their respective side aisles were closed with masonry, in which were inserted windows of the Decorated Period, one of which is remaining.* Two octagonal pillars were removed from the south side of the nave to the farm-yard K, where they were converted into three supporters of a shed, and where they now remain, the two caps being placed downwards. The other pillars and arches were inclosed in the new masonry. The altar (a) in the south transept stands immediately beneath the spacious window which, as has been above stated, was built in 1266, and which proves its age by the portions of its tracery which remain. In front of this altar was the shrine of Godric, the Norman tomb above-mentioned, beneath which were found, in 1836, the bones of a tall man buried in the gravel, apparently without a coffin. O, an open passage room from the cloister to the plot of ground E, which was

* We are inclined to believe that these alterations were commenced in the Priorate of John de Tikhill, in 1364. The work was apparently not finished till the year 1369. See the ROLLS, p. lxxv—lxxxiii. It is difficult to account for these dismemberments. Want of repair could not have been the cause, for the aisles had scarcely stood an hundred years.

probably a burial ground for the laity. Over O was the library, accessible by a staircase within the church, at the end of the transept. P, probably the chapter-house. R and S, uncertain. Probably the dormitory was in this direction. T, the buttery hatch to the Prior's Hall. U, the entrance to the Prior's Hall. V., the Prior's Hall. W, X, Y, Z, the Prior's Camera or suite of apartments. The latter was the Douglas Tower. A, the Prior's chapel. B, C, D, uncertain. M, the refectory ; the doorway to which, from the cloister, has good mouldings, and there are some ornamented stones tossing about here, which probably belonged to a rich buttery-hatch within. Q, a passage way from the cloister to the orchard. L, apparently a kitchen communicating with the refectory through a hatch in the wall. I, uncertain. The buildings marked K. J, J, I, are not in scale, in point of position. They stand at some distance to the west. K, J, an old barn and stack-yard. J, the capella super portam, or chapel at the gate, for which see p. 109. I, uncertain. H, an elevated ridge, beneath which was the road from the gate near J, to the outbuilding, F, probably the granary (now the farm house), and the mill G, of which there remain a few courses of masonry, on the very margin of the Wear, fastened together by the iron clamps purchased in 1481.2.* And here may be seen, when the river is low, the foundation of the dam, consisting of pinnings of oak. These notices may suffice with respect to the church of Finchale and its offices. It must be added, that since the year 1830, the church itself, A, B, F, G, has been freed from the rubbish which had accumulated within its walls since the Dissolution, which, in the centre, where the tower and spire had fallen, was not less than ten feet in thickness ; a large sycamore was cut away from the high altar ; ashes, and elders, and thorns, were all removed from the nave and chancel ; and such portions of the floor as remained were laid bare. A few glazed paving tiles were found near the shrine of Godric. One small stone was marked with a cross and chalice ; another fragment contained the two or three first letters of the word ALEXANDER ; and another fragment had belonged to a slab once filleted with brass. A piece of pottery was also found, bearing the arms of the See of Durham, an engraving of which is given in the margin, in the full size of the original. The clay is of a light gray colour, and that portion of the fragment occupied by the shield and its framework is glazed with a rich blue.

Of the two accompanying plates, the first gives a view of the church from the north-west ; before the shed in front,* which concealed the great western doorway, was removed ; and the second from the north-east, places before the reader the present state of the chancel and northern transept in that direction. We have also given a slight etching of the churches of Bishop Middleham and Giggleswick, both of which were appropriated to the House of Finchale. The former of these churches will be interesting to the members of the Society, as the remains of Mr. Surtees are interred in its burying ground. There is a view of Finchale in Dugdale's Monasticon,* presented by Thomas Lambton, of South Biddick, Esq., with the feeling motto, Structores lugeo, qui fuerint monstrans ; and another in Buck's Views in 1728. Since that time the views of Finchale are as numerous as the publications of the draughtsmen-tourists who have visited it.

* We cordially agree with Mr. Hunter in the opinion that the name of Dugdale ought to be expunged from the title page of this laborious compilation. The same justice should be done to Henry Wharton, in Cave's Lives of the Fathers.

After these architectural digressions, into which the Indulgences have led us, we return to the concluding, and, in our opinion, the most important part of the volume now submitted to the Society.

The ACCOUNT ROLLS of the Priory of Finchale subjoined to the CHARTERS, will be found to contain materials of various kinds for illustrating the history of Finchale itself, of the order to which its Monks belonged, and of the customs and manners of their times, but most especially of northern statistics and philology. They owe their origin to an Act of the Convent of Durham in the year 1235, of which we give a copy.*

II.† Quod Priores etiam Cellarum debeant certificare Priorem Dunelmensem de redditibus Domorum suarum semel in anno. f. 3.

Item statutum est per eosdem [the Prior and his Chapter] ut omnes Priores Cellarum, scilicet Prior de Coldingham, Prior de Insula, Prior de Fynkall, Prior de Stanford, Prior de Lithum, Procurator de Jarue, Procurator de Were-muth, faciant rotulari singulis annis omnes redditus, possessiones, et omnia proficua ad ecclesiam suam pertinencia; et unum rotulum tradant Priori Dunelmensi reservandum, alium secum retinentes; ut in fine anni possit cognosci quantum quælibet ecclesia creverit singulis annis vel diminuta fuerit. Item statutum est ut predictarum Cellarum Priores et Procuratores visitent semel in anno matricem Ecclesiam suam de Dunelmo, ad reddendam rationem de statu Domorum suarum, ut possit cognosci quantum et in quibus Cella augmentata fuerit vel diminuta.

Although this order of Chapter was doubtless immediately obeyed, yet unfortunately we have no annual report of the Priory of Finchale until the year 1303, and from that year until the period of the Dissolution the chasms in its returns are numerous, and occasionally of long duration. That such annual returns were made, however, is certain; and the importance in every point of view of the Rolls which have been preserved, will excite a regret that the series is not complete. Another subject of regret is the silence of the Sacrist of Finchale, with respect to the matters under his charge. We have no Inventories of the furniture of the church—no list of the books in the Library.*

* The MS., B. iv, 26, of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, from which the above entry is extracted, contains in its first eight folia the earliest "Instituta Priorum Dunelmensium" upon record. They extend from 1154, or a little later, to the year 1260, and are all in the hand-writing of the latter period.

† The first Statute in this year is entitled "Certificacio de Redditibus Dunelmensis Ecclesiæ," to which we are indebted for the BURSAR'S ROLLS.

In that part of this Book occupied by the Charters, &c., will be found several documents extracted from the Registers of the Convent of Durham, illustrative of the government of Finchale. The Prior, Sub-prior, and Cellarer were appointed by the Prior and Convent of Durham.† The Monks of Finchale were Monks of Durham, and were perpetually migrating from the mother church to one or other of her Cells and back again, or from Cell to Cell, at the pleasure of the Prior of Durham. We have before us the names of all the Monks who sojourned at Finchale, from the beginning of the fifteenth century to the Dissolution, with much of their personal history, and minute accounts of their migrations from place to place, but we have no room for such minuteness of detail. The number of

* It is not often that so distinct a notice as the following, in illustration of the literary proceedings of a Convent, can be obtained. Uthred, Prior of Finchale, himself the most learned man of his day, brings a foreigner to his church, and employs him in transcribing Jerome's Eusebius and Bede's Ecclesiastical History. The BURNLEY MS. 310, fol. vell., in the British Museum, contains Jerome's translation of Eusebius, Bede's Ecclesiastical History, and some other of his writings. At the end of the first piece, p. 178, is this note :—Explicit liber Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ secundum Eusebium, scriptus per manum Guillelmi dicti du Stiphel de Britannia, pro venerabili et religioso viro domino Utrede Dunelmensi monacho, ac sacro-sanctæ paginæ doctore, anno Domini millesimo occ octogesimo primo; vicesimo sexto die mensis Augusti. In Fincal." After writing at Finchale, the transcriber, for such seems to have been his occupation, was employed at Durham; and the splendid LYNA, among the MSS. of the Dean and Chapter, A. I. 3, bearing the date of 1386, was written by his pen.

The MS. Gale, O. XVI., in the Library of Trin. Coll. Camb., a Service Book of the 13th century, appears, from internal evidence, to have belonged to the Church of Finchale.

† See p. 34, 28, 31, 32. See the form of mandate for the removal of a Monk from one place to another, p. 32, '33; No. xxxvii, p. 33, alludes to misconduct, and the Monk is punished by not being addressed in the usual way, and by not being permitted to shake his brethren at Durham by the hand, on his road through the city, from Lytham, in Lancashire, to Finchale.

Monks at Finchale seems to have varied from time to time. In 1317, there were nine. A very interesting document, printed in p. 30, settles them in 1408 at eight, and affords some valuable information on the subject of their monastic duties. In the middle of the fourteenth century they are reprov'd for keeping a pack of hounds;* and a century afterwards they had fallen into a naughty habit of wearing linen shirts instead of the linsey-woolsey of their order.† At p. 36, is a proceeding at which the men of Cocken would now smile; and at p. 29, we have a direct proof of one advantage at least resulting from monastic establishments—the Prior of Finchale feeds and clothes a boy, and sends him to Durham School for six or for ten years, as his case might require. The letters relative to the Rector of Houghton's claim of tythe coal are good specimens of the English of their period.‡

We must once more state that the limits within which we have confined ourselves have not allowed of the notices and illustrations which might have been given in almost every page of the volume, especially in the Account Rolls, which contain a mass of curious information respecting the fabric of the church of Finchale and the persons who moved within its walls; and the most valuable matter in illustration of subjects of a more general nature.§

The GLOSSARY and ABSTRACT OF PRICES appended to the volume will be found not devoid of interest. They may, perhaps, pave the way to collections of the same nature on a more extended scale. Durham affords matter for two large volumes, which should be entitled DURHAM WORDS, and DURHAM PRICES, FROM THE CONQUEST TO THE DISSOLUTION. The Bursar's Memoranda, to which we refer so often in the Glossary, are the rough notes of the Durham Bursar during the periods specified.

* P. 28, No. xxix. † P. 35. ‡ P. 37, &c.

§ We add only one note. Master Richard Fitz-Ralph, to whom the Monks contribute in 1358 (p. xlvi) for battling the Mendicants, was the Chaplain of Bishop Bury, and afterwards became Archbishop of Armagh. (p. lvi). See REYNER, Tr. I., § 2. 223—and Gocelin Surtaise, who gave a mare to the Monks (see p. liii), was a younger son of the family of Surtees of Dinsdale. His grave-stone is engraved in SURTEES, III, p. 240; but the inscription Goselpnus Sourteps, which runs along the slab opposite to the sword was covered with a pew when the drawing was made, and therefore was not noticed.

We conclude our prefatorial remarks with the following list of the PRIORS OF FINCHALE.

‡ The following Bull, affecting this person and two other Monks of Durham, is worthy of being preserved. It bears date in 1303. Boyville, as it appears from p. i, carried off with him two horses from Finchale, of which he was afterwards Prior.

ROGER MAYNSFORTH.

ROBERT RYPON occ. 1397.

THOMAS D'AUTRE, 1405 to Christmas 1411.

WILLIAM DE POKLYNGTON, 1411 to 1423. Keeper of St. Cuthbert's Shrine, in Durham Cathedral, in 1402.

WILLIAM BARRY, 1423. Died at Finchale in 1439.

HENRY FERIBY, appointed 13 Feb. 1439–40. Held the office till September, 1450. His Monks, in 1448, were, Henry Helay, Thomas Moorby, George Sither, John Moorby, John Harom, John Qweldale, William Kellawe, and John Eden.*

JOHN OLL, appointed 16 Sep. 1450. Died before 1452. He had been appointed Prior of Coldingham in 1442. See some curious depositions respecting him, NORTH DURHAM, COLDINGHAM. He was a native of the parish of Brancepath, and when there was a charge against him that he was born in a servile condition, and therefore unable by law to hold office in the church, it was proved in his favour that his father was a man of free birth, and had a silver knife.

THOMAS AYER, 1451 till 1457. Associate Shrine Keeper in Durham Cathedral 1423. Prior of Holy Island in 1442.

RICHARD BELL, S.T.B., 1457 till 1464. Ordained Priest 30 Sept. 1432, when 22 years of age. [The church of Durham had a dispensation to this effect from Pope John XXIII., dated at Bononia, A°. has preserved another scrap of northern poetry, which seems to prove that at “ I’ll be no more a nun, nun, nun,

I’ll be no more a nun,
But I’ll be a wife,
And live a happy life,
And brew good ale a tun, tun, tun,
And brew good ale a tun.”

assigned to them.

HUGONEM BURELL DE VILLA DE WINDEGATE.

[3. 6. Spec. G. 2.]

Anno incarnationis Dominicæ M^oC^oLXXX, ad festum omnium Sanctorum, facta fuit hæc conventio inter Henricum de Pusato et Hugonem Burell, et coram Domino Rege Henrico recordata, et ab ipso concessa, scilicet quod Hugo Burel dedit et concessit Henrico de Pusato villam de Wyndegate cum omnibus ad eam pertinentibus, sicut Hugo Episcopus Dunelmensis eam de eodem Hugone Burel tunc in vadimonio tenebat, tenendam sibi et heredibus suis de Episcopo Dunelmensi per servitium unius militis, excepta sexta parte. Predictus vero Henricus dedit et concessit jam dicto Hugoni Burel, in excambium predictæ terræ de Windegate, totam terram quam habebat in Perci et in Mureres, sicut ipse eam in manu sua tenebat; tenendam de se et heredibus suis ei et heredibus suis per servitium quartæ partis unius militis. Sciendum quoque est, quod, si quis predictam terram de Windegate adversus prefatum Henricum vel heredes suos calumpniatus fuerit, jam dictus Hugo Burel vel heres suus eam eis garantizare et contra omnes homines defendere debet. Et si eam eis garantizare non potuerit, reddet eis terram suam de Perci et de Mureres, et insuper triginta marcas, quibus prefatus Henricus eandem terram disvadiavit. Similiter idem Henricus, si terram de Perci et de Mureres predicto Hugoni Burel et heredibus suis garantizare non potuerit, reddit ei terram suam de Windgate, receptis triginta marcis quas pro eadem terra disvadianda dedit. Hanc autem conventionem firmiter et inviolabiliter hinc inde tenendam predicti Henricus de Pusato et Hugo Burel et heres suus mutuo affdaverunt. Testibus Domino Hugone Episcopo Dunelmensi, Philippo filio Hamonis vicecomite, Johanne de Amundevill, Roberto de Coisneres, Jordano Escolland, Thoma filio Willielmi, Alexandro de Helton, Gaufrido de Torp, Rogero de Audree, O-berto de Latton, Rogero de Epplindena, Richardo de Walsant, Michaelle filio Brienni, Richardo de Parca, Gilleberto de Leia, Gilleberto de Perci, Alano de Sinderbi, Willielmo Harpin, Willielmo Hagethorn, Nicolao Anglico, Henrico de Perci, Gilleberto de Clara, Willielmo filio Thomæ, Willielmo de Hessewell, et multis aliis.

VI. CARTA HENRICI DE PUTEACO DE HESSEWELL ET

1a. 2a. 1.]

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, Henricus de Puteacho eternam in Domino salutem. Intuitu pietatis Divinæ, et salutis patris mei et matris meæ, et animæ meæ, et Dionisiæ uxoris meæ, omniumque parentum meorum, inclinavi cor meum ad faciendam voluntatem Domini, ut edificarem domum nomini ejus in qua habitaret ipse in hominibus. Quo circa, in terram meam et possessionem de Essewella et Windegate viros devotissime induxi religiosos, qui in ea nomen Domini die ac nocte laudando invocarent, et elemosinam meam caritative dispensarent. Unde totam meam prefatam terram de Essewella et de Windegate, absque ulla retentionis exceptione, cum molen-dinis et vivariis, cum mora et pratis et pasturis, cum terris cultis et incultis, in villa et extra, per easdem metas et terminos per quos ea habui tenui et possedi, cum omnibus libertatibus et liberis consuetudinibus, in viis et semitis, et ceteris omnibus, prefatis viris canonicis, videlicet religiosis, habenda tradidi et possidenda, quatinus, a modo, et usque in eternum, ea habeant et possideant in liberam puram et perpetuam elemosinam, tam libere et quiete sicut aliqua Abatia in toto Episcopatu Dunelmie liberior et quietius aliquam noscitur habere elemosinam. Ita quidem quod ego et heredes mei ex aliis nostris rebus et redditibus erga omnes homines ab omni ea adquietabimus servitio. Hiis testibus, Bertramo Priore, Burchardo Archidiacono, Willielmo Archidiacono, Simone camerario, Willielmo de Houeden, Philippo de Colevill, Gaufrido filio Ricardi, Henrico de Ferlineton, et Waltero fratre ejus, Jordano Esscotlaund,

IX. CONFIRMATIO DOMINI HUGONIS EPISCOPI HENRICO
FILIO SUO DE TERRA DE BACSTANFORD.

[Orig. 3a. 1^a. Pont. I. 1. From Mr. Surtees's Copy.]

Hugo Dei gratia Dunelmensis Episcopus, Priori, Archidiaconis, et omnibus clericis et laicis totius Episcopatus sui, et universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis ad quos litteræ presentes pervenerint, salutem. Sciatis nos dedisse et concessisse, et presenti carta confirmasse, Henrico de Puteaco, pro servitio et homagio suo, ad honorem Dei et Beati Cuthberti et ecclesiæ nostræ, sexies viginti acras terræ de vasto nostro ex occidentali parte Brune fluminis, inter ipsum fluvium et nemus nostrum quod attingit usque ad terram cultam de Aldingrig incipientes, exsertandas et mensurandas a terra culta quæ fuit Willielmi de Rilli ab eodem flumine sursum versus occidentem usque ad terram cultam de Brom, et exinde ab austro in aquilonem usque in ipsum fluvium Brune. Et si minus quam vj^{xx} acræ terræ infra predictas metas fuerint, eo contenti sint, ad faciendum ibi Scenobium et Conventum Canonorum Regularium de ordine Sancti Augustini, cum aliis terris et rebus quas sibi hereditarie possidendas adquisierit, quas predictis Canonicis ad semper ibi Deo serviendum pro salute karissimi Domini nostri Regis Ricardi et heredum suorum, et pro nostra salute et nostrorum successorum, et sua et uxoris suæ et heredum suorum, et pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum dedit et assignavit. Quare volumus et precipimus quod predictus Henricus et heredes sui predictum locum et terram de nobis et successoribus nostris tanquam principales patroni teneant et habeant, reddendo inde annuatim Beato Cuthberto per manum nostram et successorum nostrorum, ad accendendum coram corpore suo, tres cereos de tribus libris ceræ ad festum ejusdem Sancti in quadragesima. Et, si forte ipse vel heredes sui de alia hereditate sua predictos cereos solvere defecerint, Prior et Conventus predicti loci, ad honorem ejusdem Sancti, ei semper sicut suppremo patrono et defensori suo sine defectu persolvēt. Quare volumus et preeipimus quod predictus Henricus et heredes sui et Conventus, qui ibi Deo sub ejus patronatu deserviet, predictam terram et firmationem stagni ad molendinum faciendum ubi competenti viderint, ex altera parte predicti fluminis Bruni, cum aisiamentis pasturæ cum vicinis suis et focalium et aliarum rerum, sicut vicini melius et honorabilius habent, libere quiete et honorifice teneant et habeant, sicut aliqua elemosina liberior et honorabilius hab[ita] aliquibus religiosis possidetur. Huius testibus, Bertramo Priore Dunelmensi, Burchardo et Willielmo archidiaconis, Simone camerario, Magistro Ricardo de Coldingham, Willielmo de Houedon, Hugone de Magduno, Eustachio de Balleolo, Eustachio de Vesci, Roberto de Muschamps, Waltero filio Gilleberti, Ricardo de Umframvilla, Gilleberto de la Val, Philippo filio Hamonis vicecomite, Gilleberto camerario, Galfrido filio Ricardi, Rogero D'Audri, Rogero Burdun, Petro Harpin, Roberto de Humez, Daniele de Es, Radulpho D'Audri, Willielmo filio Thomæ, Waltero de Monasteriis, Johanne de Torp, Waltero de Alidigrig, Helias de Heppedon, et multis aliis.

X. CARTA HENRICI DE PUTIACO DE SEXIES VIGINTI
ACRIS TERRÆ IN ALDINGRIG.

[Cart. IL, f. 109. b.]

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quos litteræ istæ pervenerint, Henricus de Putiaco eternam in Domino salutem. Noverit universitas vestra me dedisse, concessisse, et hac presenti carta mea confirmasse, Deo et Sanctæ Mariæ de Novo Loco super Brun, et Canonicis Deo ibidem servientibus, sexies viginti acras terræ, quas mihi Dominus Hugo Dunelmensis Episcopus pro homagio meo et servicio dedit et carta sua confirmavit. Quare volo et concedo ut prefati Canonici predictam terram habeant et teneant in liberam et puram et perpetuam elemosinam, sicut aliqua elemosina liberior et quietius in toto Episcopatu Dunelmensi habent et tenent, per easdem metas et terminos sicut in prefati Episcopi carta continetur. Reddendo annuatim beato Cuthberto ad festum ipsius in quadragesima tres cereos de tribus libris, quos cereos ego et heredes mei quoad possumus singulis dabimus annis. Et si forte defecerimus, prefati eos solvent Canonici. Hiis testibus Hugone de Haitfeld, Alano Malecake, Rogero de Cressi, Picoto de Perci, Roberto le Bret' &c.

XI. CARTA BERTRAMI DE HEPDON FACTA FRATRIBUS
DE NOVO LOCO SUPER BROWN.

[3. 6. Spec. X. 3.]

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, Bertramus de Hoppedun, salutem in Domino. Notum sit universitati vestræ, me, pro salute animæ meæ, et pro animabus patris et matris meæ et omnium parentum meorum, dedisse et concessisse et hac presenti carta mea confirmasse Deo et Sanctæ Mariæ de Novo Loco super Brun, et Canonicis qui ibidem Deo serviunt, tredecim acras terræ infra campum de Hees, scilicet quinque acras et dimidiam quas habui in dominio apud Hareskahe, reliquas acras septem et dimidiam quas homines mei Willielmus Filding et Rogerus filius Milde et Paganus, et Willielmus frater Gameli, et Rogerus Piccave juxta prædictum dominium meum et vicinius tenuerunt, in liberam puram et perpetuam elemosinam, ad quandam vacariam et ovile faciendum. Et, ne iis in posterum aliquid de numero animalium fiat præjudicium vel nocumentum, concedo eis habere quotquot voluerint sine magno dampno vicinorum suorum. Et eadem devotione concessi eis totam partem meam terræ de Ulveskahe, et quicquid de bosco acquirere potuerint liberum illud habeant et quietum, sine omni calumpnia et reclamacione de me et heredibus meis. Hanc prefatam elemosinam prædictis canonicis dedi et propria devotione et parentum meorum et amicorum consilio et ammonitione, ut eam habeant et teneant de me et heredibus meis libere et ab omni humano servitio quiete, in bosco, in plano, in viis et semitis, in aquis et molendinis, in pascuis et piscariis, et in omnibus aliis aisiamentis, quæ ad villam de Hees pertinent. XIV. CYROGRAPHUM INTER NOS ET DOMUM DE GISE-
BURNE SUPER LITIGIIS DE CAPELLIS DE DICTON ET WERKS ALE WINDEGATE ET BAKSTANEFORD.

[Cartuar. III. 88.]

Omnibus, ad quos litteræ presentes pervenerint, Alexander, Abbas de Melsa, et Bernardus, Prior de Novo Burgo, et Reginaldus, Precentor Ebor., eternam in Domino salutem. Noverit universitas vestra quod causa, quæ vertebatur inter venerabiles viros Bertramum Priorem et Conventum Dunelm. et Roaldum Priorem et Conventum de Giseburn, super capellis de Dictona et de Werkesale, et ex alia parte inter predictos monachos et Stephanum canonicum de Giseburn, super Hessewell et Windegate et Bakestanforde cum pertinentiis, hoc modo in presencia nostra et in presencia Simonis decani Eboraci, et Hamonis thesaurarii, et magistri Willielmi archidiaconi de Notingham, et multorum aliorum virorum autenticorum, amicabilem sopita est. Scilicet quod predicti Prior et Conventus Dunelmensis pacifice quiete et in perpetuum possidebunt prenominate capellas de Dicton et de Werkesale, predictique Prior et Conventus de Giseburn non movebunt amplius questionem sæpeditis monachis, nec ipsos aliquo modo in causam trahent super prenominate capellas, nec artem vel ingenium quærent unde predicti monachi vexari possunt. Predicti etiam monachi Dunelmenses quiete et pacifice possidebunt Hessewell et Windegate et Bakestanforde, cum pertinentiis, predictusque Stephanus canonicus juri, si quod in predictis locis habuit, spontanea voluntate omnino et inperpetuum renunciavit, ipsa prenominate monachis assignando, predicta etiam loca cum consensu Prioris et Conventus de Giseburn, inspectis sacrosanctis evangeliis, solempniter in presencia nostra abjuravit, omniaque instrumenta, quæ inde habuit, in manum Prioris et monachorum Dunelmensium resignavit. Et si quod penes eum remanserit, viribus carebit. Predicti vero monachi, intuitu amicabile compositionis, concesserunt predicto Conventui de Giseburn redditum decem marcarum argenti in capella de Eden, ita scilicet quod predictus Conventus de Giseburn habeat medietatem decimæ bladi in predicta villa, et omnes obvenciones quæ altare contingunt, excepta terra ipsius capellæ, quæ remanebit in dominio et dispositione ipsorum monachorum Dunelm. Habeat etiam predictus Conventus de Giseburn unum mesuagium juxta cimiterium, et tres acras terræ; capellanum autem et cetera ne-cessaria predictæ capellæ sufficienter invenient, et sinodalia persolvent. Prior vero et Conventus Dunelm. predictam possessionem Priori et Conventui de Giseburn perpetuo warantizabunt. Prior vero de Giseburn, pro se et Conventu suo de hac possessione Priori et Conventui Dunelm. fidelitatem se perpetuo observaturos firmiter promisit. Et literas rati habicionis capituli sui ad capitulum Dunelm. secum portavit. Ista autem compositio, juramento solempniter prestito, hinc inde corroborata est; dignumque duximus ipsam sigillorum nostrorum munimine confirmare. Actum anno Incarnacionis Dominicæ m°. c°. xx° ix°.¹ in capitulo Eboraci.²

Venerabilibus viris et amicis in Christo dilectis, B. Priori et Conventui Dunelm., Conventus Canonikorū de Giseburn, eternam in Domino salutem. Volentes finem debitum litigiis inter nos habitis, super capellis de Dictona et de Werkesal, et inter vos et Stephanum canonicum nostrum super Hessewell et Windegate et Bakestaneforde cum pertinentiis suis, imponere, procuracionem horum negotiorum dilecto patri B. latori presencium committimus; ratum habituri quicquid coram vobis secundum transactionem coram Judicibus delegatis conceptam fecerit. Valete in Domino.

XVII. SENTENTIA JUDICUM DE BAKSTANPHORTH.

[3. Sextæ Specialium, C. 2.]

Omnibus, ad quos litteræ presentes pervenerint, V. et G. dicti Abbates de Novo Monasterio et de Alnewic, et A. Prior de Thinem' salutem in vero salutari. Noverit universitas vestra nos mandatum domini Papæ sub hac forma recepisse.

Celestinus Episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilectis filiis de Novo Monasterio et de Alnewyk Abbatibus, et Priori de Thinem', in Dunelmensi Diocesi constitutis, salutem, et apostolicam benedictionem. Suam ad nos dilecti filii Prior et monachi Dunelmenses querimoniam destinaverunt, quod, cum Stephanus canonicus de Giseburn, Eboracensis Diocesis, in ipsorum Capitulo, coram multis, juramento interposito, spontaneus promississet se eis cartas de Bachtanephord, quas habebat, et scripta autentica redditurum, contra juramentum temere veniens, ea in ipsorum prejudicium detinet, et reddere contradicit. Volentes igitur dictorum Prioris et Monachorum Dunelmensium paterna sollicitudine præcavere jacturis, discrecioni vestræ per apostolica scripta mandamus, quatinus nominatum S. ad exhibendas cartas predictas et scripta autentica Priori et fratribus memoratis, prout juramento tenetur, per censuram ecclesiasticam, appellatione reposita, compellatis, eidem de perjurio penam canonicam infligentes, nullis literis veritati et justiciæ prejudicantibus, si quæ apparuerint a sede apostolica impetratæ. Quod si omnes hiis exequendis nequiveritis interesse, duo vestrum ea nichilominus exequantur. Dat' Lateran', vj^o non. Maii Pontificatus nostri anno septimo.

Nos autem, auctoritate Domini Papæ, partes sæpius vocari fecimus. Tandem vero, juris ordine per omnia observato sollempniter, publicatæ sunt atestationes; quas dignum duximus presenti scripto et sigillorum nostrorum munimine corroborare. Sunt autem hæc. Scilicet, Prima productio contra Stephanum canonicum de Gysburn.

Cuthbertus, juratus, dixit quod fuit in Capitulo Monachorum de Dunelmo et vidit et audivit quod Stephanus canonicus de Giseburn sponte sua renunciavit juri, si quod habebat, in Bastanesford, et promisit, inspectis sacrosanctis, in verbo veritatis, quod redderet Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo omnes cartas, quas habebat, de Bacstanesford; et quod ille, nec per se nec per alium, eis querelam deinceps moveret de illo loco.

Nicholaus clericus, juratus, dixit quod vidit in capitulo monachorum de Dunelmo S. canonicum de Giseburn, et audivit eum coram omnibus renunciare loco de Bacst' et promittere in verbo veritatis, inspectis Ewangeliiis, quod redderet Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo omnes cartas de Bacst' quas habuit.

Johannes laicus dixit idem per omnia quod Nicholaus.

Secunda productio contra Stephanum.

Willielmus capellanus, juratus, dixit quod fuit cum multis aliis clericis et laicis in capitulo monachorum de Dunelmo, et vidit et audivit S. canonicum de Giseburn in presencia et audientia omnium, qui aderant, sponte sua, ut omnino sibi videbatur, renunciare Prioratui suo de Bacst', et dicere in verbo veritatis, inspectis sacrosanctis, quod redderet Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo omnes cartas, quas habebat de Bacst', et quod ipse, nec per se nec per alium, quamquam artem vel ingenium quæreret de cetero contra eos de loco illo, nec querelam aliquam eis suscigaret, unde gravari, vel locum ipsum perdere, possint; et tunc, quando hanc renunciacionem fecit et juramentum, erat ipse S. in possessione loci ipsius, et diebus et noctibus postea, donec totum resignavit in manibus Prioris et Monachorum de Dunelmo.

Willielmus de Alvertona, diaconus, juratus, dixit idem per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus; hoc adjiciens quod S. canonicus, cum, post renunciacionem, jurare debuit, dixit se non debere manum imponere sacrosanctis, sed tantum inspicere.

Silvester monachus juratus idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Robertus diaconus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quæ Willielmus diaconus.

Rogerus subdiaconus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus; hoc adjiciens quod ipse in capitulo de ecclesia attulit textum Ewangeliorum, quo inspecto, S. canonicus juravit.

Willielmus miles, juratus, dixit quod non interfuit ubi S. canonicus Prioratui suo renunciavit et juravit, sed a pluribus, qui interfuerunt et audierunt, narrari quod sic fecerit audivit.

Symon miles, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus miles.

Gilbertus subdiaconus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Hugo de Feritate clericus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus; excepto quod dixit se non vidisse sacrosancta prolata, quia non ad hoc intendit.

Radulphus Harang persona, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Magister Walterus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Rogerus laicus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Willielmus laicus, juratus, idem dixit quod Willielmus capellanus; excepto quod non adjecit inspectis sacrosanctis, quia nec ea vidit cum remotus esset.

Robertus laicus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus laicus.

Ricardus laicus, juratus, idem dixit per omnia quod Willielmus capellanus.

Tercia productio contra Stephanum canonicum de Giseburn.

Gilebertus, monachus, juratus, dixit quod presens fuit in choro ecclesiæ Sancti Cuthberti de Dunelmo et vidit quando Stephanus canonicus venit cum canonicis et conversis, qui cum eo fuerant ad Bacst', et tam ipse quam omnes canonici et conversi renunciaverunt sponte sua loco de Bacst', et juri, si quod habebant in eo, et totum quietum clamaverunt Deo et beato Cuthberto in perpetuum. Et postea, eodem die, incontinenti, fuit in capitulo monachorum de Dunelmo, et vidit et audivit quod ipse Stephanus canonicus, surgens in medio, inspectis sacrosanctis Ewangeliis, juravit se absque omni occasione redditurum Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo omnes cartas, quas habebat, de Bakst', et reddendi diem eis prefixit, diem scilicet lunæ proximam post Ramos Palmarum; et quod inde, nec per se nec per alium, eis querelam moveret in eternum.

Utredus sacrista, juratus, dixit idem per omnia quod Gilebertus monachus.

Willielmus de infirmitorio, diaconus, et persona de Eden, juratus, dixit quod presens fuit in capitulo monachorum de Dunelmo ubi Stephanus canonicus, si quid juris habuit in Bacstan', sponte totum quietum clamavit Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo; et statim, eodem die, ibidem, inspectis sacrosanctis, juravit quod, nec per se nec per alium, inde contra eos querelam suscitaret in perpetuum; et omnes cartas, quas habebat de Bacst', eis redderet, et reddendi diem prefixit; diem scilicet lunæ post Ramos Palmarum, qui proximior tunc instabat.

Helias de Castello, juratus, dixit quod fuit cum multis aliis in capitulo monachorum de Dunelmo, ubi Stephanus canonicus tradidit suam cartam Priori et Conventui de Dunelmo, et aliam recepit ab eis, de convencionem inter eos facta; et vidit et audivit eum ibidem renunciare juri, si quod in Bacst' [ita], et sacrosanctis Ewangeliis inspectis, jurare, quod predictis Priori et Monachis de Dunelmo redderet die lunæ, proxima post Ramos Palmarum tunc imminente, omnes cartas quas habebat de Bacst'; et nunquam de cetero querelam moveret, neque per se neque per alium, de illo loco.

Magister Robertus, juratus, idem dixit quod Willielmus de infirmitorio.

Reginaldus de celario idem dixit per omnia quod Helias de castello.

Preterea, ex parte Prioris et Conventus Dunelm., propositum fuit quoddam instrumentum autenticum signo S. canonici de Giseburne confirmatum sub hac forma. [V. supra, No. xvi.]

Cum, igitur, nobis sufficienter constabat, quod ea, quæ continebantur in rescripto Domini Papæ, plenissime in presencia nostra probatæ fuerint, communicato consilio auctenticorum virorum, prefato S. canonico, auctoritate domini Papæ, sententialiter injunximus ut cartas, quas habebat de Bacst', Priori et Conventui Dunelm., prout juramento fuit astrictus, redderet, et debito modo satisfaceret, secundum formam propriæ cartæ ipsius Stephani, sæpe nominatum etiam S. in pena perjurii sollemniter excommunicavimus, et pro excommunicato habemus, donec, secundum formam superius expressam, predictis Priori et Conventui satisfecerit. Vos etiam rogamus, ut, auctoritate domini Papæ, eum pro excommunicato habeatis donec predictis monachis cartas omnes, quas habuit de Bacst', reddiderit, et prout judicatum est satisfecerit.

[Cart. III. 274. Orig. 2. 1. Pont. I. 1.]

Rannulfus, Dei gratia Dunelmensis Episcopus, omnibus hominibus suis, Francis et Anglis, de Haliweresfolc, salutem. Sciatis me dedisse et presenti carta episcopali auctoritate confirmasse Algaro Priori et omnibus successoribus ejus, et monachis in Dunelmo conversantibus, in liberam et perpetuam elemosinam, Heremitorium de Finchale, cum agris suis et piscaria, et omnibus rebus ceteris adjacentibus, quod fratri eorum Godrico in vita sua de eis tenendum, eorum consensu, concessi. Quare volo, et firmiter precipio, quatinus prefatum locum, cum omnibus pertinenciis, libere et quiete inperpetuum possideant; et post obitum fratris eorum Godrici quem voluerint de fratribus suis ibi libere, sine alicujus contradiccione, statuunt vel removeant. Valet. Testibus Michael archidiacono, et magistro Roberto de Calfmonte, et Willielmo clerico meo de Turb'vil et Rod' presbitero, et Rogero de Coniers, et Osberno, et multis aliis.

XIX. CARTA HUGONIS EPISCOPI DE HEREMITORIO DE FINKALE.

[From Mr. Surtees's copy.]

Hugo, Dei gratia, Dunelmensis Episcopus, omnibus sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quos litteræ presentes pervenerint, salutem. Sciatis nos concessisse, et presenti carta confirmasse, Deo, et Sancto Cuthberto, et B. Priori,¹ et conventui Dunelmensis ecclesiæ, Heremitorium de Finkale, cum omnibus ad illud pertinentibus; tenendum et habendum inperpetuum, et secundum voluntatem suam disponendum; et prohibemus ne [quis] super eos de illo se intromittat, nec aliquam molestiam eis inde faciat.

XX. CARTA H ... DE FINCHALE MONA-CHIS DUNELMENSIBUS CONCESSA.

[3. 7^a. H. 1.]

Hugo, Dei gratia Dunelmensis Episcopus, omnibus sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quos litteræ presentes pervenerint, salutem. Noverit universitas vestra nos dedisse et concessisse, et presenti carta nostra confirmasse, dilectis filiis nostris Reginaldo et Henrico, monachis Dunelmensibus, apud Finchale habitantibus, et omnibus monachis Dunelmensibus ibidem post eos Deo et beato Johanni servientibus, et in perpetuum servituris, quos scilicet Prior Dunelmensis ecclesiæ ibidem instituere voluerit, locum de Finchale cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, cum molen-dino, et stagno, et piscaria, et sarto quod jacet a sinistris viæ quæ ducit ad Dunelmum usque ad terram aratam de Neutona, et dehinc sicut rivulus cadit in Wer, in liberam puram et perpetuam elemosinam. Preterea sciatis nos concessisse predictis monachis ut habeant in haia nostra unum taurum et viginti vaccas, cum sequela trium annorum, et sedecim boves, et du-centas oves cum agnis unius anni, et sexaginta porcos cum porcellis unius anni. Concedimus eciam predictis monachis de Finchale ut habeant de haia nostra ad edificandum et combu-rendum, sine vasto, per visum forestarii nostri. Quare volu-

XXVI. COMPOSICIO PRO INVENCIONE UNIUS LAMPADIS ANTE TUMBAM SANCTI GODRICI.

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, Thomas Prior et Conventus Dunelmensis ecclesiæ salutem. Ad universitatem vestram volumus devenire, quod, cum aliquando facta est contentio inter fratres nostros et Radulfum Priorem et monachos de Fynchall ex una parte, et Petrum de Vallibus ex altera, super redditu unius marcæ, quam idem Petrus Deo et sancto Godrico et Priori et monachis apud Fynchall servientibus dederat, ad sustentandum unam lampadem ardentem in perpetuum ante tumbam beati Godrici, quam ipse aliquando solverat, et postea pro voluntatis suæ arbitrio a dicta solucione cessavit; et, cum super hoc aliquamdiu esset altercatum, coram Iudicibus a domino Papa delegatis, scilicet Abbate de Novo Monasterio, Priore de Tynmue, et Archidiacono Northumbriæ, tandem amicabile inter eos intervenit compositio in hunc modum, scilicet quod dictus Petrus dedit dictis Priori et monachis sex marcas argenti ad emendam terram ad sustentacionem dictæ lampadis in perpetuum; unde, ad eorum instanciam, obligavimus dictos fratres nostros Priorem et Monachos de Fynchall ad dictæ lampadis sustentacionem, et absolvimus dictum Petrum de Vallibus a tencione qua eis tenebatur, et quietum clamavimus, et cartam suam super hoc confectam ei restituimus. In cujus rei testimonium presenti scripto sigillum Capituli nostri apposuimus.

XXVII. ACQUISTANCIA JOHANNIS DE NASSINGTON.

Pateat universis per presentes quod ego Johannes de Nassington clericus recepi de domino Ricardo Priore de Fynkhal sex libras sterlingorum, in partem solucionis viginti librarum, in quibus dictus Prior extiterat condemnatus coram domino Officiali domini Dunelmensis Episcopi pro decima garbarum villæ de Hauyborne [? Hauthorne] penes me. De quibus quidem sex libris fateor me bene fore pacatum, et predictum Priorem et ejusdem loci Conventum quietos facio per presentes. In cujus rei testimonium presentibus sigillum meum apposui. Data apud Dunelmum, die Sancti Cuthberti in marcio. Anno Domini millesimo tricentesimo tricesimo.

XXIX. LITERA PRIORIS DUNELM. DIRECTA PRIORI DE FYNCHALE.

[Cott. MS. Faustina A. VI. f. 8.]

Priori de Fynchale. Licet nuper directis vobis inde nostris litteris per vos fecerimus inhiberi ne quis confratrum nostrorum vobiscum agencium, post inhibitionem nostram, canes teneret, aut venationi cuicumque suam exhiberet presenciam personalem, quidam tamen de dictis confratribus, ab illicitis hujusmodi abstinere non curantes, set se periculose macula inobedientiæ respergentes, canes adhuc venaticos tenent, venationibus intersunt, et ab aliis vetitis, quæ, ut eorum honori parcamus, subticemus, non abstinent, pejora prioribus committere non verentes, unde vobis, in virtute obedientiæ firmiter injungendo mandamus, quatinus de hiis canes tenentibus et venationibus interessentibus, a tempore inhibitionis eis factæ solertissime inquirentes, nomina eorum, quos in hac parte culpabiles invenietis, in cedula vestro sigillo inclusa infra triduum nobis seriatim transmittere vestra discretio non postponat; ut quos levis admonicio a malo non revocat graviore punitione acrius compescantur, etc.

XXX. CONFIRMATIO EXHIBITIONIS JOHANNIS DEL MORE 1387.
APUD FYNKALE.

[Reg. II. f. 272.]

Universis Christi fidelibus presentes literas inspecturis, Robertus¹ Prior ecclesiæ Dunelmensis, et ejusdem loci Conventus salutem in Domino sempiternam. Noveritis nos, de consensu Prioris et Conventus de Fynkhal, concessisse, et presenti litera nostra confirmasse dilecto nobis in Christo Johanni del More, filio Walteri del More, sustentacionem suam in cella nostra de Fynkhal, in victu, vestitu, et exhibicione ad scholas grammaticales in Dunelmo, vel alibi, ubi viderimus magis expediens, pro informatione ipsius pueri competenti statui suo, intuitu caritatis, per sex annos proxime sequentes, et ultra, si indiguerit, et bene se habuerit, per quatuor annos. Ita quod per eum non steterit quin hujusmodi sustentacionem capiat tempore supradicto. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum commune capituli nostri presentibus est appensum. Data Dunelmi, in domo nostra capitulari, in festo S. Lucæ Evangelistæ, anno Domini trecentesimo octogesimo septimo.

XXXI. CITATIO AD COMPARENDUM IN VISITACIONE. 1408.

[Reg. II. parv. f. 7.]

Johannes, Prior Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Dunelm., dilecto filio nostro domino [N. P.]² Cellæ nostræ de Fyncall salutem in Auctore salutis. Auctoritate et mandato reverendissimi in Christo Patris et Domini T., Dei gratia Dunelmensis Episcopi, proponentis, dante Domino, nos et Capitulum nostrum Dunelm. die lunæ proxime ante festum sancti Jacobi apostoli, viz. xxij die mensis Julii proxime futuro, in forma super hoc tradita visitare, peremptorie vos citamus, quatinus vos una cum sociis vestris vobiscum commorantibus, prout in visitacionibus comparere debetis et actinus consuevistis, compareatis et compareant, coram dicto reverendissimo Patre, in loco Capi-tuli ecclesiæ Dunelmensis, prefato die, visitacionem suam humiliter subituri, facturique ulterius et recepturi quod canonicum fuerit et salubre. Ita tamen quod dicta Cella presencia monachorum vacua non dimittatur. Et quod faciendum duxeritis in premissis nos citra quartum decimum diem mensis Julii proxime futurum per literas vestras patentes, harum seriem continentes, reddatis dilicite [ita, pro dilucide] cerciores. Valen' in Domino. Data Dunelmi, xvj die mensis Junii, anno Domini MCCCC octavo.

1408. XXXII. ORDINACIO ET FORMA SPACIANDI IIII MONACHORUM VICISSIM DE TRIBUS SEPTIMANIS IN TRES.

[Reg. II. parv. f. 8. b.]

Johannes Prior ecclesiæ Cathedralis Dunelmensis dilectis filiis Priori Cellæ nostræ de Fynkall et confratribus nostris ibidem commorantibus et spaciantibus, ac in futurum commoraturis et spaciaturis, salutem, et infra scriptis firmiter obedire. Statum ecclesiæ nostræ Dunelmensis, quem non solum nos, sed omnes ejusdem filii gratissimi, non degenerantes, supportare naturaliter tenentur, quomodo ere alieno nimium excessivo hiis diebus plus solito oneratur debito intuitu considerantes, et eundem pro viribus relevare cupientes, de totius Conventus nostri consilio et consensu unanimi et expresse ordinavimus quod Ludi nostri, in quibus confratres nostri recreacionem hactenus habere solebant, ad tempus subtrahantur, et in illorum recompensationem iidem confratres nostri ad Cellam nostram de Fynkall spaciaturi de cetero transmittantur; sed ne per hoc tam pium nostrum propositum cultus Divinus aliququaliter minuat, sed potius adaugeatur, vel religionis honestas depereat, sed potius concreseat, de Fratrum nostrorum consensu, modum illuc transmittendi et ibidem essendi taliter duximus moderandum; videlicet quod sint apud Fynkall continue Prior et octo monachi, quorum octo quatuor erunt ibidem continue residentes, et alii quatuor de Conventu Dunelmensi illuc ad spaciandum accedentes. Qui quidem quatuor spaciantes ibidem remanebunt per tres septimanas, quorum duo singulis diebus intererunt matutinis, missæ, et vesperis, et aliis serviciis in choro dicendis, alii vero duo ad spaciandum in campis religiose et honeste habeant libertatem, ita quod missæ et vesperis intersint personaliter, nisi ex causa rationabili, cum licencia Prioris ibidem, legitime excusentur. Et ista libertas vicissim alternis diebus predictis qua-tuor spaciantibus communiter concedatur. Ita quod dicti quatuor spaciantes jacebunt in dormitorio, sicut alii monachi ibidem continue commorantes, et nichilominus deputabitur locus honestus vel camera ubi parabitur ignis cum aliis necessariis, ubi dicti quatuor, et eorum quilibet, pro eorum solaciis poterit specialius recreari, si et quociens opus fuerit. Et ad exhibendum ministerium eisdem deputetur per Priorem honestus serviens sive puer. Item quod ad sextam de cloke convenient duo de spaciantibus cum sociis ibidem commorantibus in choro ad dicendum quindecim psalmos, ut moris est, et postea matutinas. Et tenebuntur dicti quatuor spaciantes ad petendum matutinas et servicium Divinum, ita quod eorum quilibet saltem in septimana semel celebret magnam missam. Item quod dicti spaciantes singulis diebus Dominicis intersint capitulo, et missæ Virginis gloriosæ. Item, in recompensam oblacionum quatuor sociorum, persolvat annuatim Prior de Fynkall viij^l. ad quatuor anni terminos pro solucione oblacionum consuetarum. Item volumus quod quiscunque commorantium sive spaciantium juniorum interfuerit matutinis, et primæ, lectiones legat et martilogium. Vobis igitur conjunctim, et cuilibet vestrum divisim, firmiter injungendo mandamus, quatinus singula presentibus contenta rata habentes et grata, quantum ad vos pertinet, observetis, et ab aliis faciatis regulariter observari. Valen' &c. Data Dunelmi, xxv die mensis Septembris, anno Domini millesimo cccc octavo.

XXXIII. PREFECTIO IN CELERARIUM DE FINKAL.

[Reg. II. parv. f. 20. b].

Johannes Prior ecclesiæ Cathedralis Dunelm. dilecto filio nostro Willielmo Lyham, salutem in amplexibus Salvatoris. De tuis fidelitate et industria confidentes, te ad officium Celerariæ nostræ (ita) de Fynkall sub Priore ejusdem facimus et ordinamus per presentes, donec duxerimus revocandas. Ita tamen quod singulis mensibus de universis per te receptis et expensis Priorem et fratribus dictæ cellæ reddas rationem fidelem, prout ab antiquo consuevit presenti Priori cellæ predictæ ostendas, ut te sicut convenit ad dictum officium benigne admittat. 1450. XXXIX. PREFECTIO DOMINI JOHANNIS OLL IN PRIOREM DE FYNCHALL.

[Reg. III. parv. 43.]

Willielmus, permissione Divina, Prior ecclesiæ Cathedralis Dunelmensis, dilecto filio nostro domino Johanni Oll salutem in amplexibus Salvatoris. Nostra, novit Altissimus, summo opere versatur intencio tales personas ad locorum exteriorum nostræ dispositioni subjectorum regimen deputare per quas dignè possint a dispendiis preservari, ac honoris continui proficere incrementis. Cum, igitur, sicut per experientiam satis novimus, tam in spiritualibus quam in temporalibus in vobis reluceat circumspectio, digne agere credimus si vos in partem nostræ sollicitudinis ad loci exterioris gubernaculum assumamus. Quocirca, de vestræ discrecionis industria plenius confidentes, vos in Priorem Cellæ nostræ de Fynchall vacantis, et a monasterio nostro Dunelm. notorie dependentis, tenore presencium preficimus et creamus; vobis curam et administracionem ejusdem tam in spiritualibus quam in temporalibus duximus committendam; sperantes infallibiliter dictum locum sub vestro regimine in melius continue prosperari. Unde omnibus et singulis, quorum interest, vel interesse poterit, injungimus et mandamus, quod vobis, tanquam Priori dictæ Cellæ, de omnibus et singulis, quæ ad ipsam pertinent, respondeant pariter et intendant, quantum in eis est, prout aliis ejusdem Cellæ Prioribus fieri consuevit, nobis annuatim de omnibus receptis et expensis prefatæ Cellæ nostræ fidelem compotum redditur'. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum nostrum presentibus est appensum. Data Dunelmi, xvj die mensis Septembris, anno Domini millesimo cccc quinquagesimo.

XL. ORDINATIO SIVE MANDATUM DOMINI PRIORIS PRIORIBUS MAGISTRIS ET CONFRATRIBUS AD EXTRA MORANTIBUS DIRECTA PRO CAMISIIS LINEIS NON UTENDIS.

1453.

[Reg. III. parv. 60.]

Willielmus, permissione Divina, Prior ecclesiæ Cathedralis Dunelmensis, dilectis filiis Priori et confratribus Insulæ Sacræ salutem, et sacræ religionis Zelum devotis desideriis amplexari. Cum speciali provisione sit in jure prohibitum, et ne id fieret Sanctorum Patrum sancivit auctoritas, ne quis monachorum lineis camisiis uteretur, ex frequenti tamen querela fidedignorum, quod non sine gravi cordis angustia possumus enarrare, evidenter didicimus in Cellis nostris exterioribus pravam et precedencium Patrum institutis plurimum alienam a multis retroactis temporibus consuetudinem invaluisse, viz. quod quidam nostræ professionis filii, sacræ religionis postponentes observantiam regularem, lineis utuntur camisiis, in ordinis perversionem, et aliorum quamplurium exemplum nequissimum mutandum. Nos, igitur, suscepti regiminis curam nolentes negligere, quin potius, quantum pro viribus sufficimus, ipsius statum cupientes amplioribus proficere incrementis, volumus, mandamus, et in virtute sanctæ obedientiæ vobis districte precipimus, sicut et reliquis nostræ obedientiæ filiis dedimus in mandatis, ut hujusmodi abusu indumenti exnunc totaliter contempto, et relicto, de cetero utamini stamineis indumentis, juxta priscam nostri Monasterii formam et approbatam consuetudinem; alioquin, pro certo noveritis, quod hujus nostri mandati contemptores sic studebimus emendare quod aliis auferetur exemplum consimilia perpetrandi. Et vos, Prior, in virtute obedientiæ, siquis huic mandato regulari neglexerit obedire, nobis per vestras literas curetis serius intimare; ut, quem lenis admonicio a malo non revocat, saltem graviore punitione arcius compescatur. Valentes, cum Dei benedictione et nostra. Scriptum Dunelmi, primo die Octobris Anno Domini M.CCCC.LIII.

[1s. 1s. T.]

Willielmus de Bradeleya, omnibus videntibus vel audientibus has litteras, salutem. Sciatis me dedisse et concessisse et hac presenti mea carta confirmasse Deo et Sancto Cuthberto et Sancto Godrico et Heremitorio de Finchale in puram et perpetuam elemosinam, pro salute animæ meæ et omnium parentum meorum, tres acras terræ in villa de Bradeleya, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, et insuper, in augmentum ad illas iij^{as} acras, unum toftum et unum croftum in eadem villa. Quare volo quod predictum heremitorium de Finchale habeat et teneat et inperpetuum possideat predictam terram cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, in viis, in semitis et exitibus, in bosco et plano, in pratis in pascuis, in aquis et molendinis, in moris et in omnibus aliis, adeo libere et quiete sicut aliqua elemosina liberius et quietius habetur et possidetur. Si autem custos predicti heremitorii aliquid de mora in predicta villa de Bradeleya de novo frangere et colere voluerit, sine licentia mea vel heredum meorum non faciet. Histestibus, Willielmo Archidiacono, Alano Kuncost', Roberto Brunc', Osberto de Latun, Rogero de Epplingden, Rogero de Kiblewrhe, Matheo de Lumeley, Utting de Bradeleya, Rolant de Bradeleya, Willielmo de Edenham et multis aliis.

Omnibus hanc cartam visuris vel audituris, Rogerus Burel, salutem. Noverit universitas vestra me recognovisse villam de Windegate cum suis pertinenciis esse jus et liberam elemosinam Prioris et Conventus Dunelmensis et Monachorum apud Finchal Deo servientium. Quam villam Hugo Burel, pater meus, dedit Henrico de Puteaco in escambium pro Mures et Percy cum suis pertinenciis, in Normannia, quas idem Hugo pater meus ab eo recepit. Quam etiam villam de Windegate idem Henricus de Puteaco dedit Deo et Beato Godrico et Monachis de Finchal in liberam elemosinam cum suis pertinenciis. Dictam autem villam de Windegate cum suis pertinenciis abjuravi in curia Domini Ricardi Dunelmensis Episcopi et quietam clamavi in perpetuum de me et heredibus meis dictis Priori et Conventui Dunelmensi et Monachis in Finchal Deo servientibus. Ita quod nec ego nec heredes mei aliquod jus vel clamium ad prefatam villam de Windegate vel ad aliquam ejus pertinenciam de cetero habere possimus. Set eam cum omnibus pertinenciis suis habeant et teneant liberam et quietam in perpetuum, sine omni clamio de me et heredibus meis, sicut predictum est. Pro hac autem recognitione, abjuracione, et quietâ clamacione dedit michi Prior de Finchal decem marcas sterlingorum. Ego vero Rogerus Burel et heredes mei warantizabimus predictis Priori et Monachis de Finchal, predictam villam de Windegate cum suis pertinenciis contra omnes homines qui eam clamaverint occasione Hugonis Burelli patris mei. In hujus autem recognicionis abjuracionis et quietæ clamacionis testimonium presens scriptum sigilli mei munimine roboravi. Hiis testibus, Ada de Yeland, tunc senescallo Domini Episcopi, Roberto de

LXX. TRANSACTIO INTER PRIOREM DE FINCHALE ET LAURENTIUM CLERICUM [PRO SOLUCIONE PENSIONIS DE GIGLESWIK.]

[4a. 1æ. 65.]

Hæc est compositio facta inter Johannem Priorem de Finchall et Laurentium personam de Gykeleswic, in presencia Domini Henrici de Puteaco patroni ipsius Prioris, scilicet quod predictus Laurentius assignavit predicto Priori de Finchall

¹ William de Percy, Lord of the Percy Fee in Craven, and immediate ancestor of Percy of Northumberland, died 29 Hen. III., and was buried in the Monastery of Sallay, founded by his ancestors.

² Robert de Cokefeld was Sheriff of Yorkshire, from 1226 to 1229, inclusive. The date of this charter is therefore limited to one of these years.

nnes obvenciones et decimas de Setel, magnas et minutas, exceptis oblacionibus, et exequiis mortuorum; et omnes decimas villatæ de Rothemel, exceptis decimis lactis, et oblacionibus, et exequiis mortuorum, pro solucione pensionis ecclesie de Gykeleswic: unde prius reddidit viginti marcas eidem Priori, et vita Adæ de Thornhouer qui percipit duodecim marcas in eadem ecclesia. Et cum predictum Adam in fata decessisse, et habitum mutasse contigerit, idem Laurentius solvet predicto Priori de Finchalle xx marcas annuas, nomine pensionis, et ecclesia de Gykeleswic, vel ad crescet super easdem decimas renominatas usque ad xx marcas. Et erit in electione predicti Prioris capiendi xx marcas vel incrementum super easdem decimas ad valenciam xx marcarum. Hanc compositionem edavit predictus Laurentius tenendam in manu Henrici de Puteaco sine fraude, et dolo. Quod si quandoque a solucione auerit, vel contra factum istud venerit, renuncians omni privilegio, appellacione remota, iudicio stabit Decani et Capituli Ebor., et dabit decem marcas, nomine pœnæ, predicto Priori. 1230. LXXI. APPROPRIATIO ECCLESIE DE GIKELSWYK PER ARCHIEPISCOPUM EBOR.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos presens scriptum pervenerit, Walterus Dei gratia Eboracensis Archiepiscopus, Angliæ Primas, salutem in Domino. Noveritis quod cum dilecti filii Prior et Conventus Dunolmensis et Prior de Finkhal ecclesias de Gikeleswik et de Wihton et jus patronatus earundem libere, precise, et absolute, nostræ commisissent ordinationi, perpetuo duraturæ, nos de voluntate et assensu Capituli nostri ita de illis ordinavimus; videlicet, quod, ob reverentiam beatorum Cuthberti et Godricii, Domum de Finkhal nostræ provisionis beneficio honorare volentes, ecclesiam de Gikeleswik Priori et Conventui Dunelmensi concessimus in usus monachorum Deo et beato Godricio apud Finkhal ministrancium, post decessum, vel qualemcunque cessionem, Walteri ipsius ecclesiæ nunc rectoris, in perpetuum libere convertendam, salva in omnibus auctoritate et dignitate Eboracensis ecclesiæ; salva etiam competenti vicaria perpetua in eadem ecclesia Vicario assignanda, qui in eadem personaliter ministret, et nobis et successoribus nostris de spiritualibus respondeat. Ecclesiam autem de Wihton, quæ cum fuerit Eboracensis Ecclesiæ prebenda, sicut nobis manifestis constitit indicis, eidem hætenus existit minus licite subtracta, nobis et ecclesiæ nostræ Eboracensi in perpetuum reservavimus. Ita quod dicti Prior et Conventus Dunolmensis, aut Prior de Finkhal, nichil omnino juris in ipsa, aut in jure patronatus ejusdem, ullo umquam tempore sibi possint vindicare. Et, ut hæc nostra ordinatio perpetuæ firmitatis robur obtineat, presenti scripto tam sigillum nostrum quam sigillum Capituli nostri est appositum. Gregorius episcopus,¹ servus servorum Dei, dilectis filiis Priori et Conventui de Finkhall, ordinis Sancti Benedicti, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Justis petencium desideriis dignum est nos facilem prebere assensum, et vota, quæ a rationis tramite non discordant, effectu prosequente complere. Ea propter, dilecti in Domino filii, vestris justis postulacionibus rato concurrentes assensu, ecclesiam de Gikeleswyk cum pertinentiis suis, quam de concessione venerabilis fratris nostri Eboracensis Archiepiscopi, capituli sui accedente consensu, canonice proponitis vos adeptos, sicut eam juste ac pacifice possidetis, vobis, et per vos monasterio vestro, auctoritate apostolica confirmamus et presentis scripti patrocinio communimus. Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ confirmationis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Si quis intem hoc attemptare presumpserit indignacionem Omnipotentis Dei et beatorum Petri et Pauli Apostolorum ejus se noverit incursurum. Data Lateran' v^{to} idus Marcii, Pontificatus nostri anno iiij^{to}.

Wurshippfull Sir, and Reverent Fader in God, I commende me to you with all my hert ; and ye will undirstond ther is a vicerege in Craven, of Gigilswik, of the which the presentacion longith to you, as of the right of your chirch of Fyncall, wherfor I pray you hertly that ye wold be tender Lord and furtherer to a prest of myn Sir William Hacforth¹, the which is servant to my ryght wurshippfull Lorde and fadir th' Erle of Westm'l', so that he might be preferred to the next avoidaunce of the same vicarege, considerynge that he is on able Prest and vertuous. And this you lik to do att the contemplacion of this my writyng as y may do thyng to your plesaunce en tym to com. And Almyghte God gyf you right gode lyf, graciously to endure for his mercy. Writen att Hert the Monnday next eftir Saynt Luke daye.

THOMAS LORD OF CLIFFORDE.

¹ This letter of recommendation was attended to. William Hackford was presented to the Vicarage of Gigleswick on the 21st Sept., 1438, and held the living for two years. The writer of the letter was Thomas Lord Clifford, eighth Lord of the Honor of Skipton, the son of John Lord Clifford and Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Lord Percy, and was slain in the battle of St. Alban's in 1455. His father, the Earl of Westmoreland, of whom he speaks was the second husband of his mother. Hert, from whence the letter is dated, is Hart, in the County of Durham, which, with its appurtenances, had been granted to the family of Clifford upon the forfeiture of Bruce in 1306.

1440. LXXXII. LETTER FROM THE PRIOR OF DURHAM TO

XCIV. CARTA DONACIONIS VILLÆ DE COKEN OLIM AIL-LAFI MONACHI DUNELMENSIS FACTA PRIORI DUNEL-MENSIS PER GALFRIDUM EPISCOPUM CONFIRMATA.

[2^a. 1^{re}. 1.] [From a copy.]

Galfridus,¹ Dunelmensis Episcopus, Archidiaconibus suis et omnibus Baronibus, etc. Sciatis me dedisse et concessisse Deo Beatæ Mariæ et Sancto Cuthberto et monachis ejus in Dunelmo in elemosinam, ad victum eorum, pro anima mea et pro animabus patris et matris meæ, et pro salute omnium successorum meorum, et pro anima Ailafi presbiteri, villam quæ dicitur Coken, cum pertinenciis, quam idem A. presbiter antiquo patrimonii jure de me et de meis predecessoribus tenebat, et, monachus Sancti Cuthberti deveniens, hereditario testamento Sancto Cuthberto et monachis ejus, filiis suis presentibus et concedentibus, coram legitimis testibus concessit et dedit. Et volo et concedo et firmiter precipio ut Sanctus Cuthbertus et monachi ejus predictam villam de Coken imperpetuum teneant, secure, et possideant, cum toll et theam et infangthefe, in terris et aquis, in nemore et plano, in pratis et pascuis et exitibus et liberis consuetudinibus, liberam et quietam ab omnibus serviciis, excepto quod pro me et pro meis successoribus et pro ipso Ailafo, qui eis eandem terram primo concessit, utpote qui eam, ut dictum est, hereditario jure antiquitus tenuerat, deprecabuntur. Qui autem hanc donacionem infringere presumpserit, nisi cicius resipiscat, a consortio Sancti Cuthberti et omnium electorum Dei perpetuo separetur.

[3a. 6a. Specialium. G. 1.]

Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos presens scriptum pervenerit, Pretonilla de Cokyn quondam uxor Reginaldi Pynchard, salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra me, in plena potestate mea et libera viduitate mea constitutam, dedisse et concessisse et presenti carta mea confirmasse Deo et Beatæ Mariæ et Beato Cuthberto et Beato Goderico et Priori et monachis de Fynchal Deo servientibus et in perpetuum servituris, pro salute animæ meæ et patris mei, et matris meæ, et omnium parentum meorum, totam terram et boscum et domum meam cum gardino et curtilagio et omnibus mesuagiis meis et cum piscariis meis de Wer quæ habui in villa de Cokyn tam in dominico quam in servicio, cum homagiis, releviis, vardis, escaetis, et omnibus libertatibus et aisiamentis ad me et heredes meos ratione predictæ terræ pertinentibus, sine aliquo retinemento, in liberam puram et perpetuam elemosinam. Habenda et tenenda dictis Priori et monachis imperpetuum, libere, quiete, integre, pacifice, et honorifice, in bosco et plano, in pratis, pascuis et pasturis, in aquis et piscariis, in omnibus libertatibus et aisiamentis ad dictam terram pertinentibus, infra villam de Cokyn et extra et ubique. Preterea noveritis me dedisse et concessisse et quietum clamasse, et presenti carta mea confirmasse, pro me et heredibus meis et assignatis meis, eisdem Priori et monachis in liberam puram et perpetuam elemosinam quendam annum redditum unius marcæ argenti et quatuordecim rase-riorum frumenti, quem aliquo tempore vivente Reginaldo Pynchard marito meo de dictis Priore et Monachis solebam recipere. Quare volo quod dicti Prior et Monachi habeant et teneant et in perpetuum possideant dictum redditum ita libere et quiete et pacifice et honorifice sicuti aliqua elemosina in Episcopatu Dunelmensi liberior quietius et honorabilius tenetur vel possidetur. Ego vero Petronilla et heredes mei vel assignati mei predictam terram cum pertinentiis et dictum redditum, sicuti prenomina- tum est, dictis Priori et Monachis contra omnes homines et feminas warantizabimus acquietabimus et defendemus. Ego eciam Petronilla pro me et heredibus meis vel assignatis meis totum jus et clamium quod habui vel quoquo modo habere potero dictis Priori et monachis resignavi et in perpetuum quietum clamavi, omnibus et singulis cartis meis et scriptis meis dictorum terræ cum pertinentiis et redditus, dictis Priori et monachis traditis in perpetuum renunciatis et renunciandis. Et sciendum, quod, si aliquod scriptum de novo emergens invenia- tur, quod michi vel heredibus meis vel assignatis meis prodesse poterit et dictis Priori et monachis in aliquo nocere, viribus eva- cuetur et omnino adnichiletur. CXI. CARTA ROBERTI FILII STEPHANI DE KOKESHOU DE SUA RESIGNACIONE [UNIUS MESSUAGII IN VILLA DE COXHOW DOMUI DE FINCHALL.]

Omnibus Christi fidelibus presens scriptum visuris vel audituris, Robertus filius Stephani de Cokeshou, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Noveritis me resignasse et omnino quietam clamasse de me et heredibus meis domino Priori et Conventui de Finchall totam terram meam quam habui jure hereditario in territorio de Cokeshou, cum uno messuagio quod habui in eadem villa, et cum toto servicio Petri de Trillesden et suorum heredum, cum uno tofto et quatuor bovatis terræ quas de me tenuit in eadem villa. Et pro hac resignacione et quietâ clamacione dedit mihi predictus Prior de Finchall in mea magna necessitate sexdecim marcas sex solidos et quatuor denarios. Ita quod nec ego nec heredes mei nec aliquis nomine nostro aliquod jus vel clamium in predicta terra cum mesuagio, aut in servicio dicti Petri vel heredum suorum, sicut predictum est, poterimus de cetero exigere vel vendicare. Et ad majorem securitatem habendam resignavi de me et heredibus meis cartam de predicta terra quam habui de domino Priore et Capitulo Dunelm. in manibus predicti Prioris de Finchall cum predicta terra et servicio predicto. In cujus rei testimonium presenti scripto sigillum meum apposui. CXXXIII. DIMISSIO UNIUS MAGNÆ DOMUS IN BALLIO
DUNELMENSIS FACTA JORDANO CLAXTON PER PRIOREM
DE FINCHALL.

Anno ab Incarnacione Domini millesimo ducentesimo octogesimo quarto, ad Pentecosten, facta fuit hæc convencio inter Dominum Ricardum Priorem de Finchall et monachos ejusdem loci ex una parte et Jordanum de Claxtona ex altera; videlicet quod dicti Prior et monachi concesserunt et ad firmam dimiserunt predicto Jordano magnam domum suam in Ballio Dunelm. cum curtillagio ad dictam domum pertinente; quam quidem domum Johannes Hansard dedit Prioratui de Finchall, una cum domo et curtillagio quam Willielmus Pultar' tenuit de predictis Priore et monachis. Habendas et tenendas dicto Jordano et heredibus suis de Priore et monachis de Finchall usque ad terminum triginta annorum sequencium, libere, quiete, pacifice et solute. Reddendo inde annuatim predictis Priori et monachis de Finchall decem et octo solidos sterlingorum, scilicet medietatem ad festum Sancti Martini in hieme et aliam medietatem ad Pentecosten pro omni alio servicio, consuetudine, auxilio, exactione et demanda; salvis domino Priori de Finchall, et domino Johanni Hansard et heredibus suis, hospicio, quociens ibidem hospitari voluerint. Dictus vero Prior et monachi de Finchall dictas domos cum curtillagiis et cum omnibus pertinentiis suis predicto Jordano et heredibus suis usque ad finem triginta annorum plenarie completorum pro predicta firma contra omnes homines warantizabunt et defendent. Quas quidem domos dicti Jordanus et heredes sui propriis sumptibus usque ad finem predicti termini sustentabunt, et in statu eodem, vel meliori, quo eas receperunt, in fine termini dimittent, et tot domos quot invenerunt sustentabunt. Et si dicti Jordanus, vel heredes sui, infra terminum predictum aliquod novum edificaverint, in fine termini libere et sine alicujus contradictione illud asportabunt, nisi Prior de Finchall, qui pro tempore fuerit, per visum virorum legalium dictis Jordano et heredibus suis pro hoc satisfacerit. Si vero predictus Jordanus vel heredes sui predictas domos modo predicto non sustentaverint, nec predictam firmam predictis terminis rite et debito modo non persolverint, tunc licebit Priori de Finchall, qui pro tempore fuerit, libere et sine alicujus contradictione predictas domos ingredi et inde commodum suum facere. In cujus rei testimonium predicti Prior de Finchall et Jordanus de Claxtona presentibus scriptis sigilla s mutuo apposuerunt. Hiis testibus, Johanne de Maltona, Wilhelmo de Kellau, Petro del Crok, Johanne Polmodol, Roberto de Querindon, Hugone fratre ejus, Johanne Bille, et multis aliis. Notandum autem quod invenit magnam aulam cum camera, tres soldas ante hostium aulæ, domum pultar' quæ vocatur insethus, cum una magna camera se extendente versus scutilagium, et una cloaca, unum solarium, et unum cellar'.

CLX. APPROPRIATIO ECCLESIE DE MIDILHAM DOMUI
DE FYNCHALL.

[Reg. I. f. 28 b.]

Robertus permissione Divina Episcopus Dunelm. dilectis filiis Priori et monachis de Fynchall, nostræ dioceseos, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Licet officii nostri debitum suasu pietatis exposcat ut necessitatem patientibus succurrere debeamus et alienam inopiam paterno affectu propriam reputare, illorum precipue calamitati et inopiæ credimus succurrendum, qui, relictis hujus seculi rebus, spretaque voluntate propria, se et sua Deo et ejus obsequio totaliter dedicantes, ob divinæ contemplationis suavitatem se ad sanctum religionis ortum toto cordis desiderio converterunt. Cum, igitur, ad vitæ necessaria vobis et Domus vestræ non suppetant facultates, et, nichilominus, propter hospites et pauperes ad dictam Domum multociens confluentes, quibus humanitatis subsidia exhibentur, vos subire onera oporteat expensarum quod experti fuimus dum in minori essemus officio et fide perpendimus oculata, nos, ad relevandam vestræ paupertatis sarcinam et hujusmodi onera supportanda volentes vobis paterna solitudine subvenire, ecclesiam beati Michaelis de Midilham, Dunelmensis Dioceseos, vacantem per resignationem Petri de Montecuto quondam rectorem ejusdem, in qua religiosi viri Prior et Conventus Monasterii Dunelmensis jus optinent patronatus, vobis et dictæ Domui vestræ de Fynchall, inperpetuum, vestris et successorum vestrorum usibus cum omnibus suis juribus et pertinenciis, in augmentum quinque monachorum, de expresso consensu et unanimi voluntate dictorum Prioris et totius Conventus Dunelmensis auctoritate Pontificali et Divinæ pietatis intuitu deputamus, ipsamque vobis in proprios usus pro ampliando Divini nominis cultu et operibus pietatis habundancius exercendis concedimus et donamus, de gratia speciali. Ita quod in dicta Domo de Fynchall, de cetero, sint quindecim monachi Deo et ecclesiæ predictæ perpetuis temporibus servientes, et ritum et consuetudinem et regulares observancias Monasterii Dunelmensis, cujus Cella et Filia dicta Domus de Fynchall esse dinoscitur, prefati monachi de Fynchall teneant et observent. Ceterum, quia portio Vicario assignata in dicta ecclesia adeo est tenuis et exilis quod ad onera incumbencia vicaria non sufficit supportanda, nos, de dictorum Prioris et Conventus expresso consensu et voluntate unanimi, ordinavimus, et de voluntate et consensu omnium quorum interest auctoritate ordinaria diffinimus, quod Vicarius qui nunc ministrat in ecclesia predicta et omnes singuli sui successores, qui in ea futuris temporibus ministrabunt, habeant et percipiant singulis annis, in augmentum dictæ Vicariæ, quinque marcas de decimis garbarum villæ de Garmondesway, quas Rector ecclesiæ supradictæ ante istam nostram concessionem et ordinationem percepit seu percipere consuevit. Vicarius vero, qui pro tempore fuerit, pensionem [xl^s.] debitam Sacristæ Dunelmensi singulis annis persolvat, et omnia onera ordinaria Archidiaconalia et Episcopalia sustinebit. Nolumus autem quod portio Vicarii, qui pro tempore fuerit, quam hactenus percepit vel percipere consuevit, ratione presentis augmentacionis nostræ in aliquo minuat. Prior et Conventus Dunelm. ad dictam Vicariam quociens ipsam vacare contigerit personam idoneam nobis et successoribus nostris presentabunt, per nos et successores nostros canonice instituendum. In cujus rei testimonium presentes literas sigillo nostro et sigillo Capituli ecclesiæ Dunelm. fecimus communiri. Auctoritate et potestate et dignitate ecclesiæ Dunelm. et nostra et successorum nostrorum in omnibus et per omnia semper salvis. [3^a. 1^a. 32.]

W. Dei gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopus, Angliæ Primas, dilectis in Christo filiis universis, tam clericis quam laicis, per Episcopatum Dunelmensem constitutis, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Si participes gloriæ Sanctorum fieri cupimus ad eorum honores devotos nos exhibere debemus, ut quorum sanctitatem veneramur in terris eorum suffragiis gloriemur in celis. Cum, igitur, delecti in Christo filii Prior et monachi de Finchal quandam ecclesiam apud Finchal in honore Sancti Godrici laudabiliter fabricare proponant, ad cujus constructionem consummandam vestra sunt beneficia necessario requirenda, universitatem vestram hortamur in Domino, quatinus, ob reverentiam et honorem ejusdem Sancti, nunciis eorum, qui, Sede Dunelmensi vacante, venerint, vestras elemosinas petituri, velitis aliqua caritatis subsidia misericorditer erogare; ut per hæc, et alia bona, quæ feceritis, eterna possitis gaudia promereri. Nos, autem, de misericordia Dei et beatæ Mariæ omniumque Sanctorum meritis confidentes, omnibus, qui fabricæ predictæ ecclesiæ de bonis sibi a Deo collatis aliquid pie contulerint, si de peccatis suis vere contriti fuerint et confessi, triginta dies de injuncta sibi penitentia relaxamus. GLOSSARY.

ABLACTO, lxxxv., to wean, as calves, lambs, &c.

ACQUIETO, to acquit, to give a receipt or acquittance, to hold free.

ACTINUS, 29, for hactenus.

ADHEO, for adeo.

ADNICHILO, 90, to deprive of effect, to make useless.

ADVENIENTES, vi., comers, strangers, guests. SUPERVENIENTES is used in the same sense, p. xliii.

AFFARI, lxi. ; AFFRI, i. ; AFRI, viii. After the second of these words there is the explanation scilicet jumenta, which settles its meaning.

AGESTIAMENTUM, xliii. ; AGEISTAMENTUM, l. ; AGISTIAMENTUM, xxxi. The pasturage of cattle. The "agestament" of a horse, in 1531, for the summer, cost 3s. 4d. of a "why" 2s.

AGNELLUS, xxvi. A young lamb.

AISIAMENTUM, 9. An easement. See any Law Dictionary.

ALB, ccclxxi. The alb was one of the robes worn during divine service by the officiating priest. It was, as its name implies, originally made of white cloth ; but red and black albs are not unfrequent in inventories of sacerdotal habiliments.

ALBUM, 66. The word is explained in the note there referred to by "white silver, an antient personal tythe levied upon the wages of all labourers and artificers, which were supposed to be paid in silver."

ALDEORCHARD, ccclxxxvii. The old or outer orchard of the Priory. This small enclosure is still bounded by its antient wall, but its fruit trees are all gone, and the two small vivaries, or fish ponds, which it contained, are nearly choked up with weeds and brush-wood.

ALLEC. A herring. The herrings consumed in the Monastery of Durham and its northern Cells were purchased at various places upon the coast. In 1531, paid for a barrel of white (fresh) herrings, 10s. 6d. For a cask of red (sor') herrings, 7s. 4d. In the same year, paid 10d. to a man of Birtley for carrying three barrels of herrings from Whythouse, on the Tyne, to Chester-le-Street. From Chester-le-Street to Durham the charge was 4d. per barrel. In the same year, the carriage by sea of twenty quarters of barley from Hull to Durham, with the straw, cost only 7s.—Bursar's Mem.

ALLOCACIO. An allowance in an account. The verb is alloco which frequently occurs.

ALTILIA, see ATTILIA.

AMERCIAMENTUM. A pecuniary punishment imposed upon offenders, at the mercy of the court. It differs from a fine, which is a punishment certain, determined by statute. Bailey. In the Grassmen's Book of Accounts for the city of Durham, under the year 1633, this word is strangely corrupted into "a merryment." But the same book possesses other peculiarities. 1634. "paid for shininge the Court at Chester, 8d." 1677, "For sinning at Chester Court, 12d." 1698, "For shunning Chester Court, 1s." Essoining is doubtless the word thus maltreated.

AMMONITO, for admonitio.

AMNUS, or um, ccccx. AMPNUS, or um, ccccxiii. Under the head of Reparacio ampni, in 1532, are included the charges for the repairs of a mill-dam. — Bursar's Mem.

ANCA. A goose.

ANCERULUS, xxix. A young goose.

ANDIRNE, lii.; AUNDHYRVNS, cxvii.

The aundirons are said to be moveable irons, sometimes highly ornamented, placed at each end of the fire to keep the wood or other fuel in order on the hearth. Two "haundirrens" of iron. Coldingham Inventory, 1374. In 1410, the word seems to have been synonymous with a poker. Three "porres, alias naundirens." — Bishop Langley's Account Roll, 1410.

ANNIVERSARIUM, xxxiii. The yearly return of any particular day, the observance of which was a matter of obligation. In the page referred to, the anniversary was that of the obit of Sir Walter Daudre, who had conferred upon the monks the mill of Coxhoe, (see p. 103,) and had chosen Finchale as the burial place of himself and Constance, his wife. The monks distribute a maundy of bread, (see MANDATUM) upon the occasion.

APPROXIMACIO, ccccv. The meaning of this word in the page referred to does not seem obvious. It is perhaps a mistake for appruatiōe. See the next word.

APPRUATUS, ccclxxx. Turned to profit, enclosed and cultivated for the first time, or after an interval of unproductiveness.

AQUA, vi., when in the singular number refers to the Wear. Ultra aquam, on the Cocken side. But infra aquas refers to the tract of country between the Tyne and the Tees. See p. xxiii.

AQUÆDUCTUS. The water course of a coal pit. Many particulars occur in the volume relative to the working of coals. The coals were probably in general extracted by means of horizontal drifts. 1533. Paid to Thomas Batmanson, and his four men for "le dryft dryvyng" in Beurpark for five days 16d.

ARAIACIO, cckxiv. The drawing up or setting in order of an account roll.

APAYS, clv. Tapestry or hangings of cloth for the walls of a room. The name is derived from Arras, in Flanders, where cloth of this sort was first fabricated.

ARCHA, clv., for arca, a chest.

ARMIGER, ii.; viii. The armiger of the convent was a person of family who resided within its walls, and gave his personal attendance to the Prior especially when on a journey from home. In the pages referred to, the word occurs in connection with the horse which the armiger used on such occasions. The armigeri of the Prior of Durham were numerous, and many of them were highly connected in the county. The system of young men of family attaching themselves to persons of rank and dignity prevailed among the laity also, and continued to a comparatively modern period. See the Will of Thomas Swinburne, of Edlingham, Esq. Durham Wills and Inventories, p. 373.

ARRERAGIUM. An arrear of money in the yearly account of the Priory.

ARURA, cxix. Ploughed land.

ASFERFURTH, 39. As far as.

ASSERES, cclxvii. Spars, or perhaps occasionally laths of wood for the roof of a building. Asser has been generally considered to be the name of a board, but in the place referred to, the two are evidently distinct things. Asseres, lætta. Somn.

ASSIGNATUS, for assignatus, an assign.

ASSISA, REDDITUS ASSISÆ, passim. Rents of assise, rents of lands set or let for a certain sum of money, or other equivalent. In no one instance does the latter word occur at length in the Rolls. It may in fact be assisarum to agree with terrarium, but the meaning is the same. The title Assedatio terrarum occurs in a Coldingham Rent Roll dated in 1412.

ATILIA, iv., The gear or equipment of a plough, cart, &c.

ATTENDES, 98, Endwise.

ATTIRA, see ATILIA. "She painted her face and tired her head," 2 Kings

—ix. 30. The word is still used in the north. The fire of a cart wheel is the iron hoop which surrounds it.

ATTITULO, xxvi. To appropriate. In the page referred to, the sow, with her issue, was appropriated to the lamp of the Virgin.

AUCTENTICUS, 16; AUTENTICUS, 13. The original, when applied to a charter or other document. A trust-worthy or legal witness, when applied to a person.

AURICALCUM, cccxciv. Brass.

AVANTAGIUM, xxv. Advantage.

AVERIA, 87. Cattle, whether oxen or horses. See APFER.

AURICULUS, for avunculus.

AXILNALIS, ccxcix. Nails or bolts to attach the axle-tree to the body of the cart.

AXHILTRISS, lxxix.; AXILTRE, cclxxi.;

AXYLTRES, ccxcix., Axletrees.

AXYS, ccclx., Axes, hatchets.

B.

BACO, BAKO. A fat pig, either dead or alive, but more frequently the former, in a salted state.

BACULUM. See a surrender of the vill of Coken, per baculum, in the presence of Bishop Pudsey, in the year 1185, p. 87.

BANCORS, ccxcviii.; BANKER, iv.; BANQUER, cxvii.; BAUNKERES, v. Coverings for benches. One made of arras, p. clv. "Banqueres pro scabellis." Durham Inventory, 1446.

BANDIS, ccclx. Door bands of iron.

BARELLA, xxxvii.; BARELLUS, lii. A barrel. 1533. Received of the Prior of Montgrace 40s. in gold. For which paid him 3 "fraylls" of figs, 12s.; one "cope," 2s. 4d.; one "peayc" of great raisins, 12s.; one "barell" walnotts, 4s. 6d.; half a "barell" of prunes, 5s. 4d. Bursar's Mem.

BARHIDE, lxxv.; BARHYDE, clviii. A bear's hide or skin, used apparently by the Prior as a saddle-cloth. An Inventory of the goods belonging to the Priory of Durham in 1446, enumerates two "bare hides."

BARRES, lxvii.; BARRIS, lxxii. Iron bars for windows.

BATELLUM, xxxv, ccv. A boat.

BATTERYNG, cclxiii. The hammering of the slates into suitable sizes.

BAY (a bay horse), lxxxvii.

BEDCLATH, lxxviii. A bed-cloth.

BEDMEN, ccccxv. Persons living on charity, and bound to pray for their benefactors. A S. Bædan, to pray.

BEDNELFYSCH, cliii. Fish from Beadnel, on the coast of Northumberland, near Bamborough. An account in 1553 speaks of "Bednel-codlinges," immense quantities of which were yearly purchased by the Convent of Durham till the Dissolution. In the year 1533, above-mentioned, 580 fish cost £1. 0s. 9d.; carriage, 3s. 8d. Beadnel supplied "dogdraves," also. V. DOGDRAVE.

BELYS, ccxcix. Bellows for the forge. Paid for a tanned hide for covering "de lez belowes" 16d. Smelting Accounts, Anno 4, Ric. Episcopi. Paid for two "swerdblads for lez belowes" 2d. 1410, Bishop's Rolls.
BERDYNG, ccclvi. Qu. Bearding or trimming the hedges. To beard wool is to cut the head and neck from the rest of the fleece.

BERLEPE, lii. A basket or hopper used in sowing Bear, or four rowed barley, at that period almost the only species of barley cultivated in the northern counties. The word lep or lepe is still used in this sense in Suffolk. A.S. lep, a basket. Forby.

BERNE, 96. A barn.

BEYA, ccclxxxiii.. Beer. This fact ill accords with the rhyme that

Hops and turkeys, carp and beer,
Came into England all in one year, during the reign of Henry VIII.

BLADUM, Corn. BLADUM DURUM, iii. Hard corn, wheat as opposed to barley and oats, perhaps from its hardihood in braving the winter. Mr. Brockett is mistaken in supposing that the term hard corn, which is still in use, refers merely to wheat or maslin in the blade or on the ground. The durum bladum at Finchale was clearly in the granary.

BLANKETES, xxxvi. Blankets. Paid to John Brokley, of London, "draper," for one web of "blankettfyn" containing 24 yards, for the use of my Lord, at 10s. per yard, £12. Bishop's Accounts, Hen. VI.

BLODIUS, cxvii. Of a red or blood colour; a most favourite dye in ancient upholstery.

BOCHYNG AXE, ccxcix. A butcher's hatchet—or, perhaps a mistake of the writer for brochyng ars, a mason's axe as then used.

BOLITRIDUM, cccvi. See POLITRIDUM.

BOLLIS, cccc. Bolls, sc. of corn.

BONUS. Good, perfect, unbroken. Furcæ bonæ, p. xxxvii.

BORDIS DE ESTLAND, ii. Boards, or timber, from Norway.

BORDCLATH, cxvii; BORTCLATH, lxxii. Table cloths.

BOSCUM, 79. A wood, but not of high or full grown timber. The word silva seldom occurs in the volume.

BOTÆ PRO CELLERARIO, lxiv. Boots for the Cellarer who rode much on horseback in quest of provisions, &c. for the monastery.

BOVATA. A bovat of land is somewhat uncertain in its number of acres. At p. 59, however, we find it composed of the definite number of thirty.

BOVERIA, iv. The ox house.

BOVETTUS, xxvi. A young ox. The term is applied to cattle of different ages between calfhood and maturity.

BOWTCLATHIS, cclxviii. See BULTCLATHE.

BOWYSTER, ccxcviii. A bolster.

BRACIATOR, xxv; BRASIATOR, xiii, A brewer.

BRACINA, iv. A brew-house.

BRANDARET, ccxcviii; BRANDARETH, ccxcix, cccciv. The brandareth is said in the glossaries to be a tripod of iron placed over a fire to support a pan or kettle. In modern times it is a grid-iron. But when, as the last reference proves, 44 stones of iron were used to make a brandareth, we must look for a different meaning. It was probably a large iron screen of bar work standing before the fire, and extending over it. 1532. Paid for working 5 stone of iron of the old "brandreth" at 2d., 10d. Bursar's Mem. One "round brandreth" of iron. Coldingham Inventory, 1446. A "gyrd-yrin" occurs as the next item.

BRANDYRNE, clvii. The same.

BRASELLUM, iv. see RASSELLUM.

BRASEUM; BRASIUM. Malt was made at Finchale as frequently from oats as from barley, iv.

BRASIO—ARE. To brew.

BRAWN, ii. A boar killed and prepared for the table by salt and other condiments. The term was then, as now, applied to the live animal. 1531. Bought of Robert Laxe, of Ferry (hill), one "brawne," 8s.

BREWLEDE, cclxxviii; BREWLEYD, ccxcix; BRULEYDE, cclxxxvii. The leaden cooling vessel used by brewers.

BROCHYS, ccxcviii. Spits.

BRODDIS, lii, lxxxv, cclxxvi; BROD-NALE, cclxi. Short nailes, Prodds.

BRODGEES, clvii. Brood geese.

BRULEYD, ccxcix. See BREWLEDE.

BRUERA, xxv. A memorandum in the Register of Cardinal Langley (fol. 18), settles the meaning of this word in the North of England. "Bruera nostra vulgo dict. lynq." It occasionally however is extended to briars and other brush-wood used as fuel.

BRYDYLBYTTES, cccxciv. Bridle-bitts. 1531. Paid for 4 "payr brydelbytts," bought of Anthony Heltryngham, 12d. To the same for one "payr bytts and verneshynge j payr spurrys" for myself, 8d. Bursar's Mem.

BUCKYLLIS, ccccix. Buckles.

BULO FELIES DE, lii. Fellies are the pieces of wood which constitute the rim of a cart wheel. What is bulum? It may be a mistake for ebulum, but it seems improbable that elder could be found of a size sufficiently large.

BULTCLATHE, BULTCLATHYS, BULTINGECLAYESS, BULTINCLAYTHIS, BOWTCLATHIS, BULTCLOTHES, BULTCLAYTHIS, BOWTCLOTHES. The cloth used in sifting or temsing meal. Bought bread is bowlled bread, and not, as Mr. Brockett states, because of its being purchased of the baker.

BULTINGARKE, lii; BULTYNGARKE, clvii. The tub or chest in which the operation of boulting was performed.

BURDIS, cclix. Boards.

BURSA, ix. The common purse or stock.

BURSARIUS, xxxvi. The keeper of the bursa; the treasurer.

BUT, 98. A small portion of land: a ridge running in a contrary direction.

BUTTERESSES, cccli. The external projections of a wall, to give strength and support to the building.

BUTT', ccxcix. A buttress; a knife used by horse shoers in paring the hoof of the animal.

BUTTERFLYS. The covering of a bed ornamented with black and white butterflies, clv.

BYNDYNG, ccclvi. Binding for the aqueduct or leaden pipe—cords of hemp saturated with tallow to be bound around the decayed parts.

BYRN', ccxcix.

BYRNYRYS, ccxcix. Seven are mentioned. They could hardly have been marking irons.

C.

CABIL, clviii. A cable or strong rope.

CAKES, p. xxviii.

CALABS. Steel.

CALATHA, A basket.

CALIBS. Steel. 1532 paid for "j bur-dyng calabis, 3s." Bursar's Mem.

CALKE, ccclxxxii. This word occurs in the same line with lime, otherwise it might have been considered as a mis-spelling of calce.

CALUMPANIA, A claim or challenge.

CALUMPNIOR, p. 4, to claim.

CAMERA, p. v, &c. Originally anything crooked; from Germ. cam., camner. The word oammarel is used in the North of England by butchers, as the name of the bow-shaped piece of wood which distends the legs of a killed animal when suspended to cool. "Soon crooks the tree that good cameril will be." Camden's Remaines, Proverbs. The word was afterwards applied to a vaulted or arched room, and afterwards to a whole suite of apartments. The Prior of Durham's camera was the present Deanery. The Prior of Finchale had a camera appropriated to him in the Infirmary at Durham.

CAMINUS FERREUS, cclxxix. An iron grate or fire-place, which might be moved from one apartment to another.

CAMISIUS, p. 35, A shirt.

CANABUM, iv, Canvas.

CANC', ccxcix; Cancer, a pair of pincers.

CANCERES, clvii, Anseres, geese.

CANDELA, A candle.

CANDELA PASCHALIS. See CEREUS PASCHALIS.

CANEVACE, Cloth of canvas. Paid for 100 ells of "caneuas" for "pauylons (tents) 52s. 6d." Bishop's Accounts, circ. 1383.

CANNOBIUM, cxvii. Coverings of canvas.

CANOBIUM, cccx. Hemp.

CANTORES AD LUDUM, cccxviii, &c. The singers at the festival of the Boy Bishop. See EPISCOPUS PUEBILIS.

CAPA, lx. Apparently an upper riding habit. "John Dodds, dwellynge at Lodgaite, at ye signe of ye spayd for cappes." Bursar's Memoranda, 1530.

CAPO, A Capon. In 1530, the Bursar of Durham paid 8d. for a capon; a common chicken at that time cost him a penny. See PULLETRIA.

CAPUT. A person, a head of cattle.

CARBONES MARITIMI, xlviii. Sea coal, so called from being carried coastwise. The Bursar of Durham, in 1531, paid 21d. per day to John Dawson and his four men for winning coals for the Monastery.

CARBONES DECIMALES, lv. Tithe coals.

CARCOSIUM. The body of an animal killed for the larder.

CARD', clv. One "silor" of blood-coloured "card." Coldingham Roll, 1446.

CARACTA, CARECTA, CARETTA, A cart. Carecta ferro ligata, a cart having wheels hooped with iron. Carecta sometimes denotes a sledge. Paid for one "carecta voc' le sledde." Mining Roll, 4 Ric. Episc.

CARECTARIUS, CARETARIUS, A carter.

CARTBODI, liii. A cart without its wheels.

CARIO—ARE to carry, 1532. Paid for the carriage (cariagio) of one "barell vinacre," one "barrel of prunes," one "gage" of eels, one barrel of red herrings, and "j peayc" of wax, weighing ccth. liijqu. xxvliba., 16 Mar. 3s. 4d. Bursar's Mem.

CARNIFEX. A butcher.

CAROLLS, xxxvi. Small pews or enclosed seats. See a description of those in the cloister at Durham, in P. Sanderson, p. 75. They took their name probably from their resemblance to the stalls in which the monks carolled or sung during Divine service. In the bill for making the carols in the Cloister, they are called in latin studia. After all, this may be merely a corruption of the word quarell, a small four-corner'd enclosure.

CATRACHEZ, lxxix, Cart-traces.

CARUCA, A plough.

CARUCARIUS, A ploughman.

CASULA, lxiv., A casule or chesible, a robe worn by the officiating priest during Divine service. It takes its name from its close-enveloping character—quasi parva casa.

CATOUR, cxli. The cater or provider of cates or provisions. Modern usage has improperly added a syllable to the word. Dr. Johnson, with the primitive word before him, in Carew's Survey of Cornwall, falling into the common error, supposes it to be a misprint for caterer. In 1530 the name of cater was applied only to the person who purchased fish for the Monastery. The general purchaser of food was called the provisor. 30th April, 1530, paid to John Storey, for 39lbs. of "le flokks," for the saddles of the fish caters, at 1d., 2s. 4d " (sic). Bursar's Mem. The fish purchased for the Monks of Durham in 1532 were salmon, "codlyngs," "Bednellcodlyngs, dogdrave" herrings, white (or fresh) and red (or salted), "stok-fysh," eels, porpaises (porci marini), "pykkerels, tenchys, lamprays, pyks, kelynges, lyngs, turbotts, congers, stourgons, sprengts, thornbeks, butts, muscles." In 1533 hadoks, codlyng dried, poudertfyshe, dried had-dok, and spleyt-codlynge are added to the list. Ibid.

CAUTERIA FERREA, clv., A burning-iron for marking the cattle. This implement was kept as we see in the lower study.

CXDULA, xxxvi., quasi schedula—a schedule or small list of memoranda—containing in this instance a list of debtors.

CELARIA, A cellar.

CELARIUM, cxxxv. for Salarium, salary or wages.

CELDRA, A chaldron or thirty-six bushels.

CEPE, for Sepse, a hedge.

CERA, ccclxxv., for Sera, a lock. The two words both occur here in the same line.

CEREA, CERICUS, CERIUS, A candle made of wax.

CERIUS PASCHALIS, ccclxxvi. A wax candle, of a large size, for the Easter solemnities. The Paschal candle at Durham was not round but square, and stood in the Choir upon a splendid frame-work, of such a height that the candle was lighted through an opening in the vault or roof. See Sanderson, p. 14. In 1531, common wax 6d. per lb., red wax, for seals, &c. 1s. per lb., and rosin 1½d. per lb.

CERVISIÆ TRES, iv. Three brewings of beer.

CHAFOUR, CHALFER, CHAWFR. A chafing dish—a kitchen utensil for warming victuals—and perhaps a warming pan for a bed.

CHAFOUR FRYXORIUM, ccxcviii., Apparently a frying pan.

CHAKYLS, ccxcix., Hod. Shackle, a moveable hoop made of iron, and fixed to the extremity of the plough beam by a loose bolt and screw. The team of oxen or horses to draw the plough is yoked to the shackle. The word occurs again as schakyls in the page referred to. See SCHAKYLS.

CHALONES, xxxvi, li., Panni picti qui vocantur chaluns. Du Cange. Probably here nothing more is meant than blankets. We still have the word in shalloon.

CHAMI ccxcix, cccciij., Greek χαμος, frenum, a bridle.

CHARDOURS, lxi.; CHARGEOURS, lxviii.; CHARJORS, ccxcviii.; CHARJOURS, cxviii. Large dishes. Those at Coldingham in 1374 were of tin. Coldingham Inventory.

CHEKYRD, cxviii.; CHEKERY, clv.; Checked, of different colours.

CHEMENE PRO TORALI, liii. A chimney

- or moveable grate, here used for the malt-kiln.
- CHESELL, ccxcix. A chisel, a small wedge of iron used in splitting wood, and sometimes by masons for hewing stones.
- CHOPPYNG KNYFFEZ, cccxciv.
- CHYMNA DE FERRO, ccxcix. A moveable grate of iron in the bake-house. See CHEMENE above.
- CHYNGIL NAYLES. Nails used in roofing a house with shingles or boards. See p. xxxvii., Clavi quæ vocantur chyngil nayle.
- CILICIUM PRO TORALI, lxx. A hair cloth for the malt-kiln.
- CILICINUS PANNUS. Hair cloth.
- CIMBA, ccli. A boat.
- CIMINUM, Cummin. "De rent pepper et cummin, p. cxv."
- CINDO, for Scindo lij., to cut.
- CIROGRAFFATUM, see CYROGRAPHATUM.
- CIRPI, for Scirpi, rushes. 1533, paid for mowing "le rycshys," 8d. Bursar's Mem.
- CLAMANCIA QUIETA, 70. A quit claim, a perpetual renouncement of a previous right, real, or pretended.
- CLAMIUM, 44. A claim.
- CLAMO, 48. To claim, to demand, as a right.
- CLAMMYS, ccclvi. Iron clamps or cramps to bind together horizontally the stone-work of a piece of masonry. In the page referred to, 344 were used to secure the masonry connected with the mill. Much of that masonry still remains, and many of the clamps here purchased are still visible.
- CLAUSTRUM, cccxciv. The cloister of the Priory.
- CLAUSA PORTA, v. PORTA.
- CLAUSTRUM MOLENDINI, cclv. The flood gate of a mill. The Cloose or Cleur is still in many places of the North of England the name of the floodgate.
- CLAVEATUS. CARECTA CLAVEATA, liij. A cart having wheels clouted and nailed with iron.
- CLIEPPIS, ccxcviii, See CLYPES.
- CLERY, 96. Clearly.
- CLOK, cciii; CLOKE, 31. A clock. The former entry refers to the purchase of a clock in 1430, which cost 2s. 6d.
- CLOKRAPE, cccxciv. A rope or string for a clock.
- CLOWTIS, ccxcix. Clouts or plates of iron. See MULEBBREYD.
- CLYPES, xxxvii; Pot hooks, the bow by which a pot or pan is suspended over the fire, made generally of two or more pieces of iron linked together so as to suit a large or small vessel. They are called Pot kilps in N.R.Y. See Jamieson. v CLIP.
- CLYPPS, ccxcix, A pair of shears.
- COBILL, cxxxvii.; COBYLL, cxlix. A coble or boat.
- COCLEAR, iv. ccclxxii. A table-spoon. In 1311, the monks of Finchale possessed fourteen silver table spoons, and in 1486, nineteen.
- CODBER, clv. The case or outer covering of a bolster or pillow.
- CODLYNGS, cliii. The fish so called.
- COFRI, iv., Coffers or chests—here used for keeping bed clothes, &c.
- COLERES, ccxxi; COLERRES, liii. Collars for horses.
- COLPIKES, xxxvi. Coal picks, iron tools used in displacing coal from its stratum.
- COLPO, lxxxv., To lop timber. 1532, "payd for fellynge of xix treys vjs. iiijd. For toppinge and swayrdynge off the sayme xixs." Bursar's Mem.
- COLUMNNA, xci, for columna, here a buttress of masonry to secure the mill-dam.
- COMMUNA or COMMUNIS DOMUS, xi., xiii. The Common house of the monks of Durham resembling the Combination room of a College. See Sanderson, 80, 97.
- COMMUNIARIUS. The officer who had the Common house or Combination room under his superintendence.
- COMPANAGIUM, xlii. Any kind of food save bread—whatever is eaten with bread. See SOULSILVER.
- COMPOSTO, xxxviii. To manure with compost, a term still well known in the North of England.
- COMPOSTATÆ ACRÆ, ibid.
- COMPOTUS-I, COMPOTUS-US. The yearly reckoning or account of the Priory.
- CONCELO, lv., to conceal. Concealed land is land of which the occupant has deprived or is attempting to deprive the owner.
- CONDUCTUS, lxvii, ccccli, A conduit or water course. In the former reference it includes the lead pipe in which the water was conveyed. 1530, 3rd March, paid to two men working at "le coundeth" in the high wood of Elvet for one day 10d. Bursar's Mem.

CONVERSI, xviii. Persons who had not been regularly trained up from their youth in a religious order, but who had embraced it at a later period of life. "vii Kal. Oct. Obiit Swartebrandus et Walterus conversus, nostræ congregationis fratres et monachi." Cod. MSS. Eccles. Dunelm. Catalogus, 217. See in the same place numerous other instances of the word.

COPBORD, cxviii. A cupboard, not in its modern sense as a small closet, but as a side table or board for the same purpose.

COPBORDCLAYTH, ccxcviii, A cloth to cover the cup-board.

COPS, cxv., Copse wood, loppings of trees.

COPULA, cii., A diminutive from copa or cupa, a measure for corn and other things. One "cope ficuum," 1530. One "copynett" ficuum. Bursar's Mem.

COQUINA, The kitchen. Some notion may be formed of the consumption of the Monastery of Durham, when we state, that in the year 1533 there were cooked in its kitchen 258 oxen or cows, 765 sheep, distinguished by the names of "sharlyngs," 313, killed from Whitsuntide to Michaelmas, "Volskyngs," 445, killed from Michaelmas to the beginning of Lent and "Mayskynes," 7, killed from Easter to Whitsuntide. In the same year the number of lambs killed for the kitchen was 268, pigs 24, and boars 2.

COQUINA, lxvi. Pro coquina sua. see MONIALIS and SOULSILVER.

CORDA, iv., A cord or rope.

COREA DEALBATA PRO HERNAS', lij. Hides tanned for the purpose of making harness for horses and oxen.

CORIATUS, xxxvi. Tanned. In 153... the bark of 80 trees was sold for 20s.

CORNERA, ccxxx. The corner in the market-place of Durham where there dwelt a merchant of whom, in 1439, the Monks of Finchale purchased their wax.

CORPORALE, clx. A linen cloth to cover the eucharist.

COSTAGIUM, ccxlviii. See CUSTAGIUM.

COSTERA, cclxxv. The side of any thing. Here a loose hanging or hallyng of cloth for the walls of a room. At the page referred to, the hangings for the hall are bought of Alice Birde, of Newcastle, and they are afterwards dyed by Richard Baxter.

COSTREL, ccxcviii, ccclxxxiii. A large vessel for wine or other liquor. In the latter page it is hooped with iron.

COUNTERFETYA, cxvii; COUNTERFET, clvi; COUNTIRFETS, cxviii. Washing utensils and Kitchen ware made to resemble a material different from that of which they were composed.

COUPPES PRO FIMO, lxi. Carts for leading manure, so called, not, as Mr. Brockett states, from their being able to be couped or turned up in order to be emptied, but from having their sides and ends not of open rail work, but couped or tubbed with boards. Mr Brockett confines the appellation to a short cart, the long cart according to him not being capable of being couped and therefore not so called; but a wain is the longest of carts, and, as we shall see, there were Coupwayns at Finchale.

COUPE BODI, lij; COUP BODY, lxxviii. The body of a coup cart apart from the wheels.

COUPWAYN, cxxvii; CUPWANYA, ccxcix. COWPWAYN, ibid. A long cart or wain with sides of boards, and not of staves.

COURBYNG, ccclv. Strengthening by bands or hoops.

COURBYS, ccclv. Bands or hoops used to strengthen a cistern or boiler.

COVERLETTE, li.; COVERLYT, xxxvi. A covering for a bed.

COWTERS, ccxcix v. CULTERS.

CRATICULA, v, &c. A grid-iron. Roost-yron, craticula. Prompt. Parv.

CRAW, cxix. An iron crow or lever.

CREBRIS, lxxiv, for cribris. Sieves for corn or lime.

CRESETS, ccxcviii. Lamps or lanterns.

CRESTE, ccxcii. The crest over the high altar must have been the ornamented summit of the canopy, here called the tabernacle, in which the pix containing the Eucharist was placed. The corresponding canopy at Durham was surmounted by a pelican of silver gilt, giving her blood to her young ones.

CRIBIC', ccclxxviii, perhaps for cribris, sieves.

CROFTY, cxiii, for crofti, the gen. of croftum.

CROFTUM GODRICI. The land comprised in Bishop Pudsey's charter, p. 21. The fields still bear the name of the Saint.

CROKYS, ccxcix. Crooks of iron.

CROPPEs, clxxxix; CROPIS, cx; CROPPYS, cxx. The croppings or loppings of trees, which the monks frequently sold along with the bark of the timber which they felled.

CROSIS, ccccx; Cruises, drinking cups. Memorandum, delivered to John Rychardson, "coyner, j sylver ayle croyse," on the day of St. Bartholomew the Apostle, weighing 9½oz., at 4s. 6d. Bursar's Mem., 1530. Thus the Prior's plate was converted into the Bishop's money.

CUCULLUS, ix. The hood or cowl of a monk. 1531. Paid for a "cucullus de sago" (of shag), with the making of it, 11s. Bursar's Mem.

CULTERS, clviii; Coulters. The tooth of the plough, which makes the perpendicular incision in the ground.

CULYNGFATT, ccxcix. A cooling vat in the brewhouse.

CUYLYNGLEYD, ccxcix. A leaden vessel for cooling the wort in the brewhouse.

CUNYS, ccclxxxii. The coin or corner stones of a building.

CUPA, cxvii. A measure for corn. See COPULA.

CUPERIUS, cxx. A cooper.

CURIA, ii. The curia of Finchale was the court yard and outbuildings.

CURIALITAS, cxv. A gift ex curialitate, was a gift out of courtesy, literally a present, there being no claim for remuneration.

CURRUS, xxxviii. Evidently a vehicle of a superior character, perhaps for the convenience of an aged Prior.

CURTILAGIUM, 89. A small enclosure, here distinct from the garden.

CUSSHYNS, lxxviii. Cushions.

CUSTAGIUM, lxxiv; CUSTAMENTUM, 76; CUSTUS, ccxlviii. Cost, expense.

CUVA, xxxvii, lii; CUVUS, cxix. A trough. For CUNA, &c., r. CUVA, &c.

CYROGRAPHATUM, 112. An indenture in the proper sense of the term. Two copies of the deed were written on the same parchment, from the middle to each extremity. Six or eight of the first letters of the alphabet, or the word Cyroglyphatum (from χρῖς and γραφω) were written in large characters upon a vacant space between the two, and then the parchment was irregularly severed with a knife, as a check is cut from a banking book. As long as one copy remained, the forgery of another was fruitless.

DALBURA, ccclxvii. Plastering with lime or clay. "A dawber or clayman" is explained in the Prompt. Parvul. by Argillarius bituminarius, lutor. 1531. Paid for wattles (virgæ) and "dalbyngstours" for four chimneys in Gilligate, 6d. Bursar's Mem. These were evidently chimneys of clay, and the twigs and dalbyngstours constituted the framework to which the clay was applied. Such chimneys may still be seen in old houses. Paid to a mason daubing ("daubanti") the windows and gables of the Chancel of Edenham for one day, 4d. Coltingham Roll for 1330.

DAME LE, cxiii. The mill dam. See WABAND, WERE, and YABE.

DAYERIA, xxxi, xxvii. The dairy. At Muggleswick, the repairs of the hall, chapel, a grange, and the dairy, "deira," are estimated at £26 13s. 4d. Durham Inventory, 1446.

DEALBACIO, cccxc. At first sight this word would seem to signify white washing, and perhaps this is one of its meanings. It is probable, however, that it is sometimes synonymous with DALBURA, above. In 1531, there occurs a sum paid for the "dealbacio ij pellium equorum," which means, without doubt, the making the hides white by the process of drying and bleaching still in use. In the margin of the account of 1531, to which we refer, is the heading "Empcio le Whytele-dr," which renders further explanation, in this latter instance, unnecessary.

DEBILIS, liii, &c. Weak, not good, imperfect, old, infirm, broken. A word of general application. DEBILIS CARECTA, liii; DEBILIS EQUUS, lxiii; DEBILIS SALMO, clvii.

DECASUS, cclxxxi, is used for a falling off of revenue; but qu. an allowance to a tenant. See STACIO.

DECENTER, xxxix. In a workmanlike manner.

DD., ccxxxiv. Here a dozen pounds of pepper.

DEFALCO, xix. To subtract from an account, to reduce the sum.

DEIRIA, lvii. See DAYERIA.

DEMANDA, 51; DEMANDUM, 151. A demand or claim.

DEO-DANS, cviii. Giving to God, bestowing a gift upon the Monks. The substantive is Deo-datum. Forty shillings was a large sum. Why is the name of the donor concealed?—"And so he has spent over and above £62 9s. 8d., which sum he has received in gifts (ex Deo datis) by Sir Henry Percy and other friends deceased, whose souls God pardon." Coldingham Account Roll for 1406.

DEPASTUS, ccxxix. Already fat.

DEYERIA, xxiii. See DAYERIA.

DIATIM, cccxvi. Daily.

DIRATIONO, 43. To deraign. See any Law dictionary.

DISCUS, lxxv. A dish.

DISTRIBUCIO—A dole at a funeral. 1533. "In distribucione" to the poor at the obit of Sir John Castell, in Sep., 10s. To the poor, at the obit of Sir Edm. More, 16 Mar., 10s. At the obit of Sir Christ. Blunt, terrar, 10s. Bursar's Mem. The funeral dole has only very lately fallen into disuse in the North of England.

DISVADIO, 4. To remove from mortgage or pawn.

DOCER PRO ESTATE, ccxcviii. The "docer of a hall" is explained in the Prompt. Parv. by Dorsorium, aulaum. It was therefore a hanging of cloth for the walls. The Monks of Finchale had, as it appears, two sets of hangings, one for summer, and another for winter. See COSTERA.

DOGDRAFE, lxxvii; DOGDRAFFES, ccxxxiv; DOGDRAVES, iv; DOGDRAVE, ix; DOGDREV, ccclxxviii. This word has not been found in any glossary. That it was a sea fish is certain; and that an immense number of them were consumed by the Monks of Durham, and their brethren in the Cells, is equally so. A "dogdrayf" was sold at Hartlepool in 1415, for 14d. (See ST. CUTHBERT, p. 141.) Twenty, as may be seen above, p. lxxvii, were, in 1367, valued at 18s. In the same year, ten salmon were worth 11s. In 1532, the Monks of Durham dried many dogdraves themselves. They purchased the fresh fish at 40s. per hundred. For drying 446, they paid to Robert Ellyson, chaplain, 4s.; and they paid 2d. per night, for 31 nights, to a man who watched them whilst the process of drying was going on. In 1531, they borrowed ten dogdrave of the Prior of Finchale, valued at 3s. 4d. Small dogdrave are occasionally mentioned. Mention is also made at the same time of codlings, kelings, and Bednell codlings; the latter cost 8d. and 9d. per score, in 1532. Dogdrave, in a Coldingham Roll for 1346. "Doukdrawys" Ib. 1374. The word drave, as it is now used in Scotland, doubtless forms a part of this early word. "The [herring] boats belong partly to fishermen (who employ the rest of the year in catching white fish), and partly to landmen, who build and equip them in the way of adventurers. An adventure of this kind is called a DRAVE. St. Baldred of the Bass, a Poem, p. 265. In Berwickshire, by the herring drave is understood the shoal or drove of herring which periodically visits the coast. As cod is not enumerated in the above list, the fish in question was perhaps the cod fish, and its name may be connected with the Dutch dogger, or light fishing vessel. Dogger fish are mentioned in the stat. 31. E. III., as the fish which these vessels caught for sale; and the Dogger Bank takes its name from their frequenting it. It must not be concealed that the dog-fish occasionally constituted an article of food with our ancestors, but the immense number of dogdrave annually consumed by the Monks of Durham, and their brethren in the Cells, seems to militate against the notion that this was the fish in question.

DOLACIO, ccclv. The rough hewing and squaring of timber. Paid to John Pytchere, carpenter, "pro dolacione meremii," for the hall at Beuerpark, for 3 days and a half, 21d. 1531. Bursar's Mem.

DOMICILIUM, cxiii. More frequently Domus, which see.

DOMINUS. When this word occurs in the Rolls per se it generally refers to the Prior of Finchale.

DOMUS. The House of Finchale; the establishment in and out of doors, with all its rights, privileges, and immunities, its "inside and outside gear."

DORSTOTHES, ccclv. The wooden cheeks or upright posts of a door-frame.

DORMOND. clv. Generally a large beam in the roof of a house, upon which portions of the other timber rest or sleep. Here it is part of the clothing of a bed.

DORSORIUM, ccv. A hanging of plain cloth, or of tapestry, for the walls of a room, which were frequently merely pargetted, or roughly plastered, and sometimes, perhaps, not plastered at all. See DOCER, COSTERA, and HALLYNG.

DOUGLESTOUR, cclxxix. See next col.

DRAQ, clviii, called ccxcix, a "muk-hak." A fork with crooked grains to pull manure from a cart and distribute it in small heaps upon the ground.

DRESSINGKNYFFE, lii. Used in the kitchen.

DUN, 98. Down, downwards.

DUODENA; DUODENUM. A dozen in number, pounds, &c.

DWGLESTOUR, cccvi. Douglas tower.

A tower so called in the Monastery. It must have been the room with the projecting window marked Z in the plan, one of the best-situated apartments in the Priory, but no historical evidence remains to lead to the origin of the appellation. The Earls of Douglas had much intercourse with the Convent of Durham and the Priory of Coldingham. (See NORTH DURHAM, Appendix, p. 34-36.) In the latter, they occasionally held office as senescalls, and in journeying to the former, one of them may have visited Finchale, the fairest of her daughters, and have given his name to the tower in which he slept. A bay window, now foolishly called the wishing chair, opened from this part of the monastic buildings upon the full sweep of the Wear, as it skirts the monastic grounds overshadowed by the woods of Cocken, and placed full in view such a combination of rock, and wood, and water, as is surpassed only by the magic scenery of Fountains, and Bolton. There may have been an Earl of Douglas able to appreciate a "scene so fair." One who bears that name is now, in right of his stall in Durham Cathedral, the owner of the Priory, and has manifested his taste by doing much to preserve its venerable ruins, and free them from the accumulated impurities of three centuries.

DYNMOWTHES, cclxviii Dinmonts, male sheep in their second year.

EASE CATHEDRA DE, clv, juxta latrinam, in Camera Prioris. All our antient buildings manifest great attention to the convenience of the latrina, especially with reference to that part of a castle which was to be the last refuge in case of a siege.—See NORTH DURHAM, under Norham Castle, p. 288. We have here, at Finchale, an aged Prior, who died within the year, and we have an additional accommodation for his infirmities.

ELECTRUM, cxxxviii. A mixture of brass and tin.

ELECTREUS, cxxviii; ELECTRINUS, ccclxxvi. 1531. Paid to John Cuk, of Pykall, for the exchange of 36½ lbs. "vasorum electrin'" for Beuerpark, at 1d.—3s. For 8 "dyshys & xij salsers," weighing 25½ lbs. ad 5d.—10s. 7½d. For 6 "dublers" 11½ lbs., at 5d.—4s. 10d. And in exchange for one "playt" 6½ lbs., 2s. 8½d., &c.—Bursar's Mem.

ENNEUS, ccclxxii, for aheneus, made of brass.

ENTERCLOSE WALLS, ccclxxi; ENTERCLOYSS WALLS, ccclxxxii; ENTERCLOSSE WALLIS, cccxcviii. Apparently walls of partition between one house and another, belonging to the same or different owners. The word occurs in the Itinerary of William of Worcestre (p. 288), a curious collection of church and architectural terms and notices.

EPISCOPUS PUERILIS. The Boy Bishop. See NORTH DURHAM, p. 89. ST. CUTHBERT, p. 136. ELLIS's Brand's Pop. Antiq. I., p. 328, &c. The different Cells and dependencies of the Convent of Durham, all of them contributed their share to the gaud of the Boy Bishop, in the Infirmary of their Mother Church. In the entry, "Cantoribus ad ludum suum," the boy Bishop must be understood to be the personage at whose festival the money was expended, and to whom the word suus refers. The original entry was "Episcopo Puerili," with the sum contributed, and then followed "Cantoribus ad ludum suum," with another sum so given. In later years, before the Reformation, the latter entry was the only one, but it referred to both, and included the two contributions.

EQUITURA, xxxviii. Sellæ pro equitura. Riding, and not load saddles.

ERBAGIUM, xxxv. Herbagium. Agistment.

ESCAETA, 89, v. See ESCHEAT, in the Law Dictionaries.

ESTLAND, BORDÆ DE, ii; ESTLAND-BORDES, cclxxvi. Norway timber, in planks or boards.

ESTOWERIA, 110. Here wood for a cow-house, for hedging, and for the fire. The word stowers is still in use in the north of England, as the upright bars in the body of an open cart; and also for hedge or any other stakes.

EVANESCO, xxxvi. "Debitorum evanuerunt per mortalitatem." These debtors to the Priory are dead and gone, they have vanished, and all payment from them is hopeless. The expression is a peculiar one.

EXALTACIO, cccxciv. In the page referred to, the exalting or putting up windows in the Cloister.

EXCAMBIUM, li; EXCAMBIUM AURI. Money paid for the exchanging of light gold for gold of a due weight.

EXENNium, xxiii. A gift, a present. Gr., ἐννός. The Dona and Exennia seem to have been chiefly confined to persons of the different Religious Orders. The Regardum was generally a present to a layman. See REGARDUM.

EXITUS, xxix. Issue, revenue. 1531. Paid to the Coroner of the Lord Bishop for the rent (exitu) of an orchard in "Sadlergatt," at the mote (ad motam) of the Lord Bishop, per ann. 12d.—Bishop's Accounts.

EXONERO, xxxvi. To subtract from a reckoning, to discharge himself.

EXONERACIO. Ibid.

EXSERTO, 8. Ersarto, to take land from the waste and cultivate it. See SARTO.

EXTRACTA, lix. Weedings from the live stock of the Priory, sold for the use of the Cellarer.

EXTRACTUS CURIÆ, xix. A copy of the Court Roll extracted and given to a tenant of the Priory. Kennet, Par. Antiq., seems not to have understood the word in this, doubtless its true, light.

F.

FAGOTES, cclxviii; FAGOTTYS, ccclxiv. Faggots, bundles of brush-wood. In the latter page they were used for the mill-dam. See RYS.

FAL', 100. A measure or portion of land, less, apparently, than a rood. The word, at length, is Fallum or Fallus. It occurs in an early charter in the Monasticon Anglicanum.

FALANGA, clvii. A wooden lever to raise water from a well was so called. The wooden beam by means of which two men carried a large tub of water, was, according to the Prompt. Parv., a Falanga. "Coule tre or soo tre, Falanga, Vectatorium."

FALCACIO, Mowing. In 1531, 6d. per acre was paid for mowing the close called "Holcroft," in Framwellgate, and 6d. also was the daily wages of a mower in the same year. Bursar's Mem

FALDA, cclxiv. A fold-yard.

FALLTHROW, ccclxxxiii. A Fall-trough. Probably the trough into which the ground corn fell from the mill.

FARRAMENTUM, ccclxxxiii. For Fermentum.

FAT, lii, clvi; FATTIS, clvii. Large vessels or vats used in the brew-house.

FATUUS, cxiii. A new and characteristic application of the word fatuus.

FEDERBED, ccxcviii. A Feather-bed.

FELLYNG LE, ccclxi. The felling or cutting of branches from trees. The cutting down of timber. See COLPO.

FELIES, lii, ccclxxv; FELYS, xxxviii; FELS, ccclxxviii. The pieces of wood which constitute the rim or circumference of a cart wheel. Paid to Peter Hogeson, carpentar, for making a new "ryng of felys," with a pair of "naves" with "les spekes," &c. Bishop's Account Rolls, 1426.

FELIES DE BULO, lii. See BULUM. It is, after all, very probable that Elder is the wood there spoken of. This tree grows to a large size in the grounds at Finchale. Five years ago, the church was filled with it.

FENISTRA, cclxxv. For fenestra.

FEODUM COQUINÆ, cclviii. Kitchen-fee, "quidquid nomine feudi ex coquina percipiendum annuatim assignabatur." Du Cange. The modern application of the term is sufficiently known.

FERETRARIUS, cxcviii. The keeper of the shrine of St. Cuthbert in Durham Cathedral. See a list of these officers.—ST. CUTHBERT, p. 114.

FERINA, cccxciv. Venison. See REGARDUM.

FERRUM HISPANICUM. Spanish iron. See HISPANICUM.

FERRUM DE WERDALE. Iron smelted in Weardale. Numerous account Rolls of the Bishop of Durham's bloomeries in Weardale are preserved, affording valuable information relative to the mode of smelting in use in the fifteenth century, the wages of workmen, &c. In 1531, the Bursar of Durham paid 2d. per stone for working Spanish and Weardale iron.

FERRUM SIGNIFERUM, li. An iron for marking cattle.

FERRO-ARE. To shoe. In ferrandis equis lx.

FERRURA EQUORUM. The shoeing of horses. Paid to Nicholas Pykerynge for the shoeing of one horse in Chester, ld. 1531. Bursar's Mem.

FIDEJUSSOR, xxxvi. A bonds-man.

FINIS, xxvii. A fine, in the legal sense of the word.

FIRMA, viii. A farm.

FIRMARIUS, vii. A farmer.

FIRMATIO STAGNI, 9. The placing, or fixing and making firm of a mill-dam.

FIRRSPARRS, cxl. Spars of fir.

FLANDRENSIS, cxvii. A Flanders table, a Flanders chest. These articles of furniture were of oak, and were generally enriched with carving. The over sea kist is an invariable item of furniture in Inventories. They are still to be found in old houses. "In my ladyes chamber—two Flanders chistes, 10s." Inv. of Lady Hedworth, 1568.

FLAYNGKNYFFE, cccxciv. A kuife used in skinning an animal killed for the kitchen.

FLEKS, ccclxxxii; FLEKES, ccclxxv. Hurdles or rails of wood, here used in securing the mill-dam. A feak in Yorkshire is something resembling a gate, suspended horizontally a foot or two from the top of a room, and bearing the bread and cheese and bacon of the family. "Scaffaldes, seyntrees, and feakes" occur in the Contract for building the Domitory of the Monks of Durham in 1401.

FLEME, cxxxvii. The water course or race of the mill. Saxon flem, flumen. "Fullum aquæ, a feam or stream of water such as comes from a mill." Jacob's Law Dict.

FLESCROYK, ccxcviii. A flesh-hook, an instrument used in raising flesh from the pot in which it was boiled.

FLESHAXS, ccxcviii. A flesh or butcher's axe.

FOCALE, xxiv. Fuel, whether of coals or wood.

FODICIO TURBARUM, ccclxxv. The digging of turves, or sods—not for fuel, but for repairing the mill-dam.

FORAGIUM, xxviii. Straw for fodder.

FORCIPES, xxxvi. A pair of pincers.

FOREFACTUM, 76. A forfeit, a loss of a right in land or other property through breach of a contract.

FORGE LE, ccxxxii. The forge, the smithy.

FORINSECUS, xxviii. Forinsecæ expensæ, out of door expenses, as distinguished from those of the kitchen.

FORMAN, lxxxvi. The fore-man or head servant.

FORMULA, cxvii. A little form or wooden bench.

FORNACE. A Furnace.

FORPICES, clv. A pair of pincers.

FOSSATUM, ccxcvii. A ditch. The village of Forcet, in Yorkshire, vulg. Fosset, is so called from the ancient British ditches of encampment which surround it.

FOTHRE, cclxvii; FODRE, ccclxxxv. A fother. Lead £5 6s. 8d. per "fothre." 7-10 Henr. vi.

FOYRHAMER, ccxcix. A fore-hammer, the large hammer which strikes first, or before the small one.

FRANCUS, i. A sty in which boars were fattened. "Doth the old boar feed in the old frank." Shakesp. In the Promp. Parv. to franke is to make fat; and Bailey (Edit. fol.) has a verb in the same sense.

FRINSECUS, 138, External. See FORINSECUS.

FREYNS, ccxcix. Bridles.

FRIXIS, YETLINGS PRO, clvii. Pans used in frying.

FRIXO, ij. To fry.

FRIXORIUM, cxviii; FRIXORIA PATELLA, lxxviii. A frying pan.

FROGON, cxviii, clvii; FROGUN, ccxcix.

French FOURGON. "An oven forke wherewith fuell is both put into an oven, and stirred when it is on fire in it." Cotgrave. Fruggum, or Frugin is the name of the poker, in the North R. Y., whether of wood or iron, with which the fire in an oven is stirred.

FRONTELLI, cxvii. That portion of the cloth for the altar which hangs down in front of it. Two "manutergia twelde with two 'frontels' of silk, with arms embroidered with gold for covering the altars." Coldingham Inventory, 1446.

FRYNG PAN, ccclxxix.

FUGO, lxiv. We still in the north speak of driving the plough, and not the horses.

FULLATICUS, xl; FULLONATICUS. Molendinum fullaticum, or fullonaticum, a fulling mill. During the monkish period of England, when woollen cloth was almost exclusively worn by all classes, fulling or scouring mills were extremely numerous and profitable.

FUNDO, xxiv, xxv, bis. To steep, applied to barley intended for malt.

FURNAGIUM, ccxcviii; FURNASIUM, vi. The furnace or place in which a pot or caldron was placed over a fire.

FURRURA, xxiii. Fur, or skins of animals used in ornamenting robes, or in promoting the warmth and comfort of the wearer.

FUYTSOMES, ccxcix; FUTSOMYS, ccxcix. Foot-soam, an iron chain of eight or ten feet long, extending from the muzzle of the plough, and fixed to the yoke of the oxen next the plough. This was used when it was customary to plough with oxen. Jamieson. See MEDYLSOMES.

FYIRCHAFER, ccxcviii. Apparently a grate to hold fire, for the purpose of warming the room.

G.

GABULUM, ccxcvii. A gable, here applied to the east end of the church of Giggleswick; of the rebuilding of which, including the cost of the window, we have here an account: See the PLATE.

GANG, lxxviii; GANGA, lii. A sufficient number, a complement; here applied to a set of fellies, or spokes, for a cart wheel. The word is still used in this sense in Durham and Yorkshire.

GARBA, iv. A sheaf of corn.

GARCIO, xiv. The boys or lads employed in the Priory or its fields.

GARDINUS, xxviii. A garden.

GARDRAPA, lxxx; GARDROPA, xxiii; GRADROPA, lv. In the first of these references we have a scilicet of woollen cloth, fur, wax, and spices. Articles of clothing were, however, generally denoted by the term. In 1531, under the head of expenses for the Garderoba of the Convent of Durham, are included the purchasing of cloth for the generosi, the price of which varied from 25s. to 27s. per dozen yards; the purchasing of cloth for the valecti, at 2s. per yard; and the purchasing of cloth for the gromi, or grooms, at 1s. 6d. per yard. The cloth was chiefly bought at Ripon, of Edmund Bekwyth, and at "Waykfeld fayr." George Heddon was the person employed for the purpose, and at the end of the year there was presented to him 30s. in gold, in addition to a piece of gold, of the value of 7s. 6d., to buy him a "tunic." The cost of cloth for the year was £15 10s. 7d.—Bursar's Mem.

GARNER, ccclxxxii. A granary, a place for corn.

GARNESH, ccccx; GARNYS, cccli; GARNYSSHE, cccxcix; GARNYST, cxxxvii; GARNYSYT, cxviii; GARNYESSHIS, ccclxxvi; GARONIZATUS, lxxviii, lxi. Culinary or kitchen ware, of garnished or ornamented workmanship. "Duo duod. vasorum de stanno gernatt' fer' nova." Coldingham Inventory, 1374. Afterwards, the term seems to have been applied to a set of such vessels, as a garnish of dishes, &c., is of frequent occurrence.

GARSOM, cxxxi. V. GERSMA.

GARTHOUSE, cccliv. A garth-house, a house in a garth or small close.

GAVELOKE, xxxvi; GAVELock, lii; GAVILOK, lxxviii; GAYFLOCK, cccxcix. A gavelock, an iron crow or lever, used in raising stones in a quarry, and for other similar purposes. The word is still in common use.

GERSMA, lix; GERSUMA, lxxiv; GARSOM, cxxxi; GRESUMA, lxxxiii; GRESSUMMA, cxii. A sum of money paid as an earnest upon purchasing a piece of ground, or upon entering upon a lease, or upon any other occasion when a payment pro manibus is stipulated for. Mr. Surtees (III. 80.) has fallen into a singular mistake with respect to this word. He prints an extract from a charter concerning Thorp, in which is the clause "pro triginta solidis argenti quos mihi dedit in gerusamo," and he adds a note, which states that he had selected this charter "as presenting the spectacle of two men of Thorp meeting in Jerusalem, and, what is more extraordinary, surviving to settle their affairs at home." This mistake, when pointed out to him, afforded him great amusement.

GERTH WEBBYS, cxcii; GERTH WEBBES, ccv. See GYRTHES.

GILEFATTE, lii. See GYLFAT.

GILTES, lii. Female swine prevented from bearing young by an operation of the knife. This term is never applied to the male.

GISTIAMENTUM, xli. See AGESTIAMENTUM.

GODERIK, clvi, &c. A drinking cup made of precious stone, and ornamented with silver and gold, which the Monks of Finchale honoured with the name of their Patron Saint Godrick. They had also the drinking cup of Henry Pudsey, their founder. In 1446, the Monks of Durham possessed a drinking bowl, called Beda, which stood in the Refectory. It was lined with silver double gilt, and contained an engraving of that venerable man, who was represented as sitting at his desk and writing.

GOWBERTS, cxviii. Fr. Gobeau. A goblet, or drinking vessel.

GRANARIUM, i. The granary, or place in which corn, when thrashed, was preserved for use.

GRANGIA, i. The place in which corn in the sheaf was preserved. Perhaps the stack-yard.

GRATE, cxviii. Perhaps a grater for spices. "Grayte for gynger."—Prompt. Parv.

GRAPE, lii; GRAYP, cccxcix. A dung fork, with three or more teeth, in the shape of a spade or shovel.

GRHTER', lvii. Perhaps a mistake of the writer for girthes.

GRISEUS, lxxxvii. Gray.

GROSSUS, xxiii, lxi, clv, ccxci. A word of obvious meaning, but of varied application. Grossa animalia, fat animals. Grossum meremium, unwrought timber. Lectus grossus; a contract in grossa, &c.

GROTS, cxviii; GROTS, xxv. Groats, or oatmeal. The word is still commonly used. 1531, paid for a lock and key for "le grot-chyst," 4d. Bursar's Mem. The Bursar found it necessary to put a lock upon the oatmeal.

GRUELL, iv, vi. Bran.

GUARANTIZO, l. To warrant, as land, or any other thing which is sold.

GUTTER, cclxviii. A conveyance for water, made of lead.

GYLFAT, xxxvii; GILEFATTE, lii; GYLYNGFATT, ccxcix. The brewing vat, or vessel so called. The wort tub.

GYLYNGHOUS, clvii. The brew-house.

GYRTHES, cccvi; GYRTHIS, ccclxi. Girths for cattle.

GYRTH WEBBIS, cccix. Girth webs. Paid for nine doz. "Gyrth webs," bought of Wm. Breyks, at 5d.—3s. 9d. Bursar's Memoranda, 1530. In 1531, the Bursar bought his girth webs at Northallerton. Ibid.

H.

HACK, lii; HACKE, lxi; HAKKE, xxxvii. A hack, or two-toothed pickaxe, an implement of agriculture well known.

HAXES, lxvii. Axes of iron used by masons in rough-hewing stones.

HACKSYLTRESE, cxix. Axle trees.

HAIA, 21. A hedge, and hence, as here, a tract of land enclosed or hedged. "A separate inclosure within a forest or park." Blount.

HAKENAY, xxxviii, lij. A hackney, or horse for riding. The "hakenay pro carectis" at p. lii was probably an old saddle-horse.

HAKNAYSADILL, cxxxvii. A riding saddle, as distinguished from the semner sadyll or lade sadill.

HALIWERSEFOK, 20. The folk or men of the County Palatine, who held their lands by the service of protecting and defending the body of St. Cuthbert, and were not obliged to cross the Tyne or the Tees, in defence of the kingdom at large against their will. See WHARTON'S ANGLIA SACRA, I. 749, and SURTEES. HIST. DURH. I. App. ix, xv, xvi, where there are some valuable documents on this subject.

HALLYNGS, ccclxxxiii. Hangings for the walls of the Hall. Cost of "le Hallyng" in the New Hall at Pittington, in 1450. Paid for 9 stone of wool, 13s. 6d. For "le spynnyng," 13s. 1½d. For "swett" 16d. To William Chaloner, for weaving it 18s. 11d. To Robert Pulter and Richard Baxster for dying it 17s. 1d. To Adam Walker, for "le walkyng," 2s. 6d. For thread and making of "latchette," 13½d.—67s. 7d. Fabric Roll.

HAMMERHAX, lxxviii. A hammeraxe; a hammer on one side of the handle and an axe on the other. These implements are still in use in the quarries at Bath, where the stone is so soft that it may be worked with a hatchet.

HAMONES, cli. ? Hams of bacon. The position of the word seems to warrant this supposition.

HARDYN, ccccv. Coarse cloth so called, and still in use.

HARNESSE, ccclxxviii. Harness or trappings for a horse. See HERNASUM.

HAUSORIUM, ccxcviii. A ladle; cxix, a bucket. 1533. Paid for nails for "bukket-bords," 8d. Bursar's Mem.

HAVERIDILS, cccxlvi. Riddles for haver or oats.

HAWLEGYFE, 96. Acknowledgeth.

HAWNDYRNES, clvi; HAWNDIRYNS, ccxcviii. See ANDIRNE.

HAYER PRO BRASEO, lxxviii. A hair-cloth used in the malt-kiln. See CILICIUM.

HAYO, 110. To hedge. See HAIA.

HEDSTELS, cccxciv. Head-stools. The head-stool is that part of the bridle which crosses the forehead of the horse.

HELTER, ccxcix. A halter. In 1531, the Bursar of Durham paid 6d. for a "smeydy heller," a halter perhaps of greater strength than usual, by which a horse was held at the smithy during his shoeing. The ordinary "heller" was bought at the same time for 2d. Bursar's Mem.

HENNIS HOWSE, cclxxviii. A hen-house.

HERCA, lxxix; HERCIA, liii. Harrows.

HERMITORIUM, 21. A hermitage.

HERNASIUM, lii, bis. Horse hides tanned and made white pro hernasiis. In the same page the word occurs in the sense of cart gear or trappings.

HERPICUS, cccxcviii. A harrow, and perhaps occasionally, an iron rake.

HEWRYN, ccxcix. An iron chisel, held in a twisted hazle-rod, and used in cutting or hewing portions from rods or bars of iron.

HEYDYOKYS, ccxcix. Head yokes, part of the trapping of an ox or horse.

HISPANICUM FERRUM. Spanish iron. In 1531, Spanish iron was bought by the monks of Durham for 9d. per stone, and they paid 2d. per stone to the smith for working it. It was used chiefly for the wheels of their carts.—Bursar's Mem. See FERRUM.

HOGESHEVEDES, cclxxix. Hogsheads. In 1531, a "hogeshed" of red wine (vini rubei) 30s.; of claret ("vini clareti") £1 13s. 4d. Bursar's Mem.

HOGGES, cclxviii. Sheep in their first year.

HOGGETTUS, lii. Here a pig a year old.

HOISTERS, lxxv. Oysters.

HOMAGIUM, 89. Service of whatever nature due from a tenant to his lord.

HONESTUS, cxvii. Decent, in good order, not in decay, as opposed to debilis, infirmus, mediocris.

HOPE, cclvi. A hoop.

HOPER, lxxviii; HOPPYR, ccxcix. A hopper or basket from which the sower scatters his seed.

HOSPITO, xxxv. Here to house the tithe corn, to place it under shelter.

HORIUM, cii. For horreum, a barn or granary.

HORSHAROWYS, ccxcix. A harrow drawn by a horse, as distinguished from an ox harrow, which is mentioned in the page referred to.

HOSTILLARIUS, cccxi. This word generally refers to the Hostillar of the Mother Church at Durham.

HOSTIUM, cxcvii. For ostium, a door.

HOUW, lii; How, cxvii. A hoe, a well-known agricultural implement.

HUKK, cccxciv. A sickle, still called a huke in the northern counties.

HUMAGIUM, 73. For HOMAGIUM.

HUPIS ccxcix; HUPYS, ccxcix; HWPYS, cccl. Hoops of iron.

HURTUR, ccxcix. The shoulder of the axle against which the nave of the wheel knocks.—Brockett.

HUSBANDRIA, xxxv. The management of land.

HUSGABLUM, 50. House gable, a tax laid upon houses.

HYGYNGS, cccxviii. Apparently a mistake for hyngyngs, hangings or tapestry.

HYRYNFORK, cxix. An iron-fork.

I.

ICONOMIA, cxv. For Œconomia.

INFANCHEFE, 86. The liberty of trying a thief in your own court, for a robbery committed within your estate.

INPLACITO, 91. To sue in a court of justice.

INSALSO, lii. To salt in, to preserve in, by means of salt.

INSETHUS, 124. A name here applied to a place for poultry. In general the insight house is the inside house. Insight gear, furniture, of whatever nature, INSTAURUM, xxiii. Stock, generally, but not always, live stock.

INTAMINATÆ TRAVE, xxi. Thraves of corn untouched, not thrashed.

INVADIO, 43. To pledge, to mortgage.

INVENCIO BONORUM, ix. An inventory, synonymous with STATUS.

INVENTARIUM, xxxvi. Used in the same sense as INVENCIO above.

INWHELE, cclxvii. The inner wheel of a mill. 1515, paid "for a newe inwhell for the mylne at Durham, and for coggs for the same wheill, 12s." Bishop's Accounts.

J.

JOCALIA, clvi. Jewels, silver plate, costly furniture, &c. This word has a most extensive meaning. "In money, horses, cloths of silk and wool, and other jewels (jocalibus) bought and given to the King of Scotland, the Earl of March, and others, to obtain a truce, £41 16s. 8d." Coldingham Account Roll, 1342-3. See the Durham Series of WILLS and INVENTORIES, I., p. 91.

JONYNG, cccx. Joining, in the sense of carpentry.

K.

KATYRCOMPASE, cxvii. Probably an ornament resembling a Catherine-wheel.

KEN, vi; KENYN, xx. A measure for corn still in use.

KER, 98. A car or piece of marshy ground.

KEVEL, lxxviii. A large hammer.

KNOPP, clvi. A knob or handle.

KOLT COLYNE, xxvi; COLT COLYNE, xxx. The name of a horse.

KYLNNEN, xxx. The kiln-men or maltsters.

KYMELYNE, xxxvii. bis.; KEMELINGE, lii. A cooling vessel. "Kynlyn or keler vessell, Cuvula." Prompt. Parv. "Greasy Joan doth kele the pot." Much commentarial nonsense has been written upon this expression, of which the meaning is obvious.

KYRNE, cccxlvii. A churn.

L.

LABORO IN, lxxxvii. To take trouble in, to be employed in.

LACERATIO, —. The tearing asunder with wedges of timber, slates, &c. Paid "for fellyng of wod and ryving of spyls."—Bishop's Accounts, circ. 1515. "For ryving of fyerwoode in Frankelyn for my Lorde." 1544.—Bishop's Accounts.

LACTAGIUM, lxiii; LACTICINIUM, xxxv. The milkage of cows, including probably their butter, and other profits.

LADE, lxxiv. A load, a back load, a cart load.

LADESADDILL, cxxxvii; LADE SADELLE, lii; LAIDSADIL, cclxviii; LAYSADYLL, ccxcix; LADIS SELLE PRO, xxxviii, xxxix. A saddle for a horse carrying a load or burden on its back. LADESADILLS. "Et in j sadill empto de W^o. Blytheman xvjd." 1531. Under the same head mention is made of a cella bought of Robert Byddyk.—Bursar's Mem.

LADDEL, cccxciv. A ladle.

LAGENA, —. The exact quantum of the Durham lagena is ascertained from a curious receipt for making ink, entered in the beginning of the REG. II. of the Dean and Chapter, and written apparently in the commencement of the fifteenth century. From this we learn, that three lbs. make a quart, and twelve lbs. of "aver de pays," weigh one lagena of Durham measure. There are in the same place three other receipts for ink of the same period, upon all of which Mr. Trueman, a chemist in Durham, and a member of this SOCIETY, has experimented very successfully.

LAMPRAYS, lxxvii. In the year referred to, a lamprey cost 9d., and a salmon 13d.

LANDMALE, ccxli; LANDMAILE, cccclxxxiv; LANDMAYLE, cccxcix. A reserved rent, or annual sum of money, charged upon a piece of land by the chief lord of the fee, or a subsequent mesne owner.

LANGELLS, lxxii; clv. Blankets.

LANUTUS, xxvii. Pellis lanutus, the hide of a sheep, retaining upon it the wool.

LARDARIA, —. The larder.

LATAMUS, xix; LATOMUS, lxxxiii. A stone-cutter, or mason; from Gr. λαας, and τιμνω.

LATTIS, lxxii; LATTZ, ccxxx. Laths. "Latbrodds" (or lath nails), 2s. 1d. per thousand in 1531.—Bursar's Mem.

LAUUE, 98. A hill.

LAVACIO, cccv, for lavacio.

LAVACRUM, xxxv. A bason for washing. In p. clvi, one is mentioned in the shape of a horse; which, in p. cxvii, is stated to be of brass. 1533. Paid to Robert Conyers for mending the covers of three "hewers" of silver 12d.—Bursar's Mem.

LAVATORIUM, iv. See LAVACRUM, above.

LAYINGE, ccclvi. The repairing of worn-away edge-tools, by laying or placing upon them fresh iron or steel. See Pyks. "Paid for 'alayng' of axes, 'chysella, wegges,' &c.—Durham Cloister Rolls. 1410. See Pyks.

LECTISTERNIUM, cxvii. Beds and their bedding.

LEDIRHUNGRY, ccclxviii. One skin of ledir hungry. Perhaps leather from Hungary.

LEDNAILES, lii ; LEYDNAIL', lxxii. Nails used by plumbers in covering the roof of a house with lead. — "Leydnayle" 3d. per hundred in 1531. — Bursar's Mem.

LEGINA, cii. For LAGENA.

LENTISCUS, ccxii. Probably vetches. But as the Bursar of Durham generally has a charge for the drying of oats, (arefaccio avenæ) "pro lentibus inde faciendis," perhaps the word lentiscus has some connection with oatmeal.

LEPPYS, ccclx ; LEYP, ccxcviii. Baskets. See BERLEPE. 1533. Paid for four "leypys" 2s. — Bursar's Mem.

LEUWYN, lii. It appears that the table-cloths of the monks were made of a material so called.

LEVER, ccclv. One of the chief supporters of the roof timber of a house, being itself not a prop but a portion of the frame-work. See Minsh. v. Leaver. It seems to be synonymous with the word syles, the two beams of timber united at one end from which the chevron in Heraldry takes its name, and the feet of which, especially in cottages, instead of resting upon the wall-plate, were fixed in the ground. Cottages of this primitive structure are still common in old remote villages in the north of England. The chevron in Heraldry has been alluded to, and we may add, that in an early treatise on the subject, we think in Gerard Legh's Accidence, Clare Earl of Gloucester is said to bear three chevrons, "because he builded three houses in one province."

LEVE. Levare fœnum, xlviii, to get hay from the ground after it is made, — and yet the making of it is generally the last item in the yearly charge. This may remind the reader of the out-of-jointedness of the phrase, hanged, drawn, and quartered. Levare firmam, xcii, to collect the rents due to the Priory.

LIBERACIO, xx, xxxiii. That which is delivered at stated periods to dependents or servants in the way of food or clothing, and hence the modern livery, now confined to the latter. The word is extended even to the food of animals and domestic birds, see p. xxxiii ; but a curious distinction is made respecting a horse. His food is not his liberacio, but his prebenda.

LIBERATURA, civ, clxxxix. This word is used in the same sense as LIBERACIO above. Only, in p. civ, the cloth for the Prior's liberatura is mentioned.

LIBERO, xxxvi. To deliver, to give up to another ; here applied to the giving up of an Inventory of goods, &c, to a new Prior.

LICHINUM, lxxii. Candle-wicks. 1530. 14 Sep. Paid for wicks (lichino) for white candles, "viz., xiii outts," 13d. — Bursar's Mem. Cuts, (the term is still in use,) are the quantities or portions of thread into which a pound of flax or cotton is spun or sub-divided. The Monks occasionally made their own candles from the lard, &c., of their kitchen.

LIGE, 95. To lie. Here as a field to the north or south.

LINTHIAMEN, iv. A sheet or cloth of linen.

LOCACIO, xxxv. A letting to farm. Here the reverse.

LODEX, li. "Cloth of a bed." — Prompt. Parv.

LOFT, ccclxxxii. An upper room.

LOK, cccl ; LOKE, ccclxxxii. The floodgate, the sluice in a mill-dam. See CLAUSTRUM MOLENDINI.

LOKES, xliii. Locks of wool. In modern usage, a lock of wool is a small portion, such as may be torn from a sheep by a thorn or briar ; and in this sense the word occurs in an Account Roll of the Priory of Burcester, 3-4 Henr. VI. "Duo sol. rec. de lana fracta, viz. lokys, collecta in tonsura ovium." The lokke at Finchale, however, in this year seems to have been a fleece, if an opinion can be formed from the quantity sold. The word lock is used in Cumberland for a quantity. A lock of meal, N. R. Y., denotes quantity also. 1532. Paid for two stone of "le lokks" of wool 2s. 8d. — Bursar's Mem.

LOTORIUM, lxxxi. A place in the cloister in which the Monks of Finchale washed themselves at stated periods of the day.

LOWKYNG, cccxlviii. The weeding or thinning of young timber trees—here of oaks. The word is still in use in the north, but it is chiefly applied to the weeding of corn. 1531. Paid for “le lowkyng” in bread, beer, and meat to the tenants of the “Rayntons, Moresley, &c., 2s.” Bursar’s Mem. See SILIGO.

LUCRO, xlviii. To win, as coals from a pit, or stones in a quarry. The verb win is almost universally in use in this sense in the northern counties.

LUCRATIO, lxxxvi. See LUCRO above.

LUDO, lviii. See LUDUS. In this year the Monks of Finchale contributed the large sum of 24s. 7d. to the Prior of Durham’s sports at Beaufort.

LUDI PRIORIS, 30, cxci. The Prior of Durham, at stated periods in the year, on the Feast of St. John the Baptist, the Purification, &c., retired to one or other of his manor houses of Wardley, Beaufort, Pitlington, Muggleswick, Beaulieu, &c., attended by some of his Monks, and spent a few days in feasting and relaxation. Some idea may be formed of the Prior’s Ludus when we state that, in 1530, his allowance for the purpose was 40 lambs, 9 pork pigs, 2,000 red herrings, 4 lbs. of pepper, 2 lbs. of “maces,” and “clowes” (cloves), 4 lbs. of dates, 4 lbs. of “sanders,” (an eastern wood, used for colouring creams, &c.,) 1 lb. of saffron, (for similar purposes,) 24 lbs. of almonds, 16 lbs. of “rice,” 8 lbs. of currants (racemor’ correnc’), 16 lbs. of raisins (racemor’ magnor’), 24 lbs. of figs, 48 dograves, 3 young rams, 2½ flagons of honey, and 24 salt salmon. Venison also is mentioned, and salt, lard, butter, and lentils. The 40 lambs cost £1 13s. 4d., the 9 pigs £2 5s., the herrings were 9s. per thousand, mace and cloves 9s. per lb., dates 7½d., sanders 1s. 6d., half a lb. and half a quarter of saffron cost 6s., almonds were 2d. per lb., rice 2½d., currants 4d., raisins 2d., figs 1d., dograves 3½d. each, the young rams 2s. each, honey 1s. : d.

per flagon. Each officer of the Monastery contributed his portion of money for wine. In 1408, on account of the debt under which the Church of Durham laboured, the Prior for a while suspended his Ludi, and sent some of his monks to Finchale to enjoy the recreation of which they were thus deprived. See p. 30. In 1432, the Ludi were again suspended, in order that the money thus appropriated might be contributed to the Lavatory, in that year erected in the Cloister Garth, and of which the basin remains. From the Account Roll of the Lavatory, it appears that the Almoner, the Chamberlain, the Hostler, the Sacrist, and the Communar, each contributed 4s. to each Ludus.—Cloister Rolls. “Item unus equus pro cariagio in ludis domini Prioris.” Durham Inventory, 1446.

LUX, cccxx; LUXKYS, cccxxvii. A place from which the Monks of Finchale obtained a portion of their iron.

LUMEN, cclxxix. The word is here used for a window.

LYMBUS, lviii. A boat.

LYNGE, cccl. Used for covering the mill at Baxtanford.

LYNFIN, ccxcix. A linch-pin. The iron pin which holds the wheel upon the axle.

M.

MACHERA, cxviii, pro carnibus levandis, clvii. This word occurs in Plautus as the knife of a cook, but this interpretation does not seem to accord with the latter of the above references. In this instance, perhaps it was a strong pointed instrument for raising boiled meat from the pot or furnace.

MALESADELL, lii. A saddle for a male, or portmanteau. In 1532, under the head of the Stable of the Prior and Bursar of Durham, mention is made of two “mayle pyllows and nayrvell,” bought by Thomas Pott for 13d.—Bursar’s Mem.

MANDATUM, xxiii, xxxiii. An ordinance, the charitable foundation of an annual largess resting upon the specific command of the founder, and binding upon the person or body of men who, for an equivalent received, are bound to perform his will. This word has been absurdly derived from maund, a basket, the basket, as it were, out of which the alms was distributed. There were several Maundy days in the Convent of Durham, all of them having their respective mandata or foundations.

MANGNUS, for magnus, great.

MAPPA, iv. A table cloth.

MARA, 88. A mere or piece of water. Here the Black-mere. The White-mere, on the road from Gateshead to Sunderland, has got the pleonastic adjunct of pool, and is now the White-mare's pool. The hill by the red mere in Stockton Ward is now Redmershill.

MARASIVM, 61; MARESCHUM, 45; MARRESCUM, 106. A marsh.

MARCHALIA, xxiv; MARSCHALCIA, ccxxxv; MARSCHALSIA, xxviii. The expenses incident to horses, especially with reference to their shoes.

MAREMIUM; MEREMIVM, ii. Timber in an unwrought state.

MARTIOLOGIVM, 31. The Martyrology, or book in which the sufferings of holy men in defence of their faith were recorded, and from which portions were read daily in the church.

MARTIS, iii, lv; MARTS, lxxx. This word is still in use in Newcastle, and is applied to a cow or ox purchased at Martinmas fair, and killed and salted for winter beef.

MASKFAT, lxxviii; MASSHEFAT, cclxiii; MASKEFATTE, xxxvii; MASFAT, clvii. A well known brewing utensil.

MASKYNGLEYD, ccxcix. A mashing vat made of lead.

MAST, cxl. The mast of a ship purchased for timber.

MATERAC', iv; MATERASE, xxvi; MATERASCE, li; MATRICES, v. A mattress.

MATOK, cxix; MATTOK, clviii. A mattock.

MATYNGHAMER, ccxcix. Three hammers are in general in use for heavy work—the large fore-hammer, another somewhat lighter, and the hand hammer. Supposing this word to be rightly written, can it mean a mate-hammer, a mate to the fore-hammer? G. Jackson.

MAZER, iv; MAZERIVM, v. A drinking cup.

MEDYLSOMES, ccxcix; MYDYLSOMYS, ibid. The cords or traces extending from the first to the last of a team of oxen in a plough. See FUYTSOMES.

MELEFATT, lii. A vat or chest to hold meal.

MELL, ccxcix. A mallet.

MENSA, lxiv. A table, in the sense of food or provisions. To table with a person is to board with him. The word is common.

MERSCHALLYNG, ccclxxxlii, v. MARCHALIA.

MESSOR. 1532. Paid to the reapers, "viz. iij yayne and ij bandsmen" in the close called "qwynnyclose," for one day, 4s. 8d. For "vj yayne and iij bynders" for reaping oats for one day, 7s.—Bursar's Mem. A yane is one ridge of corn with the reapers employed upon it, generally three women to reap and a man to bind. Formerly, as we see here, one man bound the corn of two ridges.

METKORN, clxxii. Meat-corn, but it is not clear whether we are to consider it here as food for the cattle keepers or for the cattle themselves.

MICATORIVM, xxxvii. Probably a kitchen utensil for mincing meat, a shredding knife. Micatorium, Fr. Esmicure. Du Cange.

MINISTRALLUS, cxv, &c. In addition to the information which we already possess relative to the minstrels of old, it is to be observed that they are here classed with the poor and mean people who resorted to the Priory for alms. That the minstrels who resorted to Finchale in their rounds contributed to the amusement of the Monks is certain. See PLAERCHAMBER.

MISSIO, iii. Nichil in missions. The oats are all unthrashed, no part of them has been sent or is being sent (this new-fangled expression here suits us admirably) to Finchale.

MOKHAK, clviii; MUKHAK, ccxcix. A hack for manure—to raise it from the dunghill.

MUXFORK, ccxcix. A fork for manure, used in throwing it into a cart.

MONASTERIUM, 33. When this word is used in the Finchale records by itself, it refers to the Monastery or Mother Church of Durham.

MONETARIUS, 23. A moneyer. Here the man in Newcastle in charge of the King's mintage—the king's moneyer. A silver coin of his mintage is engraved by Brand. NEWCASTLE II, 385.

MONIALIS, lxxxix, xci. See SOUL-SILVER.

MORA, 81. A moor. It is here, as usual, opposed to a marsh. The deeds of conveyance of our ancestors are most extremely brief (the charter of the richest estate which the Church of Durham holds is by no means of the size of a common playing-card), and yet there is in this and in every other document of the period a most definite and distinct enumeration of the rights conceded. What are title deeds now?

MORINA, lv. The murrain. The disease among cattle so called.

MORTARIUM, iv; MORTAR, ccxcviii. A mortar. Mortars were articles of great utility in the kitchen. The large stone mortar, which may be found in almost every old house, was used in creeing, or separating the husks from the wheat or barley intended for frumenty. Sometimes a pestle was used, and sometimes a round ball of stone. An old mortar and ball are preserved at Crook Hall. Mustard was ground in the same manner.

MORTUARIUM, cclxxiv. A mortuary, antiently the best animal or best article of apparel of a deceased parishioner, the perquisite of the Incumbent of the parish in which he died, and afterward converted into a money payment. Here, however, it refers to an animal which had died of disease.

MOTO, cxlv. A sheep.

MULEBREYD CLOWTIS, ccxcix. Mold board clouts. Plates of iron which protect the mold board or projecting side of the plough from the wear and tear of the earth and stones with which it comes in contact.

MULTA, ccil. A fine. Here a fine for non-attendance at a synod or visitation.

MURRA, xxxvi, ccclxiv; MURRUM, li. The material of which drinking cups were made, and hence occasionally the cup itself. What this material was, whether wood or stone, is not certainly ascertained. The murr belonging to the Monks of Finchale was, in 1484, repaired with gold and gilded.

MYXTILIO, i. Maslin. A mixture of wheat and rye.

N.

NALYNGHAMER, ccxcix. A nailing-hammer.

NAMYDSAW, ccxcix. Qu. a mistake for Framydsaw, a saw in a frame.

NAPPRI, ccxl; NAPRY, ccil. Under the head of "le Napre" are enumerated, in the Bursar's Memoranda for 1531, "napkyngs," a table cloth, "towells," "mappæ," and "cupbord-clothes." The table upon the dais (in medio solii) required, as appears, a cloth of 4 ells and a quarter, and that of the novices 6 ells. In the same year, paid to the widow of John Dycheburn for washing the napre (pro locione le napre) 10s.

NAVES, lxxix. Naves of wheels. The central block of wood from which the spokes radiate to join the fellyes.

NAYLTOLIS, ccxcix. Tools of iron or matrices in which nails are headed. In p. ccxcix for noyltoyl pro rotis, a tool for making nails for the tire of cart wheels, read nayltoyl.

NOBILE, cxcii. A noble, a gold coin of the value of 6s. 8d.

NOVICII, cliii, ccxcviii. The novices were the young men, generally six in number, who were preparing themselves at Durham, by study and discipline, for the Monk-hood. The novices had an annual feast in the Common House on the day of O Sapientia, and to this feast, as we see, the Prior of Finchale in 1510 contributed wine of the value of 3s. 4d. The Cells contributed towards the defraying the expenses of the novices whilst they studied at Oxford. 1533. Expenses of the Bursar and six novices at the ordination (ad ordines) at Stokton, 7a. Bursar's Mem. Kennet, in the Glossary to his Parochial Antiquities, makes a singular mistake with respect to the word Ordines, which occurs in a monastic record in precisely the same sense as above. He considers it to denote "a general Chapter or other solemn Convention of the Religious of such a particular Order." The word is used in the plural, because the Bishop generally conferred various orders on the same day. The early ordination lists of our Bishops contain much biographical and other valuable information at present buried in their Registers.

NUDUS, ccclxxxi. The word nudus is here descriptive of the skin of an ox or cow, as opposed to the pellis lanula of a sheep.

O.

OBBA, ccxcviii. Obbæ pro cerevisia, Tankards, drinking vessels, cups. "Obba, cuppe." Somner.

OBLACIO, 31, xxiii, xxvi. An oblation, an offering. Money offered by the Monks at mass, and received by the Sacrist.

OBLIGATORIUM, xxii. Obligatorium scriptum, a bond or deed of obligation.

ORCORN, xxix. The offal corn, or, as is now called in the North, the hinder ends, the refuse after winnowing, with which, as we here see, the Monks of Finchale fed their pigs, geese, capons, and hens.

OLEY, lii. The gen. of oleum, oil.

OLLA, iv. 1533. Paid to Thomas Tynkler for mending the "olla enea" called "brekfastpott," at Beurpark, 8d.—Bursar's Mem. The olla was occasionally a vessel of earthenware. One "olla lutea" Durh. Inv., 1446.

ORDINACIO DE LE POMPE, ccclxxv. The fitting up of the pump. The making it work.

ORDINATUM, viii, xiii, lx, cxv. After a Monk had sung his first mass, the sum of twenty shillings per annum was allowed him to find himself apparel. This was his ordinatum, and out of this sum he frequently saved a considerable portion of money, and often became a creditor of the Monastery.

ORNAMENTA ECCLESIE, iv. The books, and plate, and robes, and images, and all the other requisites for divine worship. It is greatly to be regretted that the Sacrists of Finchale here referred to have left no Inventories of these things behind them.

ORTALINUS, viii; ORTULANUS, ccxcix. A gardener.

ORTUS, 148. Hortus, a garden.

OSPITALE, 140. For Hospitale.

OXHAROW, ccxcix. A harrow drawn by an ox.

P.

PACO, 69. To pay, as money.

PACATUM, 27. Paid.

PAGETTUS, lxxxix; PAGIUS, lxxxvi. A page. The two words appear to be synonymous.

PAKSADILL, ccclvi. A pack-saddle.

PAKTHRED, lxx. Pack thread. Bought for 5d. per lb. in 1530.—Bursar's Mem.

PALACIA, ccclxxxvii. Here a shed made of branches of trees and brushwood.

PALEFRIDUS. A palfrey.

PALLID, clvi. Striped; made of cloth of different colours.

PANAGIUM, 78; PASNAGIUM, 80. Pannage, the feeding of swine upon acorns and mast in a wood from Michaelmas to Martinmas; or money paid to the owner of the wood for permission so to do.

PANDOXATOR. A brewer. "A brewster." Prompt. Parvul.

PANDOXATORIUM, ccxcix. A brew-house. The repairs of the "pandoxina," as well of the inner house, called "le gilhouse," as of the outer house, are estimated at £10. Durham Inventory, 1446.

PANIS EQUORUM, lxx. Perhaps bran.

PANNUS, 28. The panni of the monk were his clothes, and bed, and bedding, the whole of which he carried about with him from cell to cell, as he was ordered to move from one to another. Upon his death, he had no other coffin than his cowl, and habit, and socks, and boots. That this was the custom at Finchale, as well as at Durham, was abundantly proved during the late removal of rubbish from the church.

PANNUS AD VENTILANDUM, v. A cloth used in winnowing corn. See WYNDENECLATHE.

PANYARS, cxviii. Panniers or baskets of wicker work suspended over the back of an animal.

PAPYRUM, ; PAUPIRUM, ccclxv. Paper. In 1531. Paper 1s. 9½d. per "qware." Two "quaternis" bought for the rental, 6d.—Bursar's Mem.

PAR, xxxvi. A pair. 1515. Paid "to Will'm Ward for iij pare of myln-stones that stands at Newell's Crosse, xlvij^s., xvj^s. le pare."—Bishop's Accounts.

PARAPSIS, lxv. A dish. Those at Coldingham in 1374 were of tin.

PARISEI CANDELA, lxvii.

PAROCHIANUS. This word in the Indulgences, p. 169, &c. is used to denote any inhabitant within the diocese of the Bishop who makes use of the term. So late as the year 1579, Bishop Barnes calls the diocese of Durham "his great cure and parochie." Visitation Book in Cur. Consist.

PARYNGKNYFF, ccxcviii. A paring knife.

PAST, clvii; PASTUS, lxxviii. Paste.

PATWYS SAL DE, cxviii; PAYTOU SALT, clxxiv, cclxxix; PAYTOWE SAL DE, cxcl. "Sel de Poictou, ou de Ponant, blacke salt, gray salt." Cotgrave.

PECIA, xxxvi. A piece of plate; a vessel of silver.

PECIA PLUMBI, lii. 5 Dec. Rec. of Rouland Wall, &c., "xij peayce (of lead) weighing 77 stone."—Bursar's Mem. 1534. This is one way of spelling the word pieces.

PECTEN, ; PECTEN EQUINUS. A horse comb. In 1531, the Bursar of Durham bought four horse combs of Martin Oliver, for 2d. each.

PECK, xxv. A corn measure, still in use.

PELTRID'. xxxvii. See POLLITRIDUM.

PENDICULUM, clvi. Here an appendage to a girdle; probably that which was in our own recollection called an equipage, an ornament of silver or steel, suspended from the apron-string, abounding with small hooks upon which the mistress of the house carried her watch, the keys of her closets, &c.

PENDYNG LE, ccclxxv; PENDYING, ccclxxxii. Penning, putting down stones in order. The word penning is now used.

PENETRALE, xxxvi. A wimble, or large augur.

PENTESE, ccvii. An appendage to a building, a to-fall, here made of wood; and those who examine the east side of the Douglas tower, to which it was affixed, will see at once the purpose which it was intended to serve.

PENU, ccccv. The cellar or buttery.

PERCAMENUM, lxv. Parchment 1531. For 2 doz. (skins) "pergameni large," bought of Thomas Mayson, 6s. For one doz. "pergameni voc. lammeskyne," bought of Thomas Hewetson, xx^d.—Bursar's Mem.

PERCHORS, ccxcv. Edward Patonson was apparently a tallow chandler, and this year converted 23 stone of fat into candles for the Monks. Perhaps the perchors were small candlesticks, upon which the candles were perched to light the church.

PERGENYNG, ccclxxxii. Plastering. Paid to John Bevis for "pergettyng and blanchyng," 5s. Fabric Roll for the Hall at Pitlington in 1450. 1531. Paid to Ralph Blyth and his five men "in le pergenynge," at Merrington, "ac in emendacione foraninuni" for one day, 2s. Bursar's Mem.

PERSONA, 62. The Rector of a Church.

PETRA, a stone in weight. In 1531, 15 stone of wool, contained 97 "fleyshys" or fleeces.

PEUTRE, iv. Pewter.

PHILUM, lxvii. For filum, thread.

PHIOLUS, clvi. A vial or bottle, here made of silver.

PICOISE, lii. A pick-axe, O. Fr., pic-quois. The ? at the place referred to may be struck out.

PICIS, xl. For piris, generally the casket which held the consecrated element, but here a box placed in a conspicuous part of the church, bearing the name of St. Godric, into which visitors dropped their alms.

PIETANCIA, cxl. A pittance, from Picta, a small French coin. The word here denotes a small present of fruit and wine given to the Monks of Durham by the Prior of Finchale upon the auditing of his yearly account roll. It had, however, a more general meaning: "Pietancia est Prebenda seu constituta portio quæ contigit cuique commensali in cibo et potu."—Reyner.

PICKES, lxvii. Picks; tools used by masons. 1532. Paid to Thomas Robynson for "le laynge ij pykks" for the Bursar's pit 6d. For sharpening (exasperacione, what a word!) le pykks 12d. Bursar's Mem. See LAYINGE.

PINTTES, lii. Pint-pots.

PIPE, clvi. V. PIPE.

PISUM, PISA, æ. Pease

PLACITUM, xxviii. A plea; a proceeding in law.

PLAERCHAMBRE, ccxcviii; PLAYER-CHAMBRE, ccxcv. A chamber in the Priory appropriated to dramatic representations, such as the Mysteries, or Miracle plays of the age; and the room in which the Monks assembled to hear the minstrels and glee-men, who visited them for their amusement. Upon one antient dramatic representation, without doubt performed within the walls of Finchale in its day, a few particulars may be here recorded, which will probably throw a new light upon the history of Shakespear. Aubrey, (Letters from the Bodleian III., 537.) says, that the father of our dramatist was a butcher, "and I have been told heretofore by some of the neighbours, that when he (Shakespear) was a boy, he exercised his father's trade, but when he killed a calfe he would do it in high style, and make a speech." Shakespear's father may have been a butcher, for any thing we know to the contrary; but we do not consider that the killing of calves by his son, of which Aubrey speaks, is to be taken as a proof that the youth followed his father's trade. There was an old dramatic representation called Killing the Calf. The performer played his part behind a door or curtain, and, by means of ventriloquism, acted at once the butcher and the animal. The one talked and pitied; the other moaned and seemed to pray for mercy, till its moving solicitations became fainter and fainter, and it appeared to die. We have mislaid our reference to an entry in a lately published miscellany, in which a sum of money is stated to have been paid to a man who killed a calf behind a curtain, for the amusement of the Princess Mary, the daughter of Henry VIII, before her accession to the throne, and therefore long before the time of Shakespear; and as a proof that the amusement was well known in the north of England in modern times, we give the following extract from the Newcastle Chronicle of 2nd December, 1775: "Lately died at Barnard Castle, Joney Davie, alias Davidson, aged 95, well known by most people in the county of Durham, in being noted for begging about, and getting his living by a droll performance which he called killing the calf." The son of this man, a second Joney Davie, was a dancing master, and he too killed the calf. He died at a very advanced age, about twenty years ago, and was buried at Stanwick, in the North Riding of Yorkshire. And now comes the question—was this the calf which Shakespear killed? and was his mighty mind first excited by his popular performance of this antient representation? Did the applause which, in his boyhood, he received at Stratford, when he killed his calf in high style, lead to the expanding of his genius, and to that immortal name which he has obtained?

PLANCH, ii. A plank of timber.

PLATER, ccxcviii. A platter.

PLAUSTRATA, cccl. A cart or waggon load.

PLAYNGLEYD, ccxcix. Apparently a brewing utensil; but the word is not now in use.

PLEE, 37. A proceeding in law.

PLEWYS, ccxcix; PLOWYS, ib. Ploughs.

PLEW BANDS, ccxcix; PLOW BANDS, ib. Plough bands.

PLOWSCHONE, cxcviii; PLOWSCOYN, ccxcix. A plough-shoe is the iron work upon which the sock is fixed; the casing of iron at the nose or forepart of that part of the plough which enters the ground.

PLUMBUM, —. Plumbi cineres, dross or refuse. 1531. Paid to Nicholas Emerson and Roger Baynbrigge, 21 Dec., 1531, in part of payment of 20 "loyde ure plumbi, ad vj^s. le loyd," with carriage at their own expenses to "Shytleyburne," upon the ground of the Prior of Fynkhall, 53s. 4d. "Md. in every lode lx stone of uyre and xij lib. of leyde to y^e ston. Item tayk layrge uyre, for y^e small uyre is mych wayst yne."—Bursar's Mem.

PLUMBUM IN FORNACE, iv. A lead in the furnace; a catachresis for a boiler of harder metal.

PLUSCULUM, clvi. An appendage apparently to a silken girdle; an additional ornament, but of what nature it does not appear. "Unum falter cum plusculis pro equis domandis."—Durham Wills, &c., p. 95.

POLLITRIDUM, ccccxiii. From pollen and trudo. A temse, or meal sieve.

POLYS, clvii. ?

POMPE, ccclxxv, ccclxxxviii, cccxci. bis. A pump for drawing water.

POMPLE, xxxiii. ?

PONCHONG, cxix. A puncheon of iron, used in making holes in iron or steel.

POR, cxvii; PORR, clv. A poker.

PORCARIUM, iv. A pig-stye.

PORCARIUS, viii. A swine herd, a person employed in daily attendance upon pigs in the open fields to keep them from the corn. The swine of a whole township were generally tended in one herd, and the different proprietors contributed to pay the wages of their keeper.

PORCI CAMPESTRES, vii. Pigs running at large in the fields and woods—not housed.

PORTA CLAUSA, ccclxxv. The floor-gate of a mill-dam. The word in the north for the same thing is now clew, or clews.

PORTIFORIUM, lxiv. A service book for the Church; a breviary.

PORTITON, PORTITORIBUS NOVI CASTRI, &c. Paid to the porters of New Castle, for the portorage (portacione) of two "barells" of honey and one "barell" of oil, 6d. For the portorage of a barrel of white herrings (allec' alb'), 1d. For the portorage of 8 qu. of barley, 8d. For the portorage of 200 "stokfyshe," 4d. And, 7 March, for the portorage of one barrel of oil, one barrel of red herrings, one barrel of vinegar (vinacri), and (blank), 8d.—Bursar's Mem.

POWNETTES, clvi. Pipkins, sauce-pans.

POTCLAMES, clvii. See CLYPSA.

POTHUK, cxviii. Either the FLESH-CROCK above; or, what is more probable, another name for the Potclames.

POUNCES, lxxviii. See PONCHONG.

POUNDFALD, ccclxxxvii. A pinfold.

PRÆ MANIBUS, xiii, &c. Before hand, as prest money, earnest money. See GERSMA.

PRATRUM, 3, for Pratum. A meadow.

PREBENDA, vi, xxv, xcii. Food or provender, generally, in the Finchale Rolls, the food of horses. In Bishop de Insula's tavern bills on his way to London, in 1274, Prebenda invariably denotes horse-corn. Ret. Orig.

PRESSUR', clv. A bed capable of being compressed into a small space during the day time, like "The chest contriv'd a double debt to pay,

"A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day."

In this year, the Prior of Finchale died, and this was the bed in which his attendant slept during his illness. Another article of furniture rendered necessary by his infirmity is mentioned lower down in the page referred to.

PRINCIPALIS DIES, lxxii. The day of the dedication of the Church of Finchale.

PROFECTUS, cxxxix; PROFICUUM, xix. Profit, revenue.

PROVAND', clviii. See PREBENDA.

PROVIDENTIA, xlv, lvii, lix. An article of food purchased before it was wanted, and sometimes re-sold.

See WARNESTRIA.

PUDRE BOX, cxcviii. A powder-box of silver, perhaps for incense. What was the white powder (albus pulvis) of which Bishop de Insula, when in London, in 1274, purchased 30½lbs. for 18s. 0½d.? Rot Orig.

PULLANUS, iii, xviii, &c. A young horse.

PULLANA, xxxiv. A young mare.

PULLETRIA, lxxxv. Poultry. The various kinds of poultry and game consumed by the Monks of Durham in 1533, with their prices, are as follows:—A chicken, 1d. A capon, from 10d. to 4d. Nine pigeons, 7d. 25th Oct., 15 pigeons, 5d. A pigeon, ½d. A goose, 4d. A "pacok," (price not stated). Bought of Master Troulope, two "curlews," 6d. Eight "reydshanks," 4d. Three "curleus," 18d. Two "wypes," 2d. One "plover and j snype," 2½d. Two "powtts," 2d. Seventeen "styntta," 2d. Two "wod-coks," 3d. In 1532, a "whympernel" cost 4d., and a dozen "dunlyngs," 4d. At the same time eggs were 1s. per hundred of 120. Bursar's Mem.

PULTRIS, xiii. The poultry woman.

PULVIS, ccxcviii. See PUDRE BOX.

PUNCTUATIO, ccxxxii; PUNCTURA, cxl. The pointing of a wall, the filling up the chinks of the masonry with lime.

PURGATIO, ccclxxxvii. Purgatio fossati, the cleaning of a ditch.

PYK; PYKE, ccclx. Pitch.

PYND, 120. To impound, to put into the pinfold.

PYNSORS, ccxcix; PYNSOURS, clvi. Pincers.

PYNTE, xxxvii, v. PINTES.

QUIES, lxxxiv; QUIOKS, clviii. Young cows. 1538. Paid for four cows, called "whyas," 36s. Bursar's Mem.

QUYSSYNES, xxxvi; QWYSSYNES, xxxvi; QWYSSHINS, clv; QWESCHYNS, ccxcviii. Cushions. For 12 qwysshyns of the pome garnett (pomegranate) of ye fynemaikyng... "Bought of Master Swynburne" j hamer, j saw, j payr compassys, j bed, vj qwysshyns, j hamer." Bursar's Mem., 1530.

QWEYLLWRYGHTIS, ccclxxxii. Wheelwrights.

QWHYKWODE, ccclxxxiii. Thorns. The first hedges were made of dead wood, but quickwood was soon found to be more durable, and when the thorn came into general use for the purpose, on account of its valuable properties, the term quickwood was appropriated to it exclusively.

QWILT, clv; QUYLT, ccxcviii. A quilt, a covering for a bed.

QWYNTTERS, cccliii. Sheep two winters old. See TWYNTERS.

R

RABYTYWE, ccclxxxiii. Here the making the groove in the stone work of the window to admit the glass.

RACEMI MAGNI, ccxciii. Raisins, as distinguished from Racemi parvi, or currants. See SPECIES.

RAKIS, ccccx; RAKKS, clvii; RAKYS, ccxcviii. Rakes.

RAKYNT, ccxcix. Perhaps what is called a reckin tree, a horizontal bar of wood or iron, placed at a suitable height in the reek or smoke of a chimney, from which vessels are suspended over the fire.

RASA, xxix. Mensura rasa, measure strecked, not heaped up.

RASELLA, 134; RASERIUM, 89; RASURA, iv. A measure of corn; according to Reyner, p. 222, Tr. 1, § 2, a bushel, but this cannot have been the case here, as according to p. 134 above, six rasellæ made a wey.

RASTURA, ccxcviii?

RAUSTRUM, ccccxiii. For rastrum, a harrow.

RECEPTA, cclxxiv. The yearly receipt or revenue.

RECTUM, 3. A right, a property or possession.

REDA, 100; RODA. A rood of land.

REDELL, clv. A bed curtain.

REGARDUM, ccxlix, cccxcviii. A present in money, a reward. The word will be best illustrated by the following list of Regarda given by the Prior of Durham. 1531. To Robert Leveyrpule bringing a thousand oysters (ostria) from Doctor Clyfton..... To a man from Kendall bringing three fish, called "puffyns." To the servant of Master Swynburne, bringing 6 "kydds" on Easter Eve, 12d. The same day, to a servant of William Lampton, bringing two capons to the Lord Prior, and two to the Bursar, 8d. 1532. Paid to the servant of the Abbot of Fountance, who brought a "buk" to the Bursar, in regardis, 3s. 4d. To the servants of the Earl of Westmoreland bringing two "bukks" to the Lord Prior and the Bursar on the day of the Bishop's Visitation in the Chapter, 6s. 8d. To 3 players (lusoribus) of our Lord the King, in gold, 15s. The same day, to a messenger of our Lord the King, 20d. To William Ayr bringing 3 "copyll" of rabbits from Sir William Turpyng, 8th Sep., 4d. To Thomas Harper bringing a doe to the Lord Prior on the first Sunday in Advent, from Richard Crosby, 20d. To Edward Denynge and John Grensweyrd for four days at Mugleswyk, bringing four "roys" (roes), 12d. To Lionel Smyth and Edward Denynge bringing a "stage" from Mugleswyk against the Sessions, by command of the Lord Prior, 20d. To William Allayne bringing two "cygnetts" from William Lowson, 3s. 4d.; and one "panyar" of apples from Thomas Androy, 2s. To a servant of Master Mathoson (a fish monger at Hull) 29th Jan., bringing two swans to the Lord Prior, 5s. To a servant of William Lampton bringing one "pyk," 12d. Given at the baptizing of the son of Sir William Bulmer, Knt., in gold, 20s., the piece received from the master of Jarrow. To the keeper of the bears and of the Lady Princess (dominæ principis) 1st June, 5s.* To three players (lusoribus) of the Earl of Darby, in gold, 7s. 6d.* Bursar's Memoranda. In 1533, the Regarda of the Prior are called Presends. Paid to "Jak Syde," the fool (fribulator) of my lord "ex regardo, nomine elemosina," for his maintenance this year, 3s. 4d. Bishop's Account Rolls, 1479.

RELEVAMEN, 76. A relief, a certain sum of money that every freehold tenant being at full age payeth unto his lord at the death of his ancestor, upon taking possession of his inheritance. Jacob.

RELEVUM, xxiii. See RELEVAMEN. RENTPIPERE, cxv. Pepper, paid by way of out-rent.

REPLEVY, ccclx. A replevin. See the Law Dictionaries.

REREDOSE, xcii; RERYERDOS, xcvi. The altar screen in Durham Cathedral, which the Monks were erecting at this period, and to which the Prior of Finchale contributed. "The new work called 'le Rerdoose,' at the entrance of the Choir, £69 4s."—Roll of Prior Wessington's expenses from 1416 to 1446. This was the organ screen.

RESPECTUACIO, cciii. A respiting of a reckoning; making an allowance to an accountant for money which he has not received.

RESPECTUOR, cciii. See above.

RESTWOMYLL, ccxcix; RESTWEMYLL, ibid. If we may be allowed to think this was a womble with a rest to it, then we may conjecture that it was upon a similar principle with the stock, brace, drill, or crank; for these tools are so made, that one end may rest against the breast of the workman, and the other upon the wood intended to be bored: and a womble so constructed would perform the same work as the stock and taper-shell-bit does at this day. George Jackson. One "restwymbyll" Dur. Inv., 1446.

RETHE, for Rete, a net, ccxxxiii.

* These two items are struck out with the pen.

RETRO; A RETRO, xxxviii. In ar-rear, as rent, &c.

REYNES, cccxciv. The reins of a bridle.

RIDELES, xxxvii; RIDELLI, lii; RID-DELLS, lxxix. Riddles, used in separating corn from its chaff.

RYDELLS, clv. Bed curtains.

RIDDYNG, ccliv; RYDDYNG, ccclxxxii.
Here ridding the foundation of an old house; the removing the foundation stones and ground work, to make way for a new building.

RISE, iv. Rice.

ROD, cclxxx. A measure of 16½ feet in length.

ROSTHYRNE, xxxvii; ROSTYRYN, ccxcviii. A gridiron. "Roost yron, craticula, crates." Prompt. Parv.

ROSYS, cxvii. Roses.

RUNCINUS, ii. A pony; a saddle horse of an inferior size.

RYNDE SPYNDILL, ccclvi. The mill rynd is a strong piece of iron inserted in the hole in the centre of the upper and moving mill stone. The spindle which passes through the nether mill stone being moved by the machinery, and being itself, where it enters the driver, of a square form, and fitted to a cavity of the same shape, the upper mill stone, the rynd, and the driver, all move round with the spindle. *G.
Jackson.*

RYS, cii. Rice.

RYSDAM, cccli; RYSSDAM, ccclv. The foundation of the mill-dam at Finchale, as appears by the last reference, was made of stone, but upon this there was a superstructure made of loose stones and branches of trees, and ries, or brushwood. "Rysse," from Frankland Wood, in 1515, to repair the dams of the Bishop's Mill, at Durham, cost 8d. "le fother."— Bishop's Accounts.

S.

SA, cxviii; SAA, clvii; SAY, cxviii, ccxcix. A large tub or soe. Sometimes the tub carried by two men suspended from a pole upon their shoulders. Paid for two hoops of wood for a "saa" borrowed by the slaters, 2d.—Bishop's Accounts, 7-8
Booth, 1465.

SACCELLA, lxxviii. A small sack.

SACROSANCTA, 17. Here the four gospels.

SAGIMEN, ii; SEGIMEN, xlv. Hogs-lard; or swine-same, as it is called, used in frying—and in being mixed with pitch to make sheep-salve.

SAGINATUS, iv. Fattened.

SAGUM, ccclxxxiii. Cloth of say or shag.

SAKYS, ccxcix. Sacks for corn. Sackcloth from 2d. to 3d. per yard in 1531.—Bursar's Mem.

SALSARIUM, iv, ccclxxii. A salt-cellar.

SALMO, —. A salmon. The Prior of Finchale derived great profit from his fishery of salmon. In 1531 he sold not fewer than 51½ dozen of salt salmon to the Bursar of Durham, at 5s. per doz. Fresh salmon were sold at a higher rate.
From the 1st of March, 1532, to the 13th of April following, 173 salmon were cooked in the kitchen at Durham. Many of them were purchased at Ovingham, on the Tyne. In January, a "seaym," or load, of fresh salmon, cost 9s. The price of a single fish varied during the season from 1s. 2d. to 6d. The freight of eleven barrels of salmon, from Berwick to Newcastle, cost, in 1531, 4s. 7d.—Bursar's Mem.

SALT, ccxcviii; SALTTIS, ccxcviii,
Salt-cellars.

SAMIT, lxiv. Silk.

SANAPES, lxxii; SANOPE, cxvii; SA-
VENAPES, lii; SAUVENAPES, v;
SAYFENAPES, xxxvii; SUIVENAPE,
iv. Manupiarium, manutergium, gausape, mantle. Prompt. Parv.
Corrupted from σάβανον, lintheum, and used as a save-napkin; a napkin or towel of coarser texture for ordinary occasions.

SANUS, —. Any article of husbandry, &c, good and whole—not broken.

SARCE, xxxvii. A searse; a small hair sieve, used like a colander.

SARRA, clviii. A saw.

SARRACIO, cccx. The sawing of timber.
In 1532, timber at Durham was sawn into bordis, swalles, spares, plansherts (playnshertis in 1533) for the stable; seyvorns, sparrys, walplaytts, sisparres or sysparres, wywoers, rybbs, wynd balks, stoyes, ponynchys, geysts, and stoithes. The cost for sawing

SEQUELA, 54, cckxix. The family of a nativus, or bond-man. The young of cow, mare, sheep, &c., whilst sucking, or as the phrase now is, at the foot of its mother.

SERA, for cere, wax, ccclxxxiv.

SERA. A lock. In 1532, mention is made of large locks ("seræ amplæ") "loks", "stoklokks," and "hanklokks," or "hanglokks."—Bursar's Mem.

SERICUS, clvi. Made of silk.

SERURA, lxx. A lock.

SERVICALE, clv, for Cervicale. A pillow.

SERVICIA, xlvi, for Cervisia.

SET, for Sed, passim.

SEWETT, ccxcix. Qu?

SEYFF, ccxcix; SEVF, xxxvii. A sieve. "Twa melsywys" (meal sieves).—Coldingham Inventory, 1446.

SEYTHOWSE, 96. A dwelling house; as opposed to a barn.

SEXPENYFYNE, ccccvii. A fine of sixpence; a tenure of that nature.

SHAFFIS, ccclx. Sheaves of glass. Paid 1532, for 8 "shayff brymmys-glasse," 4s. 8d.—Bursar's Mem.

SHAW, 95. Properly a shade—the shade of trees, and then the trees themselves—a wood.

SICKETTUM, 88; SIKETTUM, ib. A small water course; a sike, the word is still in use in the north.

SIGNIFERUM FERRUM, xxxvi. his. See FERRUM.

SIGNUM, ccclv. Here the Sign for a shop or tavern, probably of carved work, as it cost the large sum of 7s. 8d.

SILICO, xvii. Maslin. 1533. Paid to four girls at Beurpark, for "lesinge siliginis" for seed, 8d.; that is for removing the weeds from the dried sheaf in which they had been bound up in harvest, in order to obtain pure seed corn. See LOWKYNG, which is the process of weeding while the corn is growing. Bursar's Mem.

SILOUR, ccxcviii. Here apparently the valance of a bed. See CARD, and SYLOSING.

SILUM, cclxxxi. For Cingulum, a girdle.

SILPHUS. A cup.

SILIX, for Cirpus. A rush.

SILIX, ccccxlii. A cistern or reservoir for water. 1532. Paid to Simon Blewmynay for 5 lbs. of "souder" for "le cisteyrn aqueductus," 20d. Bursar's Mem. Simon Blewmynay, the plumber mentioned here, was the plumber of the Monastery at Durham, and received 44s. per annum as his wages. Bursar's Mem., 1530.

SKELYS, cccxlvii; SKEYLL, ccxcix. A skeel or tub for carrying water.

SKEPE, cxviii. A basket to hold the broken meat intended for the poor. See SCEPPA.

SLAUGHTERHOUSE, cccxxii. The slaughter-house.

SLYNG, ccxcix. Qu.

SMIGMA, ccxvi; SMYGMA, ccclx. Soap. Half a "barell smigmatis" was bought by the Bursar of Durham, in 1531, for 10s., of Ralph Whytwode, and an old noble of that value was paid for it to Whytwode's wife at Jarrow. In the same year two barrels were bought of "Master Swynburne for 11s. each."

SOKKYS, clviii. Plough socks.

SOLARIUM, 124. An upper room.

SOLDA, 124. A shop, a stall, a place in which things are sold.

SOMER, clvii. A pack-horse, a horse of burthen, not of draught.

SOMMAYS, cxviii. See SOMES.

SOMMER SADYLL, cxviii; SOMER-SADILL, clvii, cxxxvii. A pack-saddle, a saddle for back-burthens.

SORS FICUM, ccclxxvi. In dimidia sorte ficum. Perhaps a mistake for sporta, a basket, which is synonymous with frayl, the word generally used.

SORUS, cxviii. Dried in smoke or salt, as a herring. Harenc sor, a red herring. Cotgr. One cask of "redeheryngs," containing 450.—Bursar's Mem.

SOULSILVER, lv, lvii, lxxxvi. This word is synonymous with COQUINA, lxi, and MONIALIS, lxxxix, xci., and seems to denote the whole or a part of the wages of a retainer or servant, originally paid in food, but afterwards commuted into a money payment. Monialis may be an obsolete word, equivalent to mensa. "Sowde mede, stipendium, municipium, salarium." Prompt. Pare.—Coles has Sowl, Sool, any thing eaten with bread. In 1531, the Bursar of Durham paid "Sowlsilver" to Thomas Tempest, forester of "Beawrpark," 4½d. per week. To Thomas Whytefyld, forester of Mugliswyk; to Cuthbert Pape, carter (veridarius), per ann. 20s. To Matthew Spark, baker, 5s. 9½d., and 200 red herrings, worth 2s. To Thomas Martyn Pandozator, the same. To John Wilyamson, brewer, 4s. 9½d., and 160 red herrings, or 18d. To John Paxton, brewer, the same. To William Gamylsby, clerk of the Pandozatory, 4s. 9½d., and 100 red herrings, or 12d. To Hugh Trowytt, "warkman," 4s. 9½d. To Thomas Herryson, "fyerman," the same. To John Walker, clerk of the bakehouse, the same. To Thomas Hogeson, "fyerman" of the bakehouse, the same. To Thomas Raue, "cowper," the same. To Robert Best, "slaughterman," the same. To William Potter, "bagman," the same. To Robert Clark, "cellens ecclesie," 3s. 9½d. To Leonard Atkynson, 4s. 9½d., &c. &c. In the same year, most of these persons are again enumerated under the head Stipendia Famulorum, which they receive as something distinct from "Sowlsilver." Numerous other officers of the Convent are mentioned under this second head.—Bursar's Mem. In 1446, as appears from the Great Inventory of that year, the annual amount of "soulsilver" paid by the Convent of Durham was £10 10s. 11½d.

SOWDOWN, cxcii. Solder, used by plumbers, braziers, &c. "Souder," 3d. per lb. 1531.—Bursar's Mem.

SOWMES, clviii. Traces used in ploughing, generally of iron.

SPACIO, 28. To go out of the monastery for the purpose of pleasure or recreation.

SPADA, cxviii. Spades. When the spade was made of wood, and edged with iron, it was said to be ferro ligatus.

SPALDYNGKNYF, xxxvii. A knife used in splitting fish. In Scotland, a spalding is a small fish split and dried, and in N. R. Y., a man's legs are a-spaud when he strides, not in the way of walking, but side ways. A boy in a village school, N. R. Y. will tell his master that his pen has too much spaud, when the two members of its nib or point expand too widely when pressed upon the paper.

SPAKS, cxix. The speaks or spokes, the radii between the nave and the fellyes of a cart wheel.

SPECIES, xxiii. Spices. We give the following list of articles enumerated under the head of Species in 1530 with their prices. Pepper two "dd" (dozen lbs.) 46s. 7d. One pound in the same year was bought for 20d. Saffron (crocus), 16s. 8d. per lb. "Masses," 10s. per lb. "Clowes," 9s. per lb. "Sanders," 1s. 6d. per lb. "Gynger," 1s. 8d. per lb. "Synonum," none purchased, but in 1531, 4s. 8d. per lb. "Dayle," 6d. per lb. "Turnasille," 1s. 4d. per lb. "Anastied," 3½d. per lb. "Liquoreme," 4d. per lb. Sugar (sucrum), 7½d. per lb. The sugar was made into loaves "j loff zucarii ponderant viii lb." "Confetts," 7d. per lb. "Prunes," 1½d. per lb. A "flakett" of prunes cost 1d. "Smaltaryngs," or "corrence," 4d. per lb. "Great Rasyngs," 2d. per lb. Figs (ficus), three "fraylls and j cops," are mentioned, but the price is not given. In 1531 seven lb. "Rgoes," 4d. per lb. "Almonds," 2d. per lb. "Wardons," (wardon-pears) 250 cost 3s. 4d. at Hemmingborough, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, and the carriage from thence, 20d. In 1531, "byscaytta," "careways," and "proynex," are added to the list of spices. "Nutmuggs," are mentioned in 1532. Such is the ancient and comprehensive meaning of the word, and in this extended sense it is still in use in our kitchen preparations. But like other old words, with the vulgar, it has become limited to one single article of childish gratification—to gingerbread. "Mammy bring me home from the fair some spice." And the mother brings gingerbread accordingly. But spice in time of old, long before gingerbread was thought of, was also a treat. 1531. Spent by my servant in Newcastle,

- with E. Whytfield's boy, 7d. for spice (speciebus) 3d. The boy's spice was any thing upon which he fixed his fancy in the preceding list.
- SPENSARIUS, 88. Dispensarius, Dispensator, a steward.
- SPETYS, cxviii. Spits.
- SPICER, 91; SPYCE, ib. The man who dealt in spices. See SPECIES above. An apothecary, in the then sense of the word.
- SPIKING, lxxii; SPYKINGES, lxxiv, cccxi. Nails, so called. 1532. Paid for 20 "spykyngs" 2d., and for 100 "stobbys," for the mill of Hessyl-dem, 4d.—Bursar's Mem.
- SPYNDYLL, cccli. A spindle, the axis of a wheel.
- SPYNDYLL HWPPYS, cccli. Hoops for the end of the wood in which the spindle was placed.
- STACIO, cclxxi. The standing idle of the mill. 1515. "Paid for the decay of the milne at Durham the space of xliij weiks for lak of water that the dame was borne forthe with yse, lxxvj^s. viij^d.—Bishop's Accounts. The decay here is evidently the DECASUS of the Finchale Account Rolls. See DECASUS.
- STAG, ccxcix; STAGGE, liii; STAGGUS, xxvi; STAGHE, lxi; STAGGETTUS, xxxviii. A young horse. 1531. Paid to James Robynson, "in lybbynge, 3 staggs," 6d.—Bursar's Mem.

- STALLES, ccclxxvi. Stalls or seats in the church.
- STAMINIS, xxxvi; STAMINS, cclviii; STAMYNIS, xci; STAMYNE. Linsey-woolsey. Cloth of linen and woollen worn by the monks.
- STAMINEUS, 35. Made of stamine.
- STAMPE, ccxcix. A tool of iron used in marking cattle or vessels.
- STANBRODS, lxiv; STANEBRODS, cclxxv. Slate pins, generally made of the leg bones of sheep.
- STANDS PRO CADIS, clvi. Stands for casks in the cellar. Gan-trees.
- STANEHAMMERS, clviii. Stone-hammers, hammers used in breaking stones.
- STAPYLS, ccclx. Staples, eyes for hooks of iron.
- STATER, xxxvi. A steel-yard. 1532. Paid for "j payr ballans and j balk of yron," 4s. 8d.—Bursar's Mem. Paid to Philip Hardwareman, for a pair of "balons," with weights, to weigh the money in my Lord's Exchequer, 12d.—Bishop's Accounts. 1465. Paid for "le lasyng" of two pair "de les balance," for weighing new and old gold in my Lord's Exchequer, 2d.—Ibid. 13 Booth.
- STATHYS, cccxi. Staiths, landing places by the side of a river.

- STETHES, ccxcix. Anvils, stithies.
- STEYNG LEYD, ccxcix. Perhaps a mistake for stepyng leyd. See STEPELEDE.
- STEYNED, clv; STEWYND, cxvii. Apparently stained, of different colours. "Fanona steygnata, fortassis notis variegata ac distincta."—Du Cange.
- STIRKES, ccliii; STIRKETTUS, xxxiv; STRIKIS, ccliii; STYRKIS, cccvii. Young male cattle in their first year.
- STIRROPYRONS, ccccxiii; Stirrop-irons. The Bursar of Durham in 1530, paid 14d. to the Master of Farne for a "payr styrropyrons." Paid for "wernyshynge (varnishing) j payr spurrs and j payr styrropyrons" for the Lord Prior, 4d.—Ib.
- STOPE, clvi; STOWPES, cxvii. A stowp or drinking vessel. 1532. Paid to Robert Reynd for making 2 d. of cups (ciphorum), and 14 stoups (stoparum), for 3 days, at 3d. per day.
- STOTHUS, clvi. A stud, an ornament of silver, or other metal.
- STOTTES, lxiv; STOTTUS, xxvi. Male cattle from one to four years old.

STOWRYS, ccclv. Hedge or other stakes, here used in building a house in which the partitions appear to have been of wattle or wicker work, plastered with lime.

STRABROD, lxxxvii. Straw prods, synonymous with the thaknals of the Holy Island and Coldingham Rolls, the wooden pins or stobs used in fastening thatch to the roof of a building.

STRATA, 76. A high way.

STRALES, cxvii; STRAYLES, clv. Bed cloths, apparently blankets. "Strayle, bedcloth, Stragula." Prompt. Parv. 1531. Paid to the wife of Thomas Milner for two stones of wool, delivered at the command of the Lord Prior for "le straylls." One "payr straylls," v. vii. — Bursar's Mem.

STREYNOUR, cxviii, cclxviii. A strainer, a kitchen utensil.

STRICTUS, clvi. Pannus strictus, narrow cloth.

STUFFUM, lxxiv. In general the whole stock, a farm and its contents, dead or alive. Here it refers to a crop of corn.

SUBLIMENTUM, lxxxvi. For SUPPLEMENTUM.

SUPERALTARE, clv. This word is used in two senses—it is either the vessel for holding the Eucharist placed upon or over the altar, or it denotes a small portable consecrated altar, to be placed upon a table which had not received the benediction.

SUPEREXPENDO, lvi. To expend over and above the receipt.

SUPEREXPENSA, xxxv. Superexpensiture.

SUPERVENIENS, xliii. A comer; a stranger.

SUPPRIOR, for SUB-PRIOR, passim.

SURSUMREDDICIO, ccclxi. A surrender; a resignation of a right, real or claimed.

SUT, 98. South.

SYKETUM, 25. See SIXETUM.

SYLORING, ccxcvi. Cilerie, according to Minsh., is the ornamenting the capital of a pillar. It must be here taken for ornamenting in general. The man was a carver. See SILOUR.

SYTHES, ccccli; SYTHYS, ccxcix. Scythes.

SZOYLL, cxviii. A shovel.

T.

TABERNACULUM, ccxcii. The pix or casket placed upon or above the altar, in which the consecrated wafer was kept from one celebration to another.

TABULA, xcvi. A board, a plank of timber.

TABULA PRO ALTARI, ccxcvi. Here either the altar-table itself, or the par, a tablet generally ornamented with a representation of the crucifixion, sometimes of the most costly materials and splendid decoration, upon which each communicant in his turn imprinted the kiss of peace. The tabula or par, belonging to the Church of Durham, was a book containing the four gospels, and having on its cover "the picture of our Saviour Christ, all of silver, of goldsmith's work, all of parcel gilt, very fine to behold." A folding tabula at Holy Island, in 1367, contained the pedigree of Jesse down to Christ.

TABULACIO, cccxc. The coping of a wall.

TANCARDUS, lij; TANKARDES, xxxvii; TANKERDS, cxvii. Tankards. In the first reference they are vessels used in filling a swine-trough. In the two latter they are drinking vessels. In p. cxvii they are made of wood.

TANGS, ccxcix. Tongs.

TAPETE, cxvii; TAPETUM, xxxvi. A bed quilt, so called from its being made of patch-work.

TASCATOR, xxv. A stack-man, the maker of a stack, generally of corn.

TASSUM, iii. A corn-stack.

TEDYRS, cxviii. Tethers, chains or cords, one end of which is tied to the foot of an animal and the other to a post or tree, to prevent him from grazing upon forbidden ground.

TEGULA, in these records, and generally in the north of England during their period, means a slate-stone. The quarry at Esh was the place where the slates wanted in Durham and its neighbourhood were chiefly procured.

TELA PLUMBI, lii. A web of lead. A piece of lead of a certain size, cast,

- and ready to be laid upon the roof of a house or church.
- TELA STAMINIS, li. A web of stamine. See STAMINE, above.
- TEMES, clvii; TEMYS, cxviii. A temse, a sieve of hair cloth, used in separating flour from bran, or fine flour from that of a coarser nature.
- TENCIO, ccxxiii. Tencio Curiarum, The holding a court by the steward.
- TEND, 95; TYENDE, 39. Tithe.
- TENDE COLE, 37; TYENDE COLE, 39. Tithe coal.
- TENENDMEYTTE, 96. Fit for a tenant. in a state of repair, fit for occupation.
- TERR, ccclx. Tar.
- TESTER, li. The covering or top of a bed which rests upon the poles.
- THEAM, 86. The privilege of repossessing yourself of your nativi or bondmen, and their families and goods, wherever you may find them; saving only, that if any one of your bondmen has lived for a year and a day in any privileged town, and has been received into it's guild as a citizen, he shall be freed from villainage. This interpretation of the word Theam differs materially from that in the Law Books; but our information is obtained from an Explicatio vocum veterum in the first Cartuary of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, which, as far as the north of England is concerned, must be of high authority. See the whole Explicatio, NORTH DURHAM, Appendix, p. 106.
- THEMYS, cxcviii; Teams, cart or plough-traces.
- THEYER, lii. Apparently a rope, and probably of hair. See Jamieson. Suppl. v. THEYRS.
- THRESSWALDIS, ccclv. Thresholds, here of wood, but the word is equally applicable to stone.
- TINA, xxxvii. According to Du Cange, a great wooden vessel, used in washing or wine-making. Cotgrave has Tine, m. "a colestaffe or stang, a big staffe whereon a burthen is carried between two on their shoulders," and Tine, f. "the stand or tub itself, holding about four or five pailfulls, and commonly borne by a stang between two." The Prompt. Parv. calls a tina "a cowle (or coup) for to sette vessell."
- TORPTUM, 67. For TOFTUM.
- TONPART, 94. More usually tapart, of the one part.
- TOLL, 86. "Hoc est quod vos et homines vestri de toto humagio vestro sint quieti in omnibus mercatis de tol-neto pro omnibus rebus emptis et venditis." Explicatio voc. vel. Cart. I. f. xlv. See THEAM, above.
- TONMELE, xxxvii, cxvii; TUNMEL, clvi. A large tub or tun.
- TORALIS, ii, xxxvii, liii. Here, apparently, the malt-kiln.
- TORKWED, clviii. Torkwed pro tractu equorum, without doubt the torques, the twitch or purn (the names in common use) for the instrument applied to the nose of a vicious horse, to make it stand still during the process of shoeing. By means of a wooden handle of the size of a broomstick, a noose is tightly twisted round a portion of the nose of the animal, and by this he is so held that the least motion gives him pain. They have in Roxburghshire, according to Jamieson, the verb "to tork, to torque, to torture or give pain by the continued infliction of punctures, pinching, nipping, or scratching." Gawen Douglas, in his translation of Virgil, uses the word turkes for a pair of pincers.
- TORFE-SPAYD, ccclxiv. A turf spade.
- TORGIS, ccclxiv, ccclxxxvii. Torches. Paid to William Browne for making four "torches," 16d. 1531. To the same for "broches and torsayses," 8d.—Bursar's Mem.
- TOWELCLATH, cxvii. A towel cloth.
- TRACES, ccclxxxiii; TRAHICES, liii; TRACTUS, lvii; TRAYCES, ccclxxvi. Traces for ploughs or carts. The Bursar's Book for 1530 enumerates pyntaces, boditraces, and small-traces.
- TRAVA, xv. A thrave of corn or straw.
- TRAVA INTAMINATA, xxi. A thrave of corn in its untouched or unthrashed state.
- TRENCHORES, xxxvii; TRENCHOURS, lii. Trenchers, platters, made of tree or wood, called, in an Inventory of the Priory of Coldingham, in 1446, "trenwessell." "Sir Thomas Rokeby (of Rokeby) being controlled for first suffering himself to be served in treene cuppes, answered,

'These homely cups and dishes pay truly for that they containe: I had rather drinke out of treene and pay gold and silver, than drink out of gold and silver and make wooden payment.'"—Camden's Remains, p. 354, as quoted by Jamieson. Here is a pointed allusion to the first recourse of a landed spendthrift—the cutting down his timber to pay his debts.

TRESTELLI, iv; TRESTELLA, v; TRISTELLI, xxxvi, cxvii. The three-footed moveable supporters of the lever or planks of wood which constituted a moveable table or bench. "Payd for makynge of iiij payre of trystels, 8s."—Bishop's Accounts, 1544. We must look for the origin of this word in the Greek language—τρίς et σκαλος. The violence which the latter word has undergone is an easy one.

TRIBONS, clvi. The desks or seats of the officiating priests.

TRIBULUS, xxxvii. A spade.

TRIBULUS FERRATUS, liii. A spade of wood tipped with iron. Paid for two "ferr' tribul."—Bishop's Accounts, 39 H. 6. See VANGA.

TRONE, clvi. Trone de Troy. A steel-yard arranged according to troy-weight.

TROUDES, lxxx. Trouts.

TROW, xxxvii; TROWE, ib.; TROWYS, cxviii. Troughs.

TROY, clvi. The scale of weight so denominated.

TRULLA, xxxvii. A fishing net.

TUBBE, xxxvii; TOBYS, cxviii, Tubs.

TUELLUM, ccxcviii; TWELL, Ibid. A towel.

TURRIOLUS, x. A small tower.

TWORT-SAW, ccxcix. A thwart-saw; a cross-cut saw, the name now in use, used in sawing trees into lengths.

TWYBILL, clviii; TWYBYLL, ccxcix. A double-headed bill or hatchet, "Bipennis, twi-bille vel stan-æx."—Somn. Ælfr. Gloss. 65.

TWYLYD, ccxcviii. Twilled or quilted in the loom. A mode of weaving still practised.

TWYNTERS, ccxxxiii; TWYNTERS, ccxxxix. Cattle two winters old.

TWYRYN, ccxcix. A pair of pincers.

TYNDS, ccxcix. The teeth of a harrow.

TYNKLER, ccclxiv. A tinker.

U.

UARANTIZO, 112. To warrant.

UNGUMENTUM PORCORUM, xxxvii. Hogs-lard.

USTRENA, ccclxxxiv; USTRINA, ccclxxv. The malt-kiln.

UTENSILE—of a general meaning; as, for instance, bullockclothes, ccclxxvi.

V.

VADIUM, 54. Pledge or pawn.

VALECTUS, ccclxxvi; VALETTUS, lxxxvi. The valetti in the latter reference rank above the servants, boys, and pages.

VANGA, xxxvii. A wooden shovel used in winnowing corn, and for other purposes. In ij vangis and j tribula emptis de Christofero Atkynson iiijd. 1531.—Bursar's Mem.

VANGA FERRATA, lii. A wooden shovel tipped or mouthed with iron.

VARDA, 89, for Warda. A wardship.

VASTUM, xxiv. Here a moor, not inclosed, but productive.

VAYNCLOUTS, ccxcix. See WAYNCLOUTIS.

VECTURA, ccv. A conveyance. The conveyance of a Monk from one Monastery to another. See p. 32, 33.

VENTILABRUM, lii. A van or fan for winnowing corn.

VENTILO, v. Pannus ad ventilandum. See WYNDENECLATHE.

VENTRITICUS, cccci. Molendinum ventriticum, a wind-mill.

VINTILACIO, ccx. For Ventilacio. The winnowing of corn.

VSCHEW, 95. Issue, the right of a road out of the wood.

W.

WAINFELIES, liii. The fellies, or pieces of wood composing the rim or round of a wain wheel.

WAMETOWE, clvii, clviii. A belly-band, or girth, going from shaft to shaft beneath the belly of the animal. 1532. Paid 9 Jul. to Roger Goften, for two "wayme-towshafts," 4d.—Bursar's Mem.

WANDCLOTTIS, cxviii. V. WAYNCLOUTIS.

WANGA. V. VANGA.

WARAITACIO, clxxxvii. The fallowing of land.

WARAND, cxxxvii, cccxli; WARANTUM, ccclii; WARENTUM, cxcvii. A mill-dam. 1515. Paid "for makying of a new werre of the south syde of the dame and water at Durham, for the water lay so sore to that syde that it wastid my Lord's ground."—Bishop's Accounts. 1531. Paid to William Guby and his man at the mill of "Sheyles," for 10 days, "super le warrant" there, at 10d., 8s. 4d.—Bursar's Mem.

WARENTIA, 91. Warranty, as of land, &c.

WARANTIZO, —. To warrant a title of land, &c.

WARANTUM, cxcii. A warrant, a summons in law.

WARETTUM, xxxix. Land in fallow.

WARNESTRIA, xxxi, bis. The store or stock of provisions in hand. In N. R. Y., a thing in warmstore is a thing carefully laid up in a secure place till it be wanted.

WARROK, clvii. A warroch is in Scotland a knottystick.—(See Jamieson.)

WATERWALL, ccclxxxiii. A wall to keep the water of the mill race within due bounds.

WATLYNG, ccclxxvi. Wicker-work. Here the wicker-work of a shed for bee-hives.

WATTYLIS, ccclxxxii. Wattles; rods of hazel or other brush wood.

WAYNCLOUTIS, ccxcix. Wain clouts; perhaps clouts of iron for the wheels of wains.

WAYNSCOTS, cccv; WAYNSCOWTTES, ccclxxvi; WAYNSKOTE, ccci. Planks or boards of oak. "In empcone tabellarum de vanscot."—Coldingham Roll, 1374.

WAYNRAPE, ccxciv; WAYNRAPI, ccclx; WAYNBOPPE, cccxcviii. Ropes for wains, to secure the corn or hay with which they are laden.

WEDCHYS, ccxcix; WEGGYS, clviii; WEGGES, lxxviii. Wedges.

WEGHTES, lii. Weights. The weight is an utensil in barns resembling a sieve in shape, but made of the skin of an animal stretched over the wooden hoop in which, in the case of a sieve, the open work of the bottom is inserted. It is used in winnowing.

WEIGHES... lxxix. Probably weigh scales, for the Roll is here imperfect. See WESCHALIS.

WERE, cccl, ccclxxv; WEIR, ccclxxxii. The wear or dam of a mill, and perhaps occasionally a fish-lock.

WESCHALIS, ccxcviii. Weighing scales.

WESCHYNG, ccclxxxii. Washing; here the whitewashing or colouring of the church.

WETTHA, 134; WEY, cccxcvi. A wey; in the first instance of corn, in the second of salt.

WHELEWRIGHTES, ccclxxv; WHELEWRYGHT, cccxciv; WHELLWRYGTHIS, ccclxxviii. Wheelwrights.

WHETRIDILS, cccxlvii. Wheat riddles.

WHIKWOD, cccli, ccclxxxvii; WHYKWODE, ccclx. See QWHYKWODE. 1533. Paid for "le whyklayng" at "le arbordyk" to Ro. Stokkall and two men for 5½ days at 9d., 4s. 1½d.—Bursar's Mem. The laying here was the lowering a thin tall hedge, and laying the half cut branches horizontally along, to fill up the gaps.

WHISSYNS, ccv. Cushions. See QUYSYNES.

WITLEZTR', lxxii. The word twilling-strings occurs in an old North Riding rhyme, in a sense not very definite or delicate.

WODAXS, ccxcix. Wood axes.

WODHIRE, cccxlviii; WODEHYR, ccclxi. A small out-rent so called.

WOMBLES, ccxciv; WOMBELLIS, ccclx; WOMYLL, ccxcix. Wimbles.

WOURTFATTS, lxxviii. Wort-vats.

WYRYGTES, xxxvii. See WRYGTES.

WYMBILL, clviii; WYMBLES, cxcvii. V. WOMBLES.

WYNDENECLATHE, xxxvii; WYNDEOWCLATH, cxix; WYNDOWCLATH, clviii. A winnowing cloth; a cloth to spread upon the ground during the process of winnowing.

Y.

YALOW, clv. Yellow.

YARES, xxxii; cvii. This word in general denotes a fish-lock, and that seems to be its meaning here. Kepier, near Durham, is Kep-yare, the yare, or lock, in which fish were kep- pod, or caught. The name implies a fishery. Bradjers, p. 192, is the Broad yare. Yare, however, is sometimes taken for a mill dam, as the lock was often placed in the embankment.

YDONEUS, 109. For Idoneus.

YEGES, xxxvi. Wedges.

YELD BESTIS, clviii. Cattle either barren, not giving milk, or from their age too young to bear. This is Jamieson's account of the word; but the meaning must be extended to males not ready for profit, so as to include the stot and stirkets in the page referred to.

YEMS, —. For Hiems.

YEMALIS, —. For Hiemalis.

YERYN, cccix. Iron.

YESTEFATT, lxxviii. A vat or tub for yeast.

YETLINGE, xxxvii. A small pan.

YETLYNGPAN, cccxciv. See above.

YMAGO, ccxxii. For Imago.

YMO, 36. For Imo.

YOKKS, clviii; YOKYS, ccxcix. Yokes for oxen.

YWNNYNG, cccvi. Qu., joining, joiner work.

Z.

ZABULUM, cccxlvii. For Sabulum, sand.

ZALOW, cxvii. Yellow.

ZETTLINGS, cxviii. Yetlings, small pans.

ZONA, clvi. A girdle.

J. R.

ADDENDA TO THE GLOSSARY.

DE UNO DEO DANTE, p. cviii and cccxxvi. After all, this may perhaps be nothing more than a Deodand. The money so levied was generally paid over to the church, as a recompense for religious services to be performed for the soul of the deceased.

GERMA, cccxxxix. The charter which Mr. Surtees mistook is printed above, p. 143.

LAVACRUM, cccxxxiv. Add the following extract from the Will of John Casson, of West Newbiggin, dated 6 June, 1580:—"To my said son John a brasse pot, and a brasse laver like unto a horse, being heir limes upon the house." This may have been the very article of furniture previously possessed by the Monks of Finchale.

J. R.

ADDENDUM.

"Thyse bene the costes & charges leyde owte & payde by John Thurgoode lorde of Mysrule with the Princesse grace in Crystmas tyme the xiiij yere of the Reigne of Kynge Henry the viij.

Imprimis, &c.

Item pd. to a man at Wyndesore for kyllyng of a calffe before my lady's grace behynde a clothe 8^d."

The above is the calf killing long before Shakespear's period, referred to in the preceding Glossary under the word PLAER-CHAMBRE, and to which we had mislaid our reference. It is extracted not from any miscellaneous publication, but from Mr. Payne Collier's most valuable History of English Dramatic Poetry, &c., Vol. I., p. 90.
